SALES TAX BILL
ILLINOIS SENATEMeasure Coming Up
Again Tuesday.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
Springfield, Ill., Feb. 9.—[Special.]—In the first major test of its control of the general assembly, so far as the senate is concerned, the Horner administration was defeated today.

The general three per cent sales tax bill, which needed 34 votes, failed. The vote was 25 to 12. Ten members declined to vote. Those ten and the twelve negatives came from territory hostile because of one of two reasons—they represented middle-sized cities or spoke for districts along the state border line.

After the battle was over there was a bit of parliamentary procedure which saved for the bill a breath of life. This consisted of agreement to postpone its further consideration until next Tuesday. Because of this strategy the vote was not announced although it was known to members, press gallery and spectators.

Nine Votes Are Needed.

Thus if nine votes can be swung over the week-end, a process which failed this morning, the bill might pass so far as the senate is concerned. But there is still the house of representatives to consider and there is more hostility toward the sales tax in the smaller towns and cities, in which so many of the lower house members live, that the bill faces dubious welcome.

As a means of solving the roller question, the senate refused to admit that a general sales tax would meet the needs of the situation. Senator Martin R. Carlson (Rep., Moline) started the ball along the track taken by most of those voting "present" by refusing to vote upon the bill until it was placed, in amended form, upon his desk.

"It has been customary," he said, "to have the name reached on roll call, to have the printed bill, to yesterday, on our desks before we vote. My vote will come after I have seen the bill corrected as to amendments."

Wants to Report Home.

"I've got to report back home on this and I'd much rather know what I am voting for before I cast my vote. Therefore, I vote present."

This opened the way for nine other downvoters to take similar stands. Almost all gave the same reasons for withholding their decision, but little indication was made as to how many of these will vote for the bill even when they have it in its amended form before them.

The "no" voters were not hesitant. Charles J. Krebs (Dem., Prairie du Rocher) said that his people were unalterably opposed to a sales tax. So did H. S. Burgess (Dem., Fairfield). Earl B. Seary (Rep., Springfield) declared that the bill would accomplish none of the things claimed for it and was "wofully inadequate."

Roll Call on Bill.

All Cook county members voted for the bill. The roll call was as follows:

FOR THE BILL (25):
REPUBLICANS—Barbour, Barr, Benson, Bushnell, Leonard, Morris, Roberts, Serrin, Tella, Woods—9.
DEMOCRATS—Broderick, Carroll, Clifford, Gilmester, Graham, Harkin, Kleinmiller, Loughran, Maypole, McDermott, Mendel, O'Connell, O'Grady, Shaw, Vogelzang, Ward—16.

AGAINST THE BILL (12):
REPUBLICANS—Quinn, Seary—2.
DEMOCRATS—Bucke, Burgess, Kane, Krebs, Lohmann, Mayor, Monroe, Penick, Sieben, Stettin—10.

VOTING PRESENT (10)
REPUBLICANS—Saker, Carlson, Lantz, Wright—4.
DEMOCRATS—Behrmann, Finn, Hickman, Karsner, Mundy, Williams—6.

Senators Ewing, Paddock and Thompson were absent.

Vote to Reconsider Bill.

Secretary Eden had finished the roll call but had not announced the vote when Senator Francis J. Loughran (Dem., Chicago), who introduced the sales tax and is handling it for the administration, arose.

"In view of the fact," he said, "that most members who refrained from voting did so because the bill in amended form was not upon their desks, I ask that further consideration be postponed until next Tuesday, when they can read it."

"Why not have copies mailed to members at their homes?" suggested Richard J. Barr (Rep., Joliet). Loughran accepted this amendment and the senate adjourned.

Says Spanish
Prince, Cuban
Girl May Wed

BY JAY ALLEN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
MADRID, Spain, Feb. 9.—Alfonso, prince of the Asturias, former crown prince of Spain, would like to marry a pretty Cuban girl if certain indiscretions perpetrated here today are to be believed.

In the corridors of the cortes this afternoon the Rev. Basilio Alvarez, a lame priest famed as one of the most flamboyant republican orators, called every one around him and in a stage whisper announced that his friend, the dean of the cathedral of Madrid, who returned today from Paris, has been asked by young Alfonso to get hold of the documentation necessary to marry the lovely Señora de Pedro, who, of course, has no pretensions whatever to royal blood.

Royal Parent Objects.

The young woman is understood to have met the prince when he was in a sanatorium at Lausanne, Switzerland. She is reported to be the daughter of a Cuban family resident in Paris. The sick prince's attentions to her, however—first at Lausanne then at Paris—are understood to have aroused his royal parent's extreme displeasure.

To marry her he would need his birth and baptismal certificates which are in the royal archives, padlocked in the ministry of justice. Alvaro do Albornoz, minister of justice, said to night nothing could be taken from the archives without his approval, and he had received no such request.

If young Alfonso really desires the wedding it would appear that the publicity has lessened his chances. It is inconceivable to expect ex-King Alfonso to permit such a thing, not only for reasons of royal pride but because his son is sorely afflicted with hemophilia, a disease whose victims are subject to profuse bleeding from slight scratches.

Offered to Help.

Father Alvarez explained that his friend, Dean Mudarra, who, though a republican, was once secretary to Alfonso of Orleans, had seen the prince of the Asturias in Paris and offered to help him with the romance.

Doctors who have cared for the prince, who is 25 years old, say there is a good possibility that any children he might have would escape his disease.

Politically such a marriage is not the slightest importance, as it is an open secret that young Alfonso already has relinquished his claim to the throne to his healthy brother, Infante Don Juan, the third son. Only the refusal of the Carlist branch of the Bourbon family to recognize Juan as the sole pretender has kept ex-King Alfonso from confirming publicly his own abdication in favor of his third son.

BOMB DAMAGES
MOTION PICTURE
HOUSE IN GARY

The Palace theater, a motion picture and vaudeville house at 8th avenue and Broadway, Gary, was damaged by a bomb hurled from a passing automobile in which three men were riding shortly after 3 o'clock this morning, and Chicago police were asked to be on the lookout for the bombers, who sped in this direction. The bomb landed in the lobby of the theater, which is the largest in the city, and did some damage to the lobby. Windows were also broken in four stores across the street. The total damage was estimated at $1,000.

The theater is in the hands of a receiver, V. U. Young. Recently he has been employing a nonunion operator and police said threats to damage the place if he were not removed were sent to Young. When the threats were received a watchman was placed on guard. He was on duty this morning and he and a policeman on the corner fired several shots at the bombers' car. George Valchis, business agent of the Gary Motion Picture Operators' union, was taken into custody for questioning.

SACRAMENTO MAIL
TRUCK ROBBED; LOOT
PLACED AT $325,000

Sacramento, Cal., Feb. 9.—[AP]—More than $325,000 in currency and Bank of America bonds were stolen by three bandits in a daring holdup at the main postoffice at 7th and K streets here tonight.

The bandits disarmed a truck driver and an armed guard on the loading platform in the rear of the postoffice building, grabbed a double locked sack of outgoing registered mail, and vanished in the downtown traffic.

Although an exact check had not been completed, postal inspectors said at least $195,000 in currency, largely in small bills, and approximately $200,000 in Bank of America bonds were stolen.

Three men, all wearing handkerchiefs, drove into California street, an alleyway in the rear of the postoffice, and parked a large sedan. Timing their arrival to the instant that a truck had arrived from the terminal station to take registered mail to the Southern Pacific station on C. Swan, son, the truck driver, who drew his pistol but was overpowered, disarmed, and warned to be quiet. Then two of the men leaped upon the loading platform, and as W. E. Williams, armed guard who accompanies all registered mail trucks, stepped from the rear door of the postoffice, the two bandits met him with revolvers.

Plane Bombs
Runaway Ship;
12 Men Killed

BATAVIA, Java, Feb. 10 [Friday].—[AP]—The native crew of the Dutch battleship De Zeven Provinciën, who mutinied and seized the vessel last Sunday and then steamed into the open ocean, made a quick surrender early today when a naval fighting plane dropped a bomb on the mutineers. Twelve men were killed and 25 injured.

The commander of the squadron's flagship, the cruiser Java, sent a seaplane to attack when they refused to surrender, and the first bomb to strike the ship induced the mutineers to yield. The bomb set the ship afire, whereupon the survivors of the crew hastily launched boats and began to evacuate the stolen battleship.

The battleship was steaming slowly in the direction of Sourabaya, Java, when the squadron sighted it at dawn. The commander of the squadron radioed the mutineers, peremptorily ordering them to strike their flag unconditionally, otherwise he would use force to compel them. They were ordered to heave to the ship and show a white cloth on the awning deck. He gave them ten minutes to comply, but the mutineers replied curtly, "Don't hinder us."

Thereupon one of the navy planes dropped a bomb alongside the De Zeven and the attack began. At 9:18 a. m. (Java time) the mutineers yielded after a bomb struck the deck.

The fire seemed not serious, as the ship continued to send radio messages. The eight Dutch officers who were held prisoners by the mutineers apparently were safe.

Kidnaped Nine Officers.

The mutinous sailors kidnaped nine officers and put out to sea with the ship from Oeish, Sumatra, before dawn on Sunday while the commander and some of the petty officers were ashore. They were disgruntled because of a wage cut.

The commander saw the ship weigh anchor and commandeered the government vessel Aldebaran and set out in pursuit, but later changed his mind, fearing the mutineers would escape. The Aldebaran began to run short of fuel.

The entire Dutch East Indies fleet was ordered to join the pursuit. The chase was led by the cruiser Java, which summoned the rest of the fleet. Additional naval units were mobilized at the naval station at Sourabaya, Java, which the mutinous crew had announced was its destination. This much as the battleship carries no anti-aircraft guns, naval authorities were certain that an attack from the air would succeed.

CHICAGO PUBLIC
DEBTS INCREASE
2 MILLION IN '32Finance Simplified to Family Terms.

Picture of Taxes

A survey made public by County Treasurer McDonough gives picture of reductions in 1931 tax bills, which may range as high as 48 per cent. Details on page 4.

County board upsets its own budget cutting figures, boosting estimate of tax collections to permit increase of more than $2,000,000 in 1933 budget. Details on page 4.

BY JOSEPH ATOR.

The board of education lived more than $5,000,000 beyond its cash income in 1932. The city finished the year less than half a million deeper in debt than when it started and the county's obligations increased by more than a million and a half. Taken as a whole, however, the total obligations of the major governments of Chicago increased less than $2,000,000 last year, due to reductions in their debts accomplished by the sanitary district, Lincoln and south park boards, and public library.

The ordinary citizen who attempts to find out the financial condition of the governments which his taxes support frequently finds himself baffled by such technical phrases as anticipated revenue, appropriations, paper surpluses, tax levies, and loss of cost of tax collection, with intricate balance sheets listing millions in anticipated assets from uncollected taxes and other revenue.

In Terms of the Family Budget.

But if the citizen knows that he owed $1,000 at the beginning of 1932 and that he finished the year $200 in debt it requires no fancy accounting system to show him that he lived $1,000 beyond his cash income during the year. An attempt was made to represent the financial situation of various local governments by this same variety of single entry book-keeping familiar to family budget makers.

The amounts by which the various governments decreased or increased the total of their debts in all forms during the year 1932 follow:

| Taxing body—                 | debt—       |
|------------------------------|-------------|
| Board of education.....      | $5,000,000 |
| City.....                    | 470,251     |
| County.....                  | 1,618,306   |
| Tuberculosis sanitarium..... | 107,633     |
| Library.....                 | 161,000     |
| Sanitary district.....       | $3,765,450 |
| Lincoln park.....            | 1,348,450   |
| South park.....              | 3,470,780   |

Debts of All Kinds Included.

Under the term debts in the above tabulation were included both fixed debts or bond issues and floating or short term debts, into which classification fall tax warrants, unpaid salaries and bills, unpaid judgments and job contracts, and any other obligations for which the government in question must some day pay out some of the cash which it receives from tax revenue or other sources.

It should be understood, of course, that, while several of the major governments contracted more obligations during the year than they collected in revenue, all of the debts were contracted strictly according to law and under budgets which balanced against the new liabilities and against liabilities of prior years an equal sum in assets, real or anticipated.

Tax Income Uncertain.

There is a vital difference, however, between the liabilities of these taxing bodies and their anticipated assets, which consist principally of uncollected taxes. The heads of these governments know that if they are to continue to function they must eventually pay their debts. Neither they nor any one else knows whether the uncollected taxes which they balanced against these liabilities in their budgets will ever be collected in full.

The citizens' committee on public expenditures had this in mind when it persuaded the various local governments to set certain limits on their 1933 tax levies. The tax levies are the assets against which the governments will balance the liabilities which they will incur this year, and since they are not to be collected until some time in 1934 they must be regarded, now as taxpayers' assets. Nevertheless, they set a limit upon the amount of liabilities which the governments may incur this year, and would succeed.

Trap 2 Youths
in New Lindy
Kidnap Plot

Roanoke, Va., Feb. 9.—[Special.]—After a silent campaign that lasted for two months Roanoke police today captured two men who they charge attempted to extort $17,000 from Col. Charles A. Lindbergh.

Two letters were received by the colonel, each alleged to have threatened to kidnap the colonel's second son unless the money was paid. The Roanoke police last fall received the information from federal authorities and went to work on the case, the culmination of which was the arrest of Joe Bryant, 19, and Norman Harvey, 26, of Weaver Heights, a Roanoke suburb. The two men and Mrs. Ethel Harvey, who was with her husband when he was arrested, were detained for the federal officers.

Out Demands to $17,000.

Robert C. Johnson, chief of the Roanoke police identification bureau, who as "John J. Jones" carried on a protracted correspondence, the letters being left in a stump in the wooded section of Weaver Heights, was one of the arresting officers. Bryant and Harvey were arrested as the result of a ruse when Bryant went to a Roanoke bank to cash a check for $17,000. The check was left in the stump some days ago.

From $50,000 the letter writers cut their demand to $25,000, and then to $17,000 when the letters from "Jones" revealed that this amount was all that he could raise.

Bryant walked into the State and City bank at noon today and went to the window at which W. M. Skelton is teller. Teller and cashiers had been tipped off to be on the alert for this check and Mr. Skelton recognized it at once.

Wants Money in Big Bills.

"All right, just a minute," said Skelton as he handed the check to Leigh Stevens, assistant cashier, and asked him to get the bundle of money ready.

"How do you want it?" Skelton inquired of Bryant.

"Make it in big bills," he replied. Stevens took a money sack and left to get the money ready. Instead he telephoned police headquarters, then took his time to tie up several pads of blank receipts that were nearly the size of currency. He tied the package and placed it in the sack. When he returned to the window he saw plain clothes men were waiting and turned the bag over to Skelton, who handed it to Bryant.

Smiles as He Gets "Money."

"Thank you," murmured Bryant as he walked away smiling. Policeman Johnson and Howard Ferguson, a special officer, followed Bryant. A block away Bryant was joined by Harvey and when Harvey sighted Johnson he ran. Bryant then went to a parked automobile occupied by Harvey's wife and a child. Johnson took Bryant and the woman to police headquarters. Ferguson waited; Harvey soon returned and was arrested.

Officer Johnson began on the case early in December when the Roanoke police first received their information. He registered at a hotel, represented himself as Col. Lindbergh's secretary and entered into a lengthy correspondence.

It took many days for the letters to disappear, but through their exchange plans were laid for "John J. Jones."

stoned force would be sufficient to prevent further danger.

Throughout the battle several fire companies were kept busy pouring water on the Danforth-Midland property and the adjoining Pure Oil company yards. A lumber yard also was protected.

No injuries due to the fire were reported, but Fireman Robert Callahan, 2600 North Lawrence avenue, suffered from frostbite on his feet and hands.

Open Shelter Station.

Supt. John Holub of the Excelsior Steel Furnace company, 1224 Hooper street, established his building as a relief station for firemen overcome by the cold and sheltered more than 100 at various times.

The elevator, taken over by the Rosenbaum concern from the Armour Grain company, was the last grain storage place remaining on Goose island. It was said it was not likely to be rebuilt there, as elevator men would prefer in future to be located where both the lake and the Illinois waterway can be reached easily.

Large grain vessels find it difficult to go up the north branch of the river at various times.

P. D. Armour built the elevator in 1898 while he was engaged in a titanic struggle in the wheat pits with Joseph L. Armour's foresight in building elevators was partly responsible for his whipping Lister to the tune of $100,000.

Three of the structures were put up in a month and were afterward known as "Armour's 30 day elevators." The other two were built in December, one in 1920 and the other in 1922.

All were operated in recent years by Rosenbaum Grain corporation.

Several thousand persons braved the cold to watch the spectacular blaze, and a detail of police men were called out to keep them from getting too close to the elevator.

Low Readings in Suburbs.

The official minimum temperature yesterday was recorded at the University of Chicago observatory. Many of the suburbs to the west and north, and even to the south, recorded unofficial marks from five to ten degrees colder.

Niles and Niles Center each reported -27, Morton Grove -28, and Libertyville -30.

Only four times in the sixty-two years of the weather bureau's history in Chicago has a lower mark than 19 below been registered. It was 23 below on Dec. 24, 1872; 20 below on Jan. 8, 1875, and Jan. 25, 1897, and 21 below on Feb. 9, 1899.

From 1899 until yesterday the coldest day was Feb. 15, 1905, when the mark was 23 below.

Practically the entire United States was in the grip of the intense cold wave yesterday. Only one reporting station at 7 a. m. had a temperature that was not below normal. This one station was Reno, Nev. Last night conditions were slightly improved.

There were three cities with above normal readings—Miami, Fla., Fresno and San Francisco, Cal.

However, the hope of abatement in weather conditions lay last night in the fact that Canadian and northwestern points which had extremely low temperatures on Wednesday had seen their thermometers go up twenty to thirty degrees.

Downstate Illinois suffered as severely as any other part of the country, and several cities had temperatures below those of Chicago. At Morris, where the low was 22, the Illinois river froze over and dredging work on the waterway was discontinued.

Rockford reported -25, Freeport and Kenosha -26, Kankakee -21, Bloomington and Galesburg -20.

The state highway department announced at Springfield that all primary highways had been dug out since the snow of Monday and Tuesday and are all passable.

The cold wave had spread to the east and New York, which had a maximum temperature of 63 on Wednesday, slipped in 10 above yesterday. Temperatures at or near zero extended far into the southland.

In Chicago the public schools were all open. 80 were the public institutions of the Catholic church. Attendance, however, was only 15 per cent, and the lower grades of the public schools were dismissed at noon.

Today, it was announced, the public schools will be open, but the parochial schools will be kept closed until Tuesday. Supt. William J. Bogan of the public schools, said last night that some one representing himself as the superintendent had called several radio stations and asserted falsely that there would be no school today.

Suburban Schools Close.

In the suburbs three high schools, Proviso Township, Sterling Heights and Waukegan Township, will be closed. The Maywood, Cicero, and Waukegan elementary schools will be open. The Cicero elementary schools will not open until Tuesday.

Niles Center, Park Ridge, and Des Plaines schools are to be open.

Within the city transportation agencies were functioning in normal style. The elevated lines reported an increase in the number of passengers carried, and he surface lines and bus lines a decrease. All were out with moderating weather today the movement of interurban traffic would be restored to average volume.

Taxicabs had better business than usual.

The extreme cold caused hundreds of frostbitten ears and noses in the city. The county hospital alone treated 100 patients. A few more serious cases of frozen feet were reported.

Last night, although the official thermometers indicated a slight thaw, many suburbs were insisting that they still have terribly cold weather. Cicero reported 12 below, Riverside and La Grange the same; Morton Grove and Niles Center, 16 below; Flossmoor, 20 below; and Forest Park, River Forest, and Willow Springs all 10 below.

EXTREME COLD REDUCES CITY'S FOOD SUPPLIES

Butter, Eggs Higher; Vegetables Nipped.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Subzero temperatures that have taken their toll in perishable foodstuffs from Wisconsin to Texas and even into the Imperial valley of California gave warning yesterday that Chicago's food supplies will be reduced materially in the next fortnight.

Transportation agencies and the merchants handling wholesale supplies of fruits and vegetables, milk and poultry products told the graphic story as revealed in piles of telegrams and weather reports from the sources of supply. At the same time they cautioned city consumers against the possibility of retailers attempting to take undue advantage of the situation by boosting their prices.

The weather has had a decided effect upon the butter and egg market. Wholesale prices advanced 3 cents per pound of butter and dozen of eggs this week. Railroads last night were not accepting eggs, fruits or vegetables unless the shipper would waive damage claims from frost.

Egg and Milk Production Drops.

The existing supply of eggs from country points was being moved into Chicago in sufficient quantities to prevent shortage, but the extreme temperatures were declared to be reducing the output of flocks. Dairy cows also produce less milk in cold weather, consuming less water and in turn reducing the creamery production of butter.

Dairy companies yesterday continued to announce that normal deliveries of fresh milk and cream were being maintained. But while the milkmen waded through snowdrifts to the doorsteps of the city, milk trucks were equipped with snowplows to open up country roads so that farmers might get their milk to a main highway or country milk plant.

Drifted country roads were reported being opened yesterday for the first time in sections of Wisconsin, Illinois and Indiana, according to A. M. Krahl of the Pure Milk association. One outfit at Crete, Ill., filled three tank trucks with water for ballast to push an 8 foot snow plow through drifts in Will and Cook counties. Another was operating between Delavan and Burlington, Wis.

Cold Nips Vegetables.

Vast areas of growing vegetables in California, Texas and Louisiana were nipped by temperatures as low as 16 below. In Texas, where the cold was held in storage in northwest states were frozen in the bins, while spinach, lettuce, cabbage, strawberries, beans, peas and cauliflowers almost ready for harvesting and shipping to Chicago from Gulf and Pacific coast areas were seriously damaged.

For the first time in five years the wholesale fruit auction at 27th and South Woods streets held only three sales of fruits and vegetables this morning. Yesterday's sales total 42 carloads was announced as the last until next Monday. In the South Water and Fulton markets extra precautions were necessary to protect shipments arriving and those being relayed to outlying retail markets.

At the stockyards, curtailed shipments of hogs this week forced a slight advance in wholesale pork prices. A warning was issued by packers against drastic increases in retail prices, which they say they have to be justified by supplies of lamb and beef from storage were reported to assure a low priced meat supply for Chicago during the cold spell.

Too Cold to Reach Court, He Writes; Case Dropped.

Richard Ott, 4034 North LaVergne avenue, a railroad brakeman, arrested two weeks ago for a traffic violation, failed to appear yesterday in the Speeders' court. When his name was called, the bailiff handed Judge Thomas A. Green a letter from Ott. It said: "I have not been able to get home since Tuesday because of the weather. Will you please continue my case until it gets warm?" Judge Green commended Ott for being conscientious and ordered the case dismissed.

16 Below, House Afire, Boy in Nightgown Asks for Pin!

Walla Walla, Wash., Feb. 9.—(AP)—It was 16 below zero here this morning and the house of V. E. Butcher was on fire. Firemen ran up the front steps, but stopped in astonishment. With flames licking behind him the four-year-old son of the butcher family was standing barefoot on the frozen porch, clad only in a night gown open down in front. Pointing to his gaping raiment the boy said calmly to Assistant Fire Chief John Casey: "Mister, have you got a pin?"

Neighbors Row on Snow Shoveling; One Is Jailed

A quarrel over the shoveling of snow from one back yard to another last night ended with Charles Flala, 2655 South Trumbull avenue, city watchman in the 26th ward yard office, in a cell, charged with assault and carrying a concealed weapon. His neighbor, Frank Hodinas, 2622 South Grange avenue, objected to the shoveling of snow into his yard and Flala drew a gun and threatened to shoot him. Hodinas charged.

WEATHER MAN LETS US ALL IN ON HIS SECRETS

Cold, It Seems, Is Due to Low Pressure Areas.

Everybody knows it's cold. But only a scant few Chicagoans beside Chief Forecaster C. A. Donnell of the weather bureau know why, and the rest will never learn. It's too complex. In his series about the Federal building yesterday Forecaster Donnell struggled to impart his comprehension of the causes of the atmospheric phenomenon in such phrases as "barometric gradient," "high and low pressure areas," etc. After which he threw up both hands and admitted, "It's just one of those things."

Too many elements fundamental to which behavior of the universe enter into the matter to permit more than the rudimentary facts to register deeply on the average mentality. We have to go back to the sun and the varying intensity of heat radiated toward the earth, Mr. Donnell explained for one of the main causes of the chilly effect.

Sun's Heat Output Varies.

"Weather goes back to the sun's effect on the earth," he explained, "and in general is caused by the fact that the sun's output of heat varies greatly between the polar and equatorial regions. You have a lot of air up north and warm air toward the equator. You have different surfaces, water and land, and on the land, mountains and valleys, and deserts, and stretches of thick vegetation."

A driver making deliveries in a sled got out and walked uphill from Ohio street to the bridge along Michigan avenue to lighten his horse's load.

Soon in loop department stores a woman buying a dress had to be helped by a man in a sled to get out and walk uphill from Ohio street to the bridge along Michigan avenue to lighten his horse's load.

Two bus trips through Lincoln park revealed only two children playing in the snow with sleds, and no pedestrians.

Cold Rushes to Low Pressure.

"Heavy air makes high pressure areas and light air makes low pressure areas. You get a high pressure area built up somewhere up in Alaska, which is precisely what happens here, and if there happens to be a low of it an area of low pressure, as happened in Chicago, the cold snap is on its way immediately, rushing down to fill up the low pressure area. Snow makes a great difference in the air at any point at the low point, keeping the air changing, as well as the fact that the earth makes a complete rotation on its axis once a day. That explains why, with all these varying influences eternally at work, weather cannot be predicted with any 'certainty' more than a few days in advance."

Flat Dwellers Offer Ideas on Keeping Warm.

Dr. Bundesen Warns City Landlords.

The big problem of flat dwellers in these days of frigid temperatures is to keep warm, and that is the subject of many telephone calls to newspapers and the board of health. Some call to register complaints, some to tell of mastering the problem, and others to keep what tenants may have warm and contented and to the fact that coal is distributed on a wide scale by the relief agencies. Nevertheless, more than thirty complaints a day have been coming in since the beginning of the sub-zero wave and Dr. Bundesen again warned landlords of the provisions of the city heating ordinance.

68 Degrees During Day.

The ordinance requires owners of apartment houses to maintain temperatures of 68 degrees at 6:30 a. m., and 62 degrees at 6:30 p. m., after which there is no legal minimum.

One apartment tenant said he had found it helpful to place an electric fan behind the steam radiator. The heat report of many apartment house residents supplement their steam radiators with small electric heaters and others turn on the gas and open the kitchen oven. Dealers in wood report a fine business supplying houses for enough to heat their homes.

Investigations have shown, according to Dr. Bundesen, that many complaints about the lack of heat arise from some dispute between landlord and tenant over failure to keep up the rent or service of notices to move. Some landlords frankly admit Dr. Bundesen said that they feel no obligation to keep flats warm when tenants are working and still refuse either to pay rent or move out.

"Consideration is shown," he said, "to landlords who are short of funds because of nonpayment of rent, but they must cooperate to provide adequate heat so that colds and pneumonia will be kept at a minimum."

Gas Consumption Up.

The subnormal cold has swollen the consumption of gas, electricity, coal and wood, utility companies and dealers report. Many apartment house residents supplement their steam radiators with small electric heaters and others turn on the gas and open the kitchen oven. Dealers in wood report a fine business supplying houses for enough to heat their homes.

Police Decide Wounded Merchant Shot Himself

John F. Leverington, 67 years old, 4605 Congress street, owner of a notions store and subpost station at 421 South Cicero avenue, who was shot in the head Wednesday night, probably shot himself, Fillmore police said yesterday. At Francis T. Willard hospital, where he is in a critical condition, Leverington refused to explain.

Head of Sanitarium Wins Dismissal of Assault Case

Dr. Percy L. Clark, 60 years old, head of a sanitarium at 2637 Prairie avenue, was dismissed yesterday by Municipal Judge Samuel H. Trude on a charge of assault and battery preferred by Mrs. Libby Cohn, 1856 Independence boulevard, who charged that he struck her with his cane when she tried to get her sister out of his sanitarium.

Motorists Expect Warmer Weather; Buy Licenses

Despite the cold, 2,705 motorists applied for city vehicle license tags yesterday, the cost amounting to $27,050. State license plates to the number of 1,455 were issued, $1,454 being collected on them.

NOTES OF RECORD COLD WAVE

Old fashioned ear muffs may not be mentioned in the latest Paris and London style letters, but their use will save Chicago citizens from painfully frostbitten ears during the present subzero wave, President Bundesen of the board of health said yesterday.

Frostbite, in subzero temperatures, frequently attacks the extremities before they are aware of it, and its prevention is easier and much less painful than its cure, Dr. Bundesen pointed out. Warm and sensible clothing, preferably all or part wool, is the best protection, he said. Women are not possessed themselves with heavy fur coats if they venture out wearing sheer silk stockings and low shoes, he pointed out.

If your ears, hands or toes become frostbitten, Dr. Bundesen advises, go into a warm room as quickly as possible. There rub the ears gently with snow. Rough rubbing injures the skin. Frostbitten fingers or toes should be placed in cold water for about 15 minutes, and cold cloths may be applied to the ears.

If the parts are bitten so badly that they rot and swell, lotions or ointments should be applied, and they should then be covered with soft bandages. Frostbite is frequently a serious matter, which should be attended to by a physician after first aid has been applied, Dr. Bundesen said.

A young woman working in the Tribune Tower was walking across the Michigan avenue bridge yesterday when a young man stopped her with a swordstick. "I'm sorry, but your nose is frozen," he said. She ignored him. When she reached the Tower a physician assured her it was indeed frozen.

HOOPER TO SAIL FOR CANAL ZONE NIGHT OF MARCH 4

Strangers meeting in buses or passing on the street amidst each other. Bus drivers stopped for passengers where no bus stops were indicated. An elderly man with a white coat, and wearing a raccoon coat and peaked cap, stopped as he was climbing into his motor car on Astor street and asked a young mother with her child if he might take her anywhere.

A woman in a Persian lamb coat buying groceries in a grocery on the near north side, accompanied by her chauffeur, asked several women shoppers if she might drive them home.

Billboard apparel noted: a stocking cap worn by a man who confessed it had lain in the cedar chest since he left Dartmouth 20 years ago. A knit cap worn under the uniform cap of a mailman. A mink coat combined with old-fashioned black woolen mittens. A colored Sunday supplement wrapped around the ankles in snappy fashion, as spats are worn, on the feet of a smiling Negro. Burlap sacks around the legs of hobos along Madison street near Canal. Hunting coats, lined with sheepskin, high laced boots and army pants, worn by La Salle street band salesmen.

A loop auto parking station put a snow plow in use yesterday to take out parked cars.

A strong odor of mothballs was evident in street cars and buses.

Two men, walking along Sheridan road, were seen to stop, reach down for handfuls of snow, and rub their faces with it to keep them from freezing.

Three women emerged from a Lake Shore drive apartment building clad in all trousseau and boues.

An afternoon spent in the loop failed to reveal a single panhandler.

Joan O'Neil, 90 years old, 147th street and Cleveland avenue, Harvey, and Florence Runge, 25 years old, of 3143 York street, Blue Island, pooled their resources and purchased a marriage license yesterday. They didn't have carfare left.

Women living in apartments along the boulevards skirting the south park system carried steaming coffee to workers clearing the snow from the boulevards.

Married 34 Years.

Quietly, and with only a few close friends called in to help them celebrate, Mr. and Mrs. Hoover tomorrow will observe their 34th wedding anniversary.

The chief executive and first lady have not planned any elaborate celebration, but will be hosts at dinner to a small gathering.

Herbert Hoover, young mining engineer and recent graduate from Stanford university, was married to Miss Lou Henry, herself then a recent Stanford student, in Monterey, Cal., on Feb. 10, 1899. The young engineer took his bride to China.

NEWSPAPER TAX IS URGED TO PAY OLD AGE PENSION

Olympia, Wash., Feb. 9.—(AP)—Representative Joseph Koehler, Democrat of Snohomish, intends to have the daily newspapers of the state pay the state old age pension.

Koehler has a bill for introduction in the house tomorrow which would tax each copy of a newspaper sold and will make it unlawful to exact any portion of the tax from subscribers.

The tax would be levied upon a graduated scale and would go into effect April 1 with a $5,000 fund as the goal. The proposed rate is one-tenth of one cent on each of the first 15,000 copies; one-fourth between 15,000 and 25,000; one-third between 25,000 and 50,000, and one-half cent in excess of 50,000.

Caught in Avalanche of Coal; Slightly Hurt

Kenosha, Wis., Feb. 9.—[Special.]—When 40 tons of coal were released in a coal chute in the North Western railroad yards at Bain station today, John Wilson, 40, a laborer, was caught in the avalanche of coal. Fellow workmen extricated him and rushed him to the Kenosha hospital where it was found he was only slightly hurt.

Going Fishing with Three Cabinet Aids and Son.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9.—(AP)—Early on the night of March 4, a private citizen once more, Herbert Hoover will board the liner Pennsylvania at New York for a cruise to the Panama Canal Zone and another fishing expedition in tropical waters.

Immediately after shaking hands with Franklin D. Roosevelt on the steps of the capitol and extending his congratulations to the newly inaugurated President, Mr. Hoover will make a hurried dash for New York. The Pennsylvania will be held six hours beyond its usual sailing time for him.

With a party of four or five, including his son Allen and probably three of his cabinet officers, Mr. Hoover now plans to do his fishing from the yacht Kenkora II, owned by Kenneth Smith of Chicago.

At present the line-up for the fishing party is Mr. Hoover, Allen, Secretary Miller, Wilbur, and Hyde, and Lawrence Ridgey, one of the President's secretaries. This list, however, is subject to change.

Wife Will Go West.

Under this plan Mrs. Hoover will accompany the group to New York by train, and then travel across the continent to her Palo Alto, Cal., home, in order to have it ready for extended occupancy by the time Mr. Hoover arrives.

The yacht Kenkora II was sailed in Chicago several months ago for customs violations.

Mr. Smith, its owner, paid a $10,000 fine. Customs officials said they found aboard the yacht a supply of choice liquors far exceeding that allowed by the permit.

An investigation also was made into the citizenship of the 18 members of the crew.

HOUSE PLANNING FURTHER POWER FOR ROOSEVELT

Garner Backs New Drive for Authority.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9.—(Special.)—From the moment he becomes President, Mr. Roosevelt will have virtually unlimited dictatorial powers to reorganize and reduce the cost of the federal government if congress approves a program launched today by Speaker and Vice President Elihu W. Garner.

At the direction of the speaker, Democratic leaders in the house prepared a gag rule under which to drive through that body a far reaching amplification of the extraordinary authority to consolidate and abolish executive bureaus and commissions which the senate in an amendment to the treasury and postoffice department appropriation bill voted to confer on the President.

Features of Program.

Under the Garner program the President would have authority:

1. To reduce or suspend any contractual appropriations, including veterans' compensation, allowances, and other benefits; air mail and ocean mail subsidies; river and harbor, public building, and highway construction; federal aid, and railway mail payments.
2. To consolidate or abolish not only bureaus and commissions but entire executive departments.
3. To suspend specific appropriations for any purpose, impounding the funds and turning them back to the treasury.
4. To give such actions immediate effect by executive order without awaiting the approval of congress.

Propose Full Authority.

In addition it is proposed to eliminate the restriction on the Bratton amendment whereby the 6 per cent saving in each department directed by the senate is to be accomplished without the discharge or furloughing of government employees. The Democrats propose to give Mr. Roosevelt full authority to cut down the federal bureaucracy, now numbering more than 700,000 persons.

With such dictatorial power, according to Democratic leaders, it will be possible for the new President to bring about before July 1 a reduction in the cost of the central government of from 750 million to one billion dollars, thus carrying out the platform pledge of their party to cut expenditures 25 per cent.

Representative Bertrand H. Snell of New York, Republican leader, displayed hostility to the program.

Sees "Absolute Dictator."

"This would make an absolute dictator of Mr. Roosevelt," he said. "It would give him more power than any executive in the world except Mussolini. We are not ready for a Mussolini in America at the present time. If we are, we had better abolish congress and go home."

Representative James P. Buchanan (Dem., Tex.), intruded by Mr. Garner with the responsibility of shoving the program through the house, said that the only way to achieve great economies is to delegate the widest possible powers to the executive.

"It has been clearly demonstrated," he said, "that we cannot cut expenditures provided by law here on the floor of either house unless we have such cross currents of local interests. I refer not only to veterans' compensation but to all other such expenditures. I think an amendment can be framed to give the President authority to cut these grants."

Senator Sam G. Bratton (Dem., N. M.) thought the Bratton proposal a good one, remarking that compared with it "the senate didn't even bat a pot fly."

Representative Henry T. Rainey of Illinois, Democratic leader of the house, endorsed the Garner program.

"It proposes autocratic power," he said, "but these are unprecedented times and drastic remedies are necessary."

Senator Pat Harrison (Dem., Miss.) thought the senate Democrats would approve the broadening of the senate amendment.

"I have maintained from the start," he said, "that this is the way to reduce the cost of government. We cannot afford to let the plan would be supported any amendment consistent with the constitution."

McNary Voices Opposition.

Senator James F. Byrne (Dem., S. C.), author of the senate amendment, thought the Garner plan could be so framed as to be a constitutional revision of the organic laws to be changed by executive order.

Charles L. McNary of Oregon, who will be Republican leader of the senate in the next congress, said he opposed delegating so much authority to the executive. Indications were not wanting, however, that the plan would be supported by the Young Turk Republicans headed by Senator Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan.

Both parties have now reversed their position on this question. Early in the session the Republicans favored the delegation of large authority to the President to reorganize the government, while the Democrats opposed it. The Democrats knocked out such consolidations as Mr. Hoover eventually ordered.

The senate today passed the 111 million dollar department of agriculture appropriation bill after rejecting a move by Senator Tasker L. Oddie (Rep., Nev.) to restore the 299 million dollar highway construction allowance.

Oregon House Passes Bill to Submit Dry Repeal

Salem, Ore., Feb. 9.—(AP)—The house of the Oregon legislature voted today to submit to the people the question of repeal of the state constitution amendment on prohibition. If passed by the senate the repeal bill will be placed on the ballot either at a special election or the next general election.

Those favoring repeal argued that Oregon citizens last November voted $66,000 to 13,000 for abolition of the state enforcement act, and that only nine of the 36 counties were then in the "dry" column.

Girl Heiress Center of Court Fight

Myrtle Saemann, age 4, "the million dollar baby" whose custody is sought by her father, Franklin I. Saemann Jr., as she appeared yesterday.

SWEARS HEIRESS STRUCK BABY AND WISHED HER DEAD

Nurse Testifies in Suit Over Saemann Child.

Myrtle Saemann, the 4 year old heiress known as the "million dollar baby," was given another title in testimony before Circuit Judge Daniel F. Trude yesterday. She was termed a "therapeutic baby" by a physician tending her mother, Mrs. Myrtle Saemann, according to a nurse who was a witness in the legal fight over the little girl's custody.

The attorneys and judge did not inquire into the exact meaning of the term, which remained somewhat vague in the dictionary definition of "therapeutic" as "having healing qualities; curative; alleviative." The physician, Dr. Harriman of Detroit, told the nurse, however, she testified that Mrs. Saemann was incapable of loving any one.

Father Fights for Custody.

The hearing yesterday was on the petition of Franklin I. Saemann Jr., 438 Forest avenue, Oak Park, son of the head of a surgical supply house, for custody of the child. He charges that the mother is unfit to have the care of the child. Mrs. Saemann inherited a large fortune in trust from her grandfather, the late Peter Fahrney, patent medicine manufacturer, and she received another large inheritance upon the death of a bachelor uncle, Ezra Fahrney. The little girl eventually will inherit millions. The Fahrneys were divorced a year ago.

The nurse, Mrs. Molly Ryan, an educated woman who spoke with a cultured accent, was employed for several years at a $300 monthly salary to take care of the child. She told of a fight to Detroit from Chicago in December, 1929, with the infant and Mrs. Saemann.

"The baby and I were registered at the Whitler Apartment hotel on the fifth floor and Mrs. Saemann took an apartment on the ninth floor," she testified. "Dr. Harriman was consulted about Mrs. Saemann's condition."

Says She Kept Baby from Mother.

The nurse then quoted the physician as remarking that the little girl was a therapeutic baby and that Mrs. Saemann was incapable of loving any one.

"Mrs. Saemann was going to New York and leave the baby, but I dissuaded her," testified Mrs. Ryan. "I told her she would eventually learn to love the baby. Dr. Harriman told me never to telephone Mrs. Saemann about the baby because it upset her. We finally moved to another hotel so that Mrs. Saemann might not encounter me and the baby in the elevator and be upset."

In July, 1930, Mrs. Saemann went to Europe and returned in November, the nurse testified. She saw the child only about twice a month after her return, according to the nurse. She quoted Mrs. Saemann as having expressed a desire, on various occasions, to kill her parents, her physician, another nurse, and wished the baby dead.

"Dr. Harriman told me never to leave the baby alone with Mrs. Saemann," she said. "Once, Mrs. Saemann told me not to give the child any food for two days because she was getting fat."

Testifies Mother Struck Baby.

On another occasion, when Mrs. Saemann came to visit the baby, the nurse said, she left the mother and child together for a moment and came back to find the mother striking the infant on the head.

In February, 1932, the baby girl was taken to a hospital with deep lacerations in her head which, Mrs. Saemann reported, had been inflicted by a police dog. The nurse took care of the child in the hospital for a month, she reported.

"Little Myrtle never showed any fear of dogs when she saw them from the window, but when, after an absence of three weeks, her mother came to visit her, she screamed and begged her to go away," the nurse testified.

The hearing will be continued this morning.

Idaho House Passes Bill for Beer; Up to Senate

Boise, Idaho, Feb. 9.—(AP)—The Idaho house of representatives today passed the second beer bill of the session, authorizing the sale of 3.2 per cent beer. The vote was 38 to 24. The measure now goes to the senate, along with a previous bill denying such beer as nonintoxicating.

GERMAK TELLS HIS PATRONAGE WOES TO FARLEY

Sees Democratic Chief at Miami Beach.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Miami, Fla., Feb. 9.—(Special.)—Mayor Cermak of Chicago arrived in Miami today and discussed Illinois federal patronage with James A. Farley, chairman of the Democratic national committee, who is vacationing here.

The mayor, it was learned, confided to Mr. Farley that he and the regular Democratic organization in Illinois probably would be unable to agree with the senator-elect, James Hamilton Lewis, on appointments. The senator and Mayor Cermak have been somewhat at loggerheads since the Democratic national convention, at which Senator Lewis abruptly withdrew his name from consideration for the presidency without consulting the mayor on his move. This was thought to leave Mr. Cermak in a difficult tactical position.

Peace Lags in Illinois.

While other states by this time have practically completed agreements on appointments to be made when President-elect Roosevelt takes office, no such agreements have been made in Illinois. Mr. Farley was told. The mayor is understood to have let the Democratic chairman know that Senator Lewis and he may never be able to agree and that it may remain for the President elect and Mr. Farley to take a hand in settling the situation.

Chairman Farley expressed a hope that an amicable settlement could be reached.

Under the rules of courtesy guiding the United States senate, a senator from any state is usually given the support of his colleagues in blocking any appointment in his state made contrary to the wishes of the senator. This has been much of a spirit of self-defense, so that any member of the senate, if caught in the predicament later, may rely upon his colleagues backing him up. It's a sort of clubby arrangement.

But sometimes the two senators from a state, of the same political faith, have been unable to agree, and in this situation it has been up to the President to make a decision. Usually the senate respects the decision of the President.

At Peace with Dietrich.

In the case of Illinois, Mayor Cermak anticipates that he will be able to reach an accord with the senator elect, William H. Dietrich, on patronage matters, and should an impasse in the Cermak-Lewis dispute be reached, it is possible that President-elect Roosevelt will be asked to intervene in behalf of nominations made by Senator Dietrich.

According to gossip here, Senator Lewis has indicated an intention to nominate several old friends for important federal posts.

But the opposition of the regular organization. One appointment on which Senator Lewis and Mayor Cermak disagree is the nomination of County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki for the federal bench. Both have also indicated willingness to sponsor two Republicans, George E. Q. Johnson for the federal court and Dwight Green for district attorney, each of whom now holds his job under recess appointment by President Hoover.

The view of his colleagues is that he eventually will decline. Publication of the report moved some members of the Alabama delegation in the house to start action in favor of the appointment of Representative Steagall of Alabama to the treasury post.

Associates of William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, said Mr. Green has not been a candidate for secretary of labor and President Roosevelt has not offered him that post. His position, it was said, shortly will be announced in a formal statement. Mr. Green and the American Federation of Labor are backing William Tobin for the labor post.

The labor group here asserts that Mr. Roosevelt has assured them that he has not selected any one and will not do so until labor leaders are given another hearing in New York next week.

BIG WAVE LEAPS OVER VILLAGE IN NEWFOUNDLAND

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Feb. 9.—(AP)—A report from Sandy Point today said that village had been inundated by a big wave which swept in from Bay St. George as a result of a southwest gale.

A telegraph operator in the village said that no deaths had been reported but that heavy damage had been done. He added that his office, which is three feet above the ground, had been reached by the water. The huge wave dashed over the village after leaping the breakwater.

FRENCH FIND WAY TO GET OFFICIALS' SALARIES CUT

PARIS, Feb. 9.—(AP)—A supertax on incomes of 2 to 10 per cent on all citizens whose 1932 incomes were undiminished was adopted today by the finance committee of the chamber of deputies.

This was an indirect method of lowering officials' salaries as they were about the only class not affected by economic conditions.

The committee accepted only two-thirds of the government's proposal of $200,000,000 in combined new taxes and economies. The committee reduced economies in the national defense proposals from $25,000,000 to $20,000,000.

Larcenians Get Their Pork with Cadge on Capital Front

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9.—(Special.)—One of the most interesting public works by which it is hoped to spend the United States treasury out of the red and restore prosperity is the self-liquidating postoffice which has been awarded to the little town of Larcenia, a typical American community deriving its name from the larcenous sentiments of its citizens in their dealings with the government.

There are 1,200 inhabitants, or larcenists, as they are called by the local newspaper, the Weekly Chisel, which carries at its masthead the civic shield bearing the symbolic crossed black jacks and jimmies.

Larcenia's representative in congress is the Hon. Will Cadge, an indefatigable toiler on behalf of his constituency, with a special zeal for pension cases, who is proud of the fact that the citizens of his community draw out of the treasury more money per capita in monthly checks than those of any other district in the country.

Generously Shares Credit.

The credit for this record he graciously shares, however, with the attorney at law practicing in Larcenia who have given and still give the most effective cooperation in preparing claims, on a commission basis. The total monthly revenue sent into Larcenia from Washington is approximately $2,000, about eighty per cent of which is in compensation for cases of chronic fatigue, cut finger, toothache, and falling hair incurred since the war. The prize case of the local bar is the 89 per cent disability rating, with appropriate pension, obtained for a veteran of 1893, whose case was officially diagnosed as yawning fever. The victim is the Larcenia county judge. He yawns all the time.

Larcenia's total contribution to the government in income taxes last year was $125, but Congressman Cadge obtained a refund of $150 to his constituents for the year of 1931 by vigorous representations to the internal revenue department and by the same process may yet be able to reduce Larcenia's net for 1932 to $150. He has set as his goal a figure of no dollars, net, but the internal revenue people are very rapacious and progress toward this ideal is slow and laborious.

Everything to Be Modern.

The appropriation for the new Larcenia postoffice is $125,000 and the plans call for three story building with modern mechanical devices to sort and distribute the daily turnover of approximately 2,000 letters, catalogs, and government documents, which latter are carried free under the congressional frank of the Hon. Cadge and comprise about one-fourth of the traffic.

There will be a modern machine to cancel the stamps on the daily mail business of about 250 pieces, including post cards, and the most up to date sorting and conveying machines to save foot work by the postal staff and promote efficiency in the local postal service. It took a hard fight by Congressman Cadge to obtain the stamp canceling machine, which will cost $50, but he won his point when he showed that the present antiquated postoffice was using up two ink pads, three bottles of ink, and four canceling stamps regularly every year.

"Cheap equipment is a poor economy," Congressman Cadge declared. "In the course of time this machine will pay for itself and, over the long haul, this investment which seems so big now, will begin to pay dividends in efficiency and permanence."

Beneath Town's Dignity.

The present postoffice in Larcenia is distinctly beneath the character of the town, consisting of an ordinary storeroom next door to the New Merchants' house. The government pays a monthly rental of $85 for these quarters under an old lease, although the little café, a similar room which bounds the postoffice on the other side, never has rented for more than $25 and is now down to $20 with one month's rent free.

The staff consists of the postmaster and his wife, who is assistant postmaster, and one rural free delivery carrier, who is a pensioner, with a 90 per cent disability incurred when he slipped on a rock and sprained his ankle while out fishing in defense of Old Glory in the spring of 1927.

The carrier asks out his living playing professional football with the Larcenia Porch Climbers in the fall and as a professional wrestler in the winter season. In the summer months he takes a furlough and enters a government hospital for treatment, but his case is deemed to be beyond medical science and the treatment consists almost entirely of complete relaxation. Last summer, however, he sacrificed this opportunity and risked his health to march to Washington and demand the bonus.

Opponents Are Denounced.

Under the plan of self-liquidation the Larcenia postoffice is expected to pay for itself in the course of a long term of years and thereafter to yield a profit in the form of savings. This plan anticipates, of course, that Larcenia will enjoy a vigorous expansion when prosperity returns and that the community in time will achieve a size commensurate with that of the postal facilities. There were a disquieting minority of citizens who opposed the project on the ground that the old postoffice was good enough, but they were denounced as unworthy of the name of Larcenist and local sentiment overwhelmingly endorsed the improvement with the slogan "Don't let Larcenia short."

A drive is now being organized to begin the day the new edifice is dedicated with the slogan "Support the postoffice; buy more stamps." The postoffice department in Washington insists that there is no profit in stamps, but Congressman Cadge and a local business men's committee, headed by Mayor Mace, have prepared figures to show that if enough stamps are sold a profit will develop.

Five and Tens are Cited.

"Look at the five and ten cent stamps," Mayor Mace declared. "They make profits, don't they? I want to tell you right here and now every true Larcenist worthy the name is going to get behind this proposition and put his shoulders to the wheel and put this thing over the top one hundred per cent in the old never-die Larcenia spirit. And I don't mean maybe. The Chamber of Commerce is behind this to a man and I want to see every loyal citizen buy his share of stamps to the utmost of his ability. And how?"

[Prolonged cheers.] Construction of the postoffice is temporarily interrupted at present by a strike among the local workmen. There was great idleness in Larcenia until the postoffice job began and common labor was to be had for 35 cents an hour. When construction started, however, the operation of the law of supply and demand forced up the wages to sixty cents an hour.

A compromise is expected at the strikers' own figure as the local union has telegraphed Congressman Cadge threatening to blacklist him as an enemy of organized labor. It may be necessary to increase the federal appropriation somewhat to cover this unexpected development, but Congressman Cadge is known as a staunch friend of labor and he is already at work to obtain additional funds.

He also frowns on the idea of her husband reentering politics.

"He gave 22 years to public work. We think that is enough," she said. The Bakers, who plan to remain here two weeks, came into port on the bridge of the liner Malolo, an honor rarely bestowed on passengers. Eligo above, army airplanes formed a "B."

HOBSON VOTED MEDAL FOR HIS 1898 EXPLOIT

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9.—(AP)—A congressional medal of honor for Richmond Pearson Hobson of Los Angeles, former naval officer who distinguished himself in the Spanish-American war, was voted by congress today as a measure of respect to the White House.

Hobson risked his life on June 1, 1898, by entering the fortified harbor of Santiago, Cuba, and sinking the partially dismantled collier Merrimack in the channel.

DAUGHTER SAYS BAKER WILL NOT SIT IN CABINET

HONOLULU, Feb. 9.—(AP)—While newspaper men vainly sought political information from Newton B. Baker, former secretary of war, on his arrival here today, his daughter, Miss Peggy Baker, emphatically announced that her father would not take any part in the new administration. The former cabinet member dismissed political questions by saying:

"I know nothing whatever about politics. After all, it's Mr. Roosevelt's cabinet, not mine."

Miss Baker answered questions on whether her father would be a member of Mr. Roosevelt's cabinet thus:

"I know he won't." "How do you know?" she was asked. "I won't tell you that," she replied. "Mrs. Baker, while less emphatic than her daughter, let it be known

SURVEY DRAWS PICTURE OF CUTS IN 1931 TAXES

Reductions May Range as High as 48 Pct.

Large apartment properties may be granted reductions amounting to as much as 48 per cent of their 1930 taxes in the 1931 tax bills, according to a survey for Chicago as made yesterday by County Treasurer McDonough. Better class residences, and modern buildings of six and eight room flats will be second in the list of properties given substantial tax reductions.

Bungalows, small residences, and two flat buildings, whose owners constitute almost one-third of the real estate tax bearers, will receive the smallest reductions in their 1931 bills. Many of the reductions as calculated yesterday for these classes of property amounted to no more than 5 or 7 per cent of the 1930 bills.

Properties Taken at Random. In making the survey, clerks under Auditor George Nagelauer computed the new bills from the assessed valuations and the new rates for a group of holdings taken at random from the various township tax divisions within the city. Many different classes of real estate were included.

It was noteworthy that among several hundred properties examined the 1931 bill was not increased over that of 1930 in any case. Assessor J. L. Jacobs, in making a 24 per cent average reduction in assessed valuations, has stated that in some cases there may be bills which actually are higher for 1931 than they were for 1930.

He promised that the average tax bill reduction would be between 9 and 11 per cent.

The average increase of 10 per cent in the rates of the eight city townships acts as a factor to keep the bills higher than would be indicated by the sharp reductions in assessed valuations.

Reductions for Bungalows. Because the survey was not broad enough to enable the auditors to calculate the real averages for the various types of property, the report merely points out that among the bungalows examined the reduction in bills varied between 8 and 10 per cent. Among somewhat larger residences and two and three flat buildings which were grouped in a class, the cuts range from 6.5 per cent to 27 per cent.

The reductions for larger flat buildings varied from 13.3 per cent to 38.3 per cent, while for the largest class structures of from 15 to 40 apartments the cuts ranged from 24.6 per cent to 48.7 per cent. Store and apartment buildings were awarded cuts between 9 and 31 per cent. Factories were allowed reductions between 7 and 17 per cent. Mercantile and loft buildings included in the survey got cuts ranging from 2 to 15 per cent.

No Estimates on Loop. Yesterday's survey made no effort to examine large loop properties. The reason for this, the county treasurer said, was that only an exhaustive study of the different types, ages, and cost classifications of these properties would give a fair picture.

Treasurer McDonough issued a warning to taxpayers that his office is as yet unprepared to give information to those persons who wish to know the amount of their new tax bills before these reach them through the mails. The survey, he pointed out, was made by his own men, who will soon begin the work of sending out the new tax bills. Until this is well under way, he said, taxpayers are asked to refrain from requests for information concerning individual bills.

In the subjoined list are groups of the properties included in the treasurer's survey. For each the name of the owner as shown on the county treasurer's books, the address of the property, a description, and the tax bills for 1930 and 1931 are given. The list follows:

Targets in New Extortion Plot

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and his wife, Anne, from whom two youths arrested yesterday in Roanoke, Va., are charged with attempting to extort $50,000 on threats to kidnap Lindbergh baby.

to deposit the extortion money, reduced from $50,000 to $25,000, and finally to $17,000 when Jones said that was all the money he could get in the stump.

No Package Deposited. Such a package never was deposited but Johnson and Ferguson beginning on Jan. 1 watched the stump by shifts for 144 hours in an effort to catch the extortioner on the spot. They remained in the woods by night and at dawn moved to the nearest house, but no one appeared. The watching was discontinued and letters again were left and they disappeared and answers appeared. The final arrangements were to leave the check and have the letter writer call at the bank for the money.

The handwriting was carefully examined and Johnson, a handwriting expert, is of the opinion that Bryant wrote the letters although the youth denies it. In submitting samples of his writing to police, Bryant wrote slowly and laboriously, giving the impression that he was changing his style purposely or else had had limited training in penmanship.

"Tell us whether there is anyone else involved in this case," Johnson asked.

Denies Writing Letters.

Bryant shook his head and said he came upon the letter by accident about 5 p. m. yesterday and knew nothing about the extortion plot. He said he showed the letter to Harvey and that Harvey told him he had told his (Harvey's) father about the letter and check. Bryant declared he didn't show the missive to his parents.

Police quoted Harvey as saying that Bryant showed him the letter about 1 p. m. yesterday. Harvey also said he had no connection with the case other than to drive Bryant to the bank as a favor.

No Comment from Lindbergh.

New York, Feb. 9.—[Special.]—Col. Henry Breckinridge, Col. Lindbergh's father-in-law, was out of the city. Col. Lindbergh could not be reached for comment.

The present whereabouts of Mrs. Lindbergh and her infant son, who was born a few months after the first kidnapping, is not known. Since the kidnapping on March 1, 1932, the Lindberghs have remained in the strictest seclusion, although Col. Lindbergh has continued his business contacts in New York and elsewhere.

JAPAN ASSERTS THAT THE LEAGUE HAS INSULTED IT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Feb. 10.—[Friday.]—Charging that the league of nations is deliberately trying to fix the blame on Japan for its failure to conciliate the Manchurian dispute, the foreign office today declared that Japan has been insulted. It accused the league of purposely and flagrantly misreading Japan's latest note on the matter.

"What is the use of talking to a body which cannot or will not understand the simplest wording?" the foreign office spokesman said. "We declared that we would discuss conciliation on condition that recommendations of the Lytton report on Manchuria be harmonized with later events. Now the league asks whether we said we would accept the recommendations in the Lytton report."

The spokesman intimated that since the league's efforts for conciliation have arrived at the final stage, "there is no possibility for compromise and the sooner the league withdraws from the league, the better."

COUNTY BOARD UPSETS ITS OWN BUDGET CUTTING

Increases Tax Collection Estimate by 2 Million.

County commissioners who voted a week ago to make a 1933 budget in anticipation of collecting only 60 per cent of their total tax levy changed their minds yesterday. In their second budget meeting they agreed to abandon the 60 per cent estimate and make a budget which will anticipate collection of 85 per cent of the 1933 tax levy.

The original plan was abandoned despite a warning statement by Commissioner Amelia Sears that 1933 tax collections are not likely to exceed those of 1930. At present, more than ten months after the party date for the 1930 taxes, only 59 per cent of the total levy has been paid.

Means Budget of $16,585,134.

The return to the 85 per cent budget means that $16,585,134 demanded by the various county departments will have to be paid only to $16,585,134. The latter figure represents 85 per cent of the total county levy for 1933 of $17,229,562. If the commissioners had held to the 60 per cent budget they would have been forced to trim to $14,885,134 for 'current expenditures.

Michael J. O'Connor, assistant county controller, opened yesterday's meeting with a statement that, although he had prepared a tentative budget on the 60 per cent basis, he did not believe that it would be possible to cut expenditures to fit it.

"You must remember that the county has a deficit for 1932 of $1,300,000 which must be taken from the gross 1933 levy before we make any plans for the 'next year'." "This county would have a deficit of more than $6,000,000 for 1933 if the 60 per cent budget were adhered to," said Thor E. Madsen, efficiency expert for the board. "I looked at a 60 per cent budget and I don't think it can be made."

Asks Reason for Change.

"Why this change of front by the controller?" demanded Miss Sears at this point. "I recall that at the last meeting he was upbraiding us for not keeping within the actual tax collections of each year as shown by the treasurer's office."

"At the last meeting he told us that we were just getting deeper and deeper into debt by not heeding the actual conditions which face us financially. He said that the 1932 taxes would be only partially collected and told us to stop fooling ourselves by peering at book assets in the form of uncollected taxes for 1928, 1929 and 1930, and the accumulated penalties which we probably never will get."

"These conditions still are as truthful and as sour, from our point of view, today as they were one week ago. I don't favor any budget which will exceed our actual cash expectancy."

Discusses Lawyer's Contract.

Before the budget meeting the board discussed the proposal to rescind the contract held by Attorney Lee LaRochelle to collect delinquent personal property taxes. Several of the commissioners charged that State's Attorney Courtney had made no effort to take over the work from LaRochelle's office, and insisted that suits begun by LaRochelle were being dismissed by the courts for want of prosecution.

Several commissioners asserted that other members of the board were deliberately avoiding the board meetings in order to escape the necessity of voting on the retention of the contract.

During the meeting a group of 100 representatives of the unemployed council appeared and demanded that the board take action to grant them cash payments in the form of unemployment insurance rather than relief under the present system.

ADMITS MURDER AS HE AWAITS LOSS OF FEET

Toledo, O., Feb. 9.—[AP.]—Stricken with renal ailment, George Martin told the police today that he shot and killed Constable Ernest Miller at Frankfort, Ill., almost nine years ago.

The confession probably only will write final to the case. The Will county state's attorney's office at Joliet, Ill., replied the only witness to the shooting, Mrs. Grace Asbury of Elmhurst, Ill., was dead. She was killed by James Glider, a jealous suitor, who then killed himself at Dayton, O., in 1920.

Martin, police records revealed, stole an automobile at Niles, Mich., and drove it to Frankfort on July 11, 1924. Mrs. Asbury, who had left her husband behind at Elmhurst, accompanied him. Constable Miller became suspicious of the couple. As he started to question them Martin was said by police to have shot him. The grand jury indicted Martin for murder, but he disappeared.

It is a contest of skill and judgment in determining the weight, number, or other factors concerning agricultural products to be displayed in the state exhibits. For instance, the Georgia exhibit will contain a bale of cotton, a large glass container filled with pecans and a watermelon. The winner of the farm in this state will determine most accurately the total weight of the cotton, number of pecans, and number of seeds within the watermelon.

Each state will have representative products.

RIVAL LAUNDRY HEAD QUIZZED ON ACID THROWING

Hyman Booden, manager of the Model laundry, Chicago and Homan avenues, was taken to the detective bureau for questioning last night about the breaking of a plate glass window of the Reliable Hand Laundry, 2902 Hancock street.

A bottle of acid was thrown through the window and a stack of shirts was damaged. Morris Lerner, proprietor of the laundry, who lives in the rear, told police he formerly sent his clothing to the Model laundry. When he stopped, he said, Booden told him he had better continue or something would happen.

Sgt. Walter Kelly of the detective bureau found Booden in his home at 3352 Evergreen avenue.

TRAIN KILLS PEDESTRIAN. Thomas Rowan, 60 years old, a laborer living at 2838 Brandon avenue, was killed by an Illinois Central freight train at 922 street as he was walking across the tracks yesterday.

CHICAGO PUBLIC DEBTS INCREASE 2 MILLION IN '32

Government Finance Put in Family Terms.

In fixing these limits the citizens' committee estimated that by the end of 1933 all of the governments will have decreased to some degree the total of their outstanding debts.

A more detailed picture of the liabilities of the individual governments at the beginning and at the end of 1932 is given below: School board.—During 1932 the total of tax warrants, including accrued interest, outstanding increased from $79,000,000 to $86,135,000. In the same period, however, the board reduced the total of its unpaid pay rolls and bills from $46,000,000 to $40,882,000, out of its outstanding contracts by $600,000 and paid off $4,900,000 in maturing bond principal, leaving a net debt increase during the year of $8,045,000.

City.—Unlike the school board, the city corporate fund had $9,237,277 less in tax warrants outstanding at the end than at the beginning of 1932. Unpaid salaries, however, increased from $1,580,000 to $2,000,000, unpaid bills from $7,907,000 to $9,665,000, and borrowings from the working cash fund from $11,826,000 to $13,593,000. The city reduced its outstanding judgments by $25,000 and disregarding refunded bonds, which did not change its funded debt, paid off in cash bond principal totaling $4,800,000.

Sanitarium Further in Debt.

The public library and municipal tuberculosis sanitarium, which are semi-independent of the city government, both reduced their total of outstanding tax warrants during the year, but wiped out a large part of this debt reduction by accumulations of unpaid bills and salaries, which left the sanitarium further in debt, the library slightly better off.

County.—Were the picture of the county's liabilities confined to its corporate fund, its debt increase during 1932, totaling $9,167,163, would have been even greater than that of the school board. However, the major portion of this increase was wiped out by the fact that in spite of several bond defaults, the county reduced its bonded debt by $3,000,000 during the year, and at the same time cut the liabilities of its highway fund, principally unpaid road and bridge contracts, from $7,254,402 to $2,804,629. All of these figures for the county are for the fiscal year from Dec. 1, 1931 to Dec. 1, 1932, rather than the calendar year 1932.

Sanitary district.—The district defaulted on all its bond principal and

SCHOOL BOARD WILL ELECT A PRESIDENT ON NEXT WEDNESDAY

Members of the board of education will elect a new president next Wednesday afternoon to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Lewis M. Myers.

The board has received an opinion that James A. Hemingway, vice president, who assumed Mr. Myers' position two weeks ago, cannot legally carry on the duties of president.

Trustee Corvella Taylor, an appointee of Mayor Cermak, is the leading candidate for president and has signified his willingness to take the position temporarily.

Interest payments during the year, and added to its list of liabilities $5,453,041 in interest due its bondholders. Its unpaid bills increased $131,000 and unpaid salaries, $258,000. But the district was unable to sell new tax warrants as fast as tax collections rose, deemed those outstanding at the beginning of the year. As a result, its outstanding tax warrants declined from $16,844,700 to $5,726,200, more than offsetting the increase in other liabilities.

Lincoln Park.—This park board is deemed all its maturing bonds in 1932, and sold more new bonds that it redeemed, increasing its funded debt by $273,000. Contract obligations were reduced by $247,423, and outstanding tax warrants by $1,515,270, but at the end of the year the board owed its employees and general creditors $93,234 more than at the beginning.

Saves by Interfund Dealings.

South Park.—When the depression started, this park board had in its treasury more than $10,000,000 in cash from bonds sold to finance various permanent improvements. Instead of using the money for construction, a board has borrowed it in 'interfund' transactions, giving tax warrants as security, for the purpose of meeting pay rolls and bond principal and interest payments. While this did not directly decrease its liabilities, since the tax warrants are regarded as debts, it did so indirectly, for by borrowing from itself the board avoided the high interest rates which have burdened governments compelled to finance themselves by public borrowing.

The board on Jan. 31, 1932, had $11,641,024 in tax warrants outstanding, of which all but $263,000 were in its own bond funds. On Jan. 31, 1932, the board had $11,210,478 in warrants outstanding, its unpaid bills increased $103,482 in the same period, and its unpaid salaries $175,912. It had 629. All of these figures for the county are for the fiscal year from Dec. 1, 1931 to Dec. 1, 1932, rather than the calendar year 1932.

Sanitary district.—The district defaulted on all its bond principal and

PROPOSE R. F. C. LOANS REBUILD NEAR WEST SIDE

Better Than Relief to Idle, Civic Group Told.

Plans for a survey of the "blighted" near west side district with a view to utilizing Reconstruction Finance corporation loans in an extensive housing development were announced yesterday by the West Central association. The announcement followed a series of conferences at which rehousing leaders of other cities spoke.

Such a program of slum prevention and elimination, according to J. Beldier Camp, president of the association, would provide work for the idle, now being fed indirectly with R. F. C. funds, and there would be some expectation of a return on the investment.

"Chicago and Cook county are spending nearly seven million dollars a month to maintain the unemployed," said Mr. Camp. "For this sum, which the newspapers are borrowing from the R. F. C. and elsewhere, there is no return save the knowledge that people are being fed and sheltered after a fashion."

Explains Cleveland Mail Plan.

Walter R. McCormack, a leader in Cleveland's rehousing force, explained that city's $100,000,000 Mail Plan, to require 15 years, to the association. He said they were planning to rehabilitate an area along and south of Euclid avenue four miles long and a mile deep with the aim of providing housing suitable for white collar workers at $5 a room per month.

Frank A. Hecht, Jr., has been appointed chairman of the association's survey committee, and its objectives were announced as follows: To determine the various kinds of housing, commercial and industrial space, with the trend in supply and demand in the west central district.

To determine the comparative rents and taxes for the district and other sections of the city.

Includes Study of Population.

To determine the character of the population and whether the residents are living there because of location to work or economic necessity.

To determine whether changes in the physical character of the district would attract a higher type of population and whether the income from the real estate would provide an adequate return on a rehousing program.

IRISH MINISTER SAILS FOR U. S. ON OFFICIAL MISSION

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Feb. 9.—(AP.)—Joseph Connolly, minister of lands and fisheries, left tonight for the United States on orders of President Eamon de Valera.

Connolly, who once was the representative of Irish Republican organizations in the United States, was said to be going to New York on a mission connected with repayment of the old outlawed Dail Republican loans raised from American subscribers largely through De Valera's efforts.

DAWES, TRAYLOR CALLED IN INSULT CRASH INQUIRY

Senate Group Also Sends for Other Bankers.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
Washington, D. C., Feb. 9.—[Special.]—Former Vice President Charles G. Dawes, Melvin A. Traylor, president of the First National Bank of Chicago, and two unnamed officials of the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company of Chicago have been subpoenaed to appear in Washington when the senate stock exchange investigation begins its inquiry into the Insull crash. Chairman Peter Norbeck [Rep., S. D.] of the senate banking and currency committee announced today.

The announcement came in the midst of a gibe and a pair of statements occasioned by a talk of attacks on the stock exchange committee.

A demand that the investigators be themselves investigated, came from New York from an organization which styled itself the New York Stock exchange reform committee of the Manhattan board of commerce. The other attack was made by David A. Olsen of New York, who announced his resignation as a special investigator for the banking committee in its stock market investigation, because of the committee's failure to prosecute its investigation with sufficient vigor.

Hearing Date May Be Shifted.
Senator Norbeck declined to state as to what Gen. Dawes, Mr. Traylor, and the other bank officials would testify. James Stewart, committee investigator, had asked that they be subpoenaed, he said.

Originally scheduled for Feb. 15 the Insull hearing may be shifted to another date, because of the postponement of the hearing on the National City bank, which was scheduled for tomorrow. Senator Norbeck explained that the change of the latter hearing was ordered when the bank's officials withdrew their objection to a full inquiry into their records.

Similarly, the chairman said, that a "Chicago firm"—presumably Halaby & Stuart—had changed their minds about opposing the committee and had agreed that investigators might go through their records in connection with the Insull case.

Charges Evidence Is Hidden.

In a letter sent to all members of the senate, the reform committee of the Manhattan board of commerce announced that they were sending a delegation to Washington on Feb. 16 to present to the senate charges that the stock exchange inquiry had "completely collapsed" and that the senate committee was "doing nothing more than practicing a deception upon the people of the United States."

In a report and resolution, the reform committee charged the senate committee with having hidden evidence and with having discharged investigators who seemed about to disclose too much.

"Your committee finds that the files of the investigating committee have been deluged with most important evidence, but the greatest secrecy has been indulged in to hide these facts from the public and give immunity to those interests that swindled our defenseless citizens out of their money and made millions of American people jobless and homeless," the reform committee report stated.

Norbeck Ready to Cooperate.

In reply, Chairman Norbeck said: "I don't know whether those who claim to be reformers are actually reformers, but I am suspicious because so many things have been thrown in our way lately. If the senate committee is to make a full investigation, I certainly want to help them. I will welcome an investigation and, if they are earnestly seeking to get a fuller investigation of the stock exchange, I want to cooperate with them in every way I can. I have nothing further to say until I have had a chance to study their full statement."

Concerning Mr. Olsen's charges, Senator Norbeck charged in return that the investigator had sought to impress the committee by raising up old and already exploded scandals to investigate, and that he had demanded exorbitant fees.

GEN. PARKER ASKS LEGION TO TEACH PREPAREDNESS

An "Army" night program was held last night in the headquarters of Bell post of the American Legion at 211 West Washington street. Maj. Gen. Frank Parker, commander of the 8th corps area, spoke on national defense to members of the post and commanders of other legion posts in Cook county.

Gen. Parker declared that the legion's mission for the maintenance of an adequate defense during peace time was to impress upon the public the need for preparedness. He said that one factor in the cost of the world war and other wars the United States had engaged in was that the country had not been prepared.

Earlier in the day members of Army Day committee, headed by Col. J. M. Graham, chief of staff of the 8th corps area, met at the Stevens hotel. Plans for the celebration of Army Day on April 6 were discussed. The regular army, national guard and reserve will participate in the celebration, which will culminate in a banquet at night according to Col. Graham.

Army Day was sponsored first by the Military Order of the World War. It falls in the anniversary month of the revolutionary, civil and world wars.

Achshah Bond Drive to Be Dedicated During Fair

A memorial driveway honoring the women of Illinois and named Achshah Bond drive after the wife of Shadrach Bond, first governor of Illinois, will be dedicated during a Century of Progress exposition. It will lead from East Harrison drive on the northern end of North Island to the Adler planetarium. When Bond was elected a delegate to congress from the territory of Illinois in 1812, Mrs. Bond sheathed herself, washed and spun wool to make the stuff he wore to the senate. She wore, both of them traveling on horseback.

"IT'S HIS VOICE," KIDNAP VICTIM SAYS OF SUSPECT

Typewriter Also Clew in Skeele Case.

BULLETIN.

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 9. (Friday.)—[AP.]—Detectives said early today Luella Pearl Hammer and W. D. Howard, her "hired man," had confessed that they kidnaped Mrs. Mary B. Skeele, 65 year old wife of a University of Southern California dean, and attempted to abduct Miss Isabel M. Smith, Pasadena school teacher.

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 9.—[AP.]—Finding a portable typewriter, with type faces similar to those in the $10,000 ransom note in the kidnapping of Mrs. Mary B. Skeele, chief of detectives Joseph Taylor said tonight he regarded as sufficient evidence on which to ask the indictment of Luella Pearl Hammer and her employe, W. P. Howard.

Miss Hammer and Howard, held since last night, were formally booked at the Highland Park police station on suspicion of kidnapping.

Taylor said he had ordered the arrest of a man who, he believes, directed the plot against Mrs. Skeele and the attempted abduction two weeks ago of Isabel Smith, daughter of the Rev. Merle Smith, pastor of the First Methodist church of Pasadena.

Linked by Circumstances.
Principals and circumstances of the case are interrelated by the fact that Miss Hammer is a graduate of the college of music of the University of Southern California. Mrs. Skeele is the wife of Dean Walter F. Skeele of the college. Miss Smith formerly was president of the college student body and Dr. Smith is a trustee of the university.

Mrs. Skeele returned to her home Sunday night in a hysterical condition. The typewriter was found in a closet of a house formerly occupied by Miss Hammer. The note had set 24 hours from the kidnapping for delivery of the ransom. Chief Taylor said Mrs. Skeele had tentatively identified a man's voice, a flight of stone steps, window curtains, a bed, bathroom fixtures, the chiming of a clock and other details of the house in which she was held prisoner.

Suspects Are Confronted.
Mrs. Skeele and Miss Smith confronted Miss Hammer and Howard today. Mrs. Skeele said she recognized Howard's voice. Miss Smith was not so sure, saying "he might be the man" who failed in an attempt to drag her into a motor car late last month. Both Mrs. Skeele and Miss Smith said they caught only dim views of the woman or women involved and would attempt no identification of Miss Hammer.

Records at the University of Southern California showed Miss Hammer, born at Mountain Lake, Minn., Sept. 22, 1897, was enrolled between 1926 and 1929. She graduated with a B.S. degree in the school of education.

JURORS ACQUIT DRIVER OF CUT RATE TAXICAB

After deliberating only eight minutes yesterday, a jury in the court of Municipal Judge R. Jerome Dunne returned a verdict of not guilty in the case of George Arnott, a driver for the Public Taxi Service company, who had been arrested for operating a cab without a license. Similar charges are pending against a number of other drivers for the company.

Records at the rate for the cut rate cab company, based his defense of Arnott on the grounds that the public vehicle license commission had not held a hearing on the driver's application for a license within the period required by city ordinance.

The taxi company is operating twenty-four cabs under an agreement with the city council pending the drafting of a new taxicab regulation ordinance. Records showed that the agreement by placing about forty cabs on the street, the drivers were arrested at that time on warrants obtained by Lieut. James J. Kilpatrick, secretary of the vehicle commission.

Virgin Islands Ask U. S. to Resume Navy Rule

ST. THOMAS, Virgin Islands, Feb. 9.—[AP.]—The colonial council today adopted a resolution embodying a petition bearing hundreds of signatures asking that congress place the city under naval administration again. Discontinuation of the naval base here, the petition said, aggravated an economic condition already bad, and since the island depends almost entirely upon the maritime importance its only hope is reestablishment of the naval administration.

On Way Abroad

Mary Pickford got an advance taste of St. Moritz weather yesterday as she paused in Chicago en route from Hollywood via New York to meet her husband, Douglas Fairbanks, in the Alps Mecca for winter sports. In fact, Mary had been getting hardened for her trip abroad all the way from California. There was a blizzard at Flagstaff, Ariz., and out in Kansas the pipes froze, but the Santa Fe chief got in only 45 minutes late.

Before taking the Century to New York, Miss Pickford followed a telegraphed suggestion from her husband and went over to the Field museum to see a collection of jades.

Miss Pickford is to be joined in New York, she said, by the Countess di Frasso and the count, who will sail with her for Naples. Gary Cooper, she said, may also join the party. The countess has been the actress' guest at Pickfair.

JUDGE REFUSES TO HEAR MALOY FILM UNION CASE

Judge Denis E. Sullivan has been pending before him in the Superior court for some weeks a petition of the film union against the Motion picture operators' union against Thomas Malo, business agent, and other officers of the union. They ask an injunction to restrain Malo and his associates from intimidating them, an accounting of union funds, and an order setting aside, on charges of fraud, the annual election last September which was won by the Malo faction.

At a hearing, a week ago Judge Sullivan told Thomas D. Nash, attorney for the union officials: "I don't like this matter of having delegations come to visit me. They haven't tried to tell me what to do—they just ask me to be careful. Do you still want me to hear this case?"

"Not if this is going to make you lean over backwards," replied Attorney Nash.

"Whose fault would it be if I lean over backwards?" demanded the judge.

"I'm tired of hearing this case and having these delegations appearing in my chambers. I'm going to transfer the matter to Judge Robert E. Gentzel." He entered such an order.

ALD. LOESCHER, 44TH, QUILTS RACE FOR RE-ELECTION

As the board of election commissioners yesterday to hear objections to the nomination of Ald. Albert E. Loescher (14th), the alderman announced the withdrawal of his candidacy for reelection. He is the seventh of the sitting aldermen to retire from the city council at the close of the present term.

Ald. Loescher said that a reason for his withdrawal was that he hadn't the support this time of Thomas O. Wallace, former clerk of the Circuit court, who had sponsored the alderman during his four terms in the council. This was confirmed by Mr. Wallace.

"I advised Ald. Loescher not to file for reelection," said Mr. Wallace, "inasmuch as his record isn't such that he will receive the endorsement of the Municipal Voters' league and the newspapers. I am not supporting any aldermanic candidate in the ward, nor am I taking any part in the aldermanic campaign."

Dislocates His Jaw So Can't Read Long Report

Alton, Ill., Feb. 9.—[AP.]—Harold J. Homann, who has a long annual report to read tomorrow night before the Plaza bird council of the Boy Scouts, of which he is executive, dislocated his jaw last night while brushing his teeth. The jaw was swollen today and he was hardly able to move it.

SHOUSE WARNS REPEAL FIGHT IS FAR FROM WON

Bootleggers, Dry Groups
Are Busy, He Says.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
Washington, D. C., Feb. 9.—[Special.]—Allied by a common objective, the sincere dry reformer and the underworld bootlegger now stand hand in hand as a still formidable barrier to national prohibition repeal. It was declared Joseph Shouse, president of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, in his annual report made public today.

Mr. Shouse sounded a stern warning against the dangers of overconfidence and consequent relaxation of effort on the part of the wet who now that repeal of the liquor laws seems assured.

Unrelaxed Vigor By Wets.
While the tone of his report generally was optimistic and while he indicated his conviction that the repeal of prohibition is a matter of time, Mr. Shouse insisted that only unrelaxed vigor by the wet forces will see a resolution through to ratification by the states.

"The plain fact," he said, "is that the fight is far from won. The principal danger that now confronts us is the possibility of overconfidence. The result is within our grasp if cautiously, wisely, perseveringly, we continue to pursue it."

"Those who sincerely believe the eighteenth amendment should be repealed are in a position to make a contribution to the repeal of the eighteenth amendment. They are going to exert themselves through every possible agency to prevent any action looking to repeal."

No Reflection on Sincere Dries.
This they have the right to do. They are as privileged to their opinion as we are as to the basis of the repeal of the eighteenth amendment. The action of the subcommittee came as an apt curtain raiser to the repeal debate which will begin tomorrow or the next day. Only the wet department appropriation bill remains to be approved before the repeal resolution is taken up and predictions are that that measure will be quickly disposed of.

Vote Is Five to Four.
A 5 to 4 vote ordered the cut in dry enforcement funds. Those voting in favor of the decrease were Senators Bingham (Rep., Conn.), Moses (Rep., N. H.), Tydings (Dem., Md.), Russell (Dem., Cal.), and McMillan (Dem., Tenn.). Those against were Hale (Rep., Me.), Dickinson (Rep., Ia.), Nye (Radical, N. D.), and Hayden (Dem., Ariz.).

The cut still has to be approved by the full appropriations committee before being reported to the senate, but wets are optimistic that it will be agreed to.

The subcommittee's action followed the appearance of Prohibition Director Amos W. Woodcock and Senator Morris Sheppard (Dem., Tex.), co-author of the 18th amendment, both of whom argued at length against the "crippling" of the prohibition bureau by curtailing its funds.

Still Allow Wire Tapping.
Though successful in voting through the cut, anti-prohibition members of the subcommittee were less successful in defending restrictions on enforcement methods put in by the house. With Senator McKellar switching to the dry side, the house amendment prohibiting wire tapping by dry agents was changed to allow it in cases where it was deemed essential and the house amendment against the purchase of liquor as evidence was altered to permit agents to buy liquor, but not to drink it.

Federal expenditures on the prohibition bureau, originally in the treasury department, were $6,819,486 in 1921. From that year they rose to a high point of $16,481,867 in 1926. The appropriation for 1933 included the bureau of industrial alcohol. This year's appropriation for the bureau of industrial alcohol is $4,000,000, so that if the subcommittee cut for the prohibition bureau is approved, the two appropriations will total $12,500,000, or approximately half a million dollars more than the appropriation for the combined bureau in 1926.

Chicagoan Held in Miami for Nonsupport Kills Self
Miami, Fla., Feb. 9.—[AP.]—Theodore C. Beal, dry cleaning shop operator, today shot and killed himself in the presence of a deputy sheriff, who had arrested him on a Chicago warrant charging him with nonsupport.

Four jurors were selected yesterday in the Criminal court of Judge Thomas J. Lynch to try Louis (the Louie) Clement and Philip Mangano, brother of "Dago Lawrence" Mangano, on charges of conspiracy growing out of terrorism in the cleaning and dyeing industry. The case had been continued fourteen times since the indictments were returned more than a year ago.

Clement and Mangano were arrested after four men invaded the Lumber garage, 10 East 99th street, Aug. 12, 1931, and wrecked four trucks of the International Cleaners and Dyers, 2808 South State street. Police found a vehicle tag and bill of sale belonging to Mangano on the floor of the garage. Clement and Mangano were identified at a police showup as the men who had slugged several laundry drivers.

ROCKEFELLER ORDERS SURVEY OF LIQUOR CONTROL IN FINLAND

New York, Feb. 9.—[Special.]—John D. Rockefeller Jr., who last June announced his advocacy of the repeal of prohibition, has appointed a commission to study the liquor situation in Finland, which went wet last year after a decade under dry laws. It was learned today.

The study probably also will extend to Norway and Sweden and neighboring countries which have liquor control laws.

It was understood that the information obtained might be the basis of a new statement by Mr. Rockefeller before congress acts on repeal or modification bills.

One member of the commission is Leonard V. Harrison of the staff of the bureau of social hygiene, a Rockefeller project. He will sail for Europe next week. In Finland he will be joined by at least one other expert and they will conduct the survey together.

Laurence V. Dunham, director of the bureau of social hygiene, was absent in Boston today and no statement could be obtained in his absence.

SENATORS VOTE FURTHER CUT IN DRY LAW FUNDS

Repeal Debate Slated for This Week.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
Washington, D. C., Feb. 9.—[Special.]—Prohibition enforcement funds for 1934 felt the slash of the economy knife again today as lines were being drawn for senate debate on repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

A senate appropriations subcommittee cut 10 per cent from the $3,400,000 appropriation for the prohibition bureau which came over from the house of representatives, bringing the figure down to $3,060,000, or more than 35 per cent below the $1,250,000 appropriated for the present fiscal year.

The action of the subcommittee came as an apt curtain raiser to the repeal debate which will begin tomorrow or the next day. Only the wet department appropriation bill remains to be approved before the repeal resolution is taken up and predictions are that that measure will be quickly disposed of.

Crossed North Atlantic.
His greatest achievement was the solo crossing of the North Atlantic from Ireland to Canada in 24 hours and 10 minutes. This latest flight from England required 3 days and 10 hours.

Capt. Mollison hopped from Thies, in Senegal West Africa, today at 12:50 a. m. About six hours later a station ship along the trans-Atlantic air mail route reported hearing his plane overhead. After that there was no word. At 12:20 p. m. (C. S. T.) he landed here.

Mermos Starts Return Flight.
BUENOS AIRES, Feb. 10 [Friday].—[AP.]—Jean Mermos, who flew here recently after crossing the South Atlantic in his plane Rainbow, started his flight back to France at 12:40 a. m. today (1:40 p. m. ## MOLLISON HOPS SOUTH ATLANTIC; LANDS IN BRAZIL

Ends England to Natal
Flight in 3 Days.

NATAL, Brazil, Feb. 9.—[AP.]—Capt. J. A. Mollison, the only man who has flown alone across the North Atlantic from east to west, arrived here today on a calm, hot afternoon at the end of a solo flight from England.

Thousands cheered as he brought his four cylinder motor plane, Heart's Content down to a good landing. The little ship had averaged about 116 miles an hour.

"Well," he said as he climbed out to shake hands with the governor of the province and the mayor and the rest of the reception committee, "that was easier than the North Atlantic, but I had good weather most of the way."

Sends Message to Wife.

After the ritual of welcome, he sent off a message to his wife, Amy Johnson, who holds a few flying records herself.

He did not look very tired after the flight across the ocean. After a light meal he said he would stay here overnight and leave for Rio de Janeiro in the morning.

This flight was another milestone in Capt. Mollison's enviable career. His first long flight was from England to Australia in 1931. That took him 8 days and 19 hours. On the way back he flew from India to England in 3½ days. Last year he flew from London to Cape Town in 4 days and 17 hours. His wife did it later in 4 days and 7 hours.

Crossed North Atlantic.
His greatest achievement was the solo crossing of the North Atlantic from Ireland to Canada in 24 hours and 10 minutes. This latest flight from England required 3 days and 10 hours.

Capt. Mollison hopped from Thies, in Senegal West Africa, today at 12:50 a. m. About six hours later a station ship along the trans-Atlantic air mail route reported hearing his plane overhead. After that there was no word. At 12:20 p. m. (C. S. T.) he landed here.

BOY 11 AND GIRL 8 BEATEN; MOTHER ROOMER JAILED

and May Die.

Kalamazoo, Mich., Feb. 9.—[Special.]—Because they disobeyed their mother in a minor matter, two children are in the Bronson hospital here, one not expected to live. The children Sylvester Britton, 11 years old, and his sister, Kathleen, 8 years old, were discovered bruised and beaten in their home yesterday.

The children's mother, Mrs. Margaret Britton, and a roomer, Code Calaway, 38 years old, are in jail charged with felonious assault. If the judge rules the charges will become murder. The children's father has been ill in a hospital for two months.

Teachers Take Hand.
The matter came to the attention of teachers at the Harding school yesterday as school opened. The school authorities with representatives from the juvenile society broke into the Britton home at 619 Kromdyke court, and found Kathleen unconscious. Mrs. Britton admitted the child had been in that condition since Monday.

Both children were taken to the hospital, where physicians found the girl suffering from internal hemorrhages. Her condition was described as critical.

Boy's Injuries Less Serious.
The boy, like his sister, was severely bruised, but apparently suffered no internal injuries.

Hospital authorities said the children apparently had been beaten with a club.

Calaway has been a roomer at the Britton home for five months. He was held to the grand jury yesterday in bonds of $10,000 each on charges of attempted robbery.

Holds 2 in ROBBERY ATTEMPT.
FRED L. O'HANON, 38 years old, 514 South Sacramento street, and Floyd Houtland, 23 years old, 2711 West Madison street, were held to the grand jury yesterday in bonds of $10,000 each on charges of attempted robbery.

PARISH SEEKS VENUE CHANGE IN FRAUD CASE

Charge Judge Woodward Is Prejudiced.

Frank P. Parish, president of the Missouri-Kansas Pipe Line company, appeared yesterday before Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward and asked a change of venue in his trial on a charge of using the mails in a $35,000 stock fraud. His attorney, Dupuy Warrick, charged that Judge Woodward has a personal prejudice against Parish by shaking his finger "in anger" under the defendant's nose at a hearing a week ago. At that time, the attorney said, Judge Woodward overruled a motion for a continuance and ordered the case to trial on Feb. 20.

Judge Woodward announced that he would submit the motion to Judge George A. Carpenter, senior judge of the district court, for a decision. Attorney Warrick charged that Judge Woodward had displayed his prejudice against Parish by shaking his finger "in anger" under the defendant's nose at a hearing a week ago. At that time, the attorney said, Judge Woodward overruled a motion for a continuance and ordered the case to trial on Feb. 20.

First Attorney Withdraws.
Attorney Warrick said that he had entered the case on Jan. 6, after Parish's original attorney had withdrawn. The continuance was asked last week on the plea that Attorney Warrick had not time to prepare his case.

The defense petition yesterday charged that Judge Woodward had denied the continuance after being told by Assistant United States Attorney Thomas Dodd Healy that the delay was an attempt to defeat justice. Attorney Warrick said that at that time Judge Woodward said: "It will be just too bad for your client if you are not ready for trial on Feb. 20."

"I don't want to hear the case if the defendant does not wish me to try their case," Judge Woodward said. "In fact, I would like to get out of hearing the case. It means ten weeks' hard work."

"Can't Understand Haste."
"I couldn't understand the attempt to push the case," Attorney John E. Northrup, representing the defense, told the court. "I suppose the assistants are afraid to wait until Roosevelt gets in."

"That's quite right," Prosecutor Joseph A. Struett told him, "but the just reason for the delay is that Judge Woodward, the prosecutor said that the defense had no right to seek a change of venue because their request for a continuance had been denied."

"The defendant last night was heard to say that he was coming in today and get a change of venue," Prosecutor Struett continued. "He said he was going to get the case before Judge Carpenter and get a change of venue. Parish said that certain people who would aid him."

"If your charge that they are doing this to hinder justice is true," Judge Woodward told Prosecutor Struett, "you should bring a petition for a citation forcing them to show cause why they should not be held in contempt of court."

Wants Trial to Start Soon.
"I'll do that," Struett said. He announced that in case the change of venue is granted he would go before the new trial judge and ask that the hearing be started on Feb. 20.

"And who'll try my client?" Attorney John Healy, who had taken no part in the proceedings, asked the court. He explained that he represented the fourth defendant, James F. McMahon, a director of the pipe line company, who did not ask a change of venue. Judge Woodward ruled that McMahon must abide by the decision made on the motion of the other defendants.

BRITAIN ORDERS FUEL OIL MADE OF COAL FOR NAVY

(Copyright 1933 by The New York Times.)

LONDON, Feb. 9.—The Admiralty announced today that its first contract for fuel oil extracted from British coal had been placed with a British company. The oil is obtained by low temperature carbonization. The coal is said to yield a smokeless oil and various by-products.

The process was perfected in December, when the first bulk supply was delivered to the destroyer Westminister. It was said that the cruising range of the Westminister, which heretofore employed ordinary petroleum oil, will be increased by the new fuel, which does not require any modifications in the standard equipment of the vessel.

The cost of the new fuel was said to compare favorably with the price of first class bunker petroleum oil. It is claimed to have technical advantages because it leaves no sediment, is highly fluid and requires no preheating.

PAPAL NUNCIO IN SERBIA PROTESTS CHURCH ATTACKS

BELGRADE, Jugoslavia, Feb. 9.—The papal nuncio at Belgrade, Mgr. Pellegrinetti, has protested on behalf of the Vatican against attacks on the Catholic church and clergy in the Jugoslavia press, according to diplomatic reports here.

Minister of Justice Maximovich is reported to have assured members of the financial committee of parliament that no state revenues would be paid to the Catholic church in Jugoslavia until further notice.

In reply to agitation organized chiefly by members of the Jugoslavia Sokol organizations for the expulsion of Jesuits from Jugoslavia, Archbishop Bauer of Zagreb, a Catholic, has pointed out that the Jesuits had nothing to do with the pastoral letter of Jugoslavia bishops against the Sokols and that it was unfair to drag them into the matter.

SAYS BOYHOOD OF POVERTY WAS PATH TO MURDER

McWilliams Recites Early Experiences.

Rockford, Ill., Feb. 9.—(AP)—Russell McWilliams, 18 year old murder defendant, today told the story of a poverty stricken boyhood, under questioning by Clarence Darrow, his attorney.

McWilliams told of a home in which there never was a book, of how he killed a street car motorman two years ago in a robbery, and of how he sat in a prison death cell.

His voice husky, Darrow leaned close to the boy on the witness stand and asked: "How did you happen to do it?"

"I was getting off the street car when the motorman tried to hit me," McWilliams said. "I heard a muffled sound when the pistol in my hand went off. I didn't intend to shoot him, and I didn't realize it. I was in a daze."

Couldn't Remember.
Young McWilliams insisted he could not remember firing five bullets into the motorman's body, and could recall little of his flight from the scene.

He took his first drink of liquor, he said, on July 4, 1931. Then began a career of crime that included six robberies and culminated when he killed the motorman, William Sayles.

Darrow questioned McWilliams for more than two hours. When finished, he had dwelled on every phase of the youth's life from his birth in an Iowa village to the present.

Under State's Attorney Robert E. Nash's questioning McWilliams said he drank because it made me feel funny, and that "reading crime story magazines used to make me kind of wild."

Quizzed About Death Cell.
Darrow's questioning about the death cell at Joliet penitentiary included: Q.—How long were you in there next door to the execution chamber? A.—Three days and three nights.

Q.—Did you sleep well? A.—Not much.

Q.—Were you bothered by dreams about death at night? A.—Yes, I was. When Nash asked McWilliams if he drank to obtain courage for robberies, Darrow objected by saying: "I don't think any of us who consume liquor could remember each occasion." Judge Edward A. Shurtliff overruled the objection.

It was the first time that McWilliams had testified in his own defense in three trials for murder. Twice the State Supreme court has ordered new trials after a judge had sentenced him to death.

Judge Shurtliff announced neither the prosecution nor the defense would be limited on their closing arguments. "You can talk all winter if you like," he said.

Friends learned yesterday that Municipal Judge Eugene J. Holland, one of the victors of the last election, was married last Sunday to Miss Marie Davis at the home of relatives in Milwaukee. The couple are residing at 3117 Lowe avenue and will leave within the next few days for a honeymoon trip in the south.

Judge Holland was formerly assistant corporation counsel and assistant attorney for the sanitary district.

ACID STOMACH IS DANGEROUS

Sufferers from indigestion CUT THIS OUT

"Stomach trouble, dyspepsia, indigestion, sourness, gas, heartburn, food fermentation, etc., are caused nine times in ten by chronic acid stomach," says a well known authority. Burning hydrochloric acid develops in the stomach at an alarming rate. The acid irritates and inflames the delicate stomach lining and often leads to gastritis. Don't lose an acid stomach with peptic or artificial digestants that only give temporary relief from pain by driving the sour, fermenting food out of the stomach into the intestines.

Instead, neutralize or sweeten your acid stomach after meals with a little Bismarck Magnesia and not only will the pain vanish but your meals will digest naturally. There is nothing better than Bismarck Magnesia to sweeten and settle an acid stomach. You stomach, acid and help for just a few minutes. Bismarck Magnesia can be obtained from any Walgreen Drug Store. It is safe, reliable, easy and pleasant to use, is not a laxative and is not at all expensive.

Shot Three Times

Chief Justice John Prystalski of the Criminal court yesterday set March 17 for the trial of Frank Nitti, Capone gangster, on a charge of assault to kill Detective Harry Lang. The hoodlum was shot three times and the detective was wounded during a raid on Nitti's law headquarters in the La Salle Wacker building on Dec. 20.

CONTRACT WITH INVENTOR HELD LEGAL BY COURT

The appellate court yesterday reversed the ruling of Superior Judge Robert E. Gentzel in which the latter set aside a contract negotiated by Hugh J. Ellis, inventor of a radio microphone, with Sidney N. and Samuel J. Shure, owners of the Ellis Electrical Laboratory Sales corporation. The contract provided for exclusive selling rights to the microphone. Judge Gentzel's action was based on the ground that there was no mutuality in the contract.

Judge Gentzel, on the basis of a report by Master in Chancery Louis Behan, dissolved a temporary injunction which the Shures had obtained, restraining Ellis from marketing his microphone elsewhere. The appellate court ordered Judge Gentzel to grant the Shures a permanent injunction. "It was plain," the appellate court opinion stated, "that the defendants were about to deprive the plaintiffs of their rights under a valuable contract. Contrary to the contention of the defendants, the master did not find that the Shures came into court with unclean hands. If the contract is unenforceable, it is so with respect to the Shures, rather than to Ellis."

DAUGHTER WHO SLEW MOTHER FOUND INSANE

Found insane by a jury, Miss Anna King, 42 years old, 1028 Wesley avenue, Evanston, was sentenced to the Chicago Hospital for the Insane at Dunning by Chief Justice John Prystalski of the Criminal court yesterday for the murder of her mother, Mrs. Jane King. The case was seen as another argument for a walled institution in which to keep mental defectives by Dr. Harry Hoffman, head of the Criminal court behavior clinic, who testified that Miss King was insane, and Public Defender Benjamin Baruch, who offered the defense. Both said that the murder was another reason for the legislature to act quickly on the plan to use the deserted women's prison at Joliet for mental defectives. Miss King killed her mother with a butcher knife on Dec. 27 and then stabbed herself. She had been confined in the Dixon Home for the Feeble Minded from 1924 to 1928.

FIGHT ABOLITION OF GREAT LAKES TRAINING SHIPS

House Committee Told It Is Bad Economy.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9.—(Special).—Representatives from the great lakes region today began a fight to prevent abolition of seven lakes naval reserve training ships as an economy move.

Successful in saving the ships last year the lakes congressmen, led by Representative Robert H. Clancy (Rep., Mich.) and Representative Fred A. Britten (Rep., Ill.), protested against a proposal to cut off all funds for operation of the vessels on the lakes next year.

In view of the navy department's attitude, according to Britten and Clancy, curtailment of operation funds would mean the immediate junking of the ships.

Advocate Salt Water.

The navy's proposal, they said, is to abolish the training on the lakes and to bring the naval reservists to salt water for their training cruises.

Representative Clancy appeared today before the appropriations subcommittee now drafting the 1934 navy supply bill. While he dealt specifically with the Dubuque, which is assigned to the Michigan reservists, he pointed out that his arguments held good for all great lakes ships.

"It is not economy to abolish lakes training and send men to salt water," Mr. Clancy said. "They can get more actual training in one day on our lakes and rivers, with their narrow channels and crowded traffic, than they can get in a week on the open ocean."

More Expensive on Ocean.

"Moreover, when transportation and other costs are figured in it will be found more expensive to transport the 3,000 reservists to salt water and back."

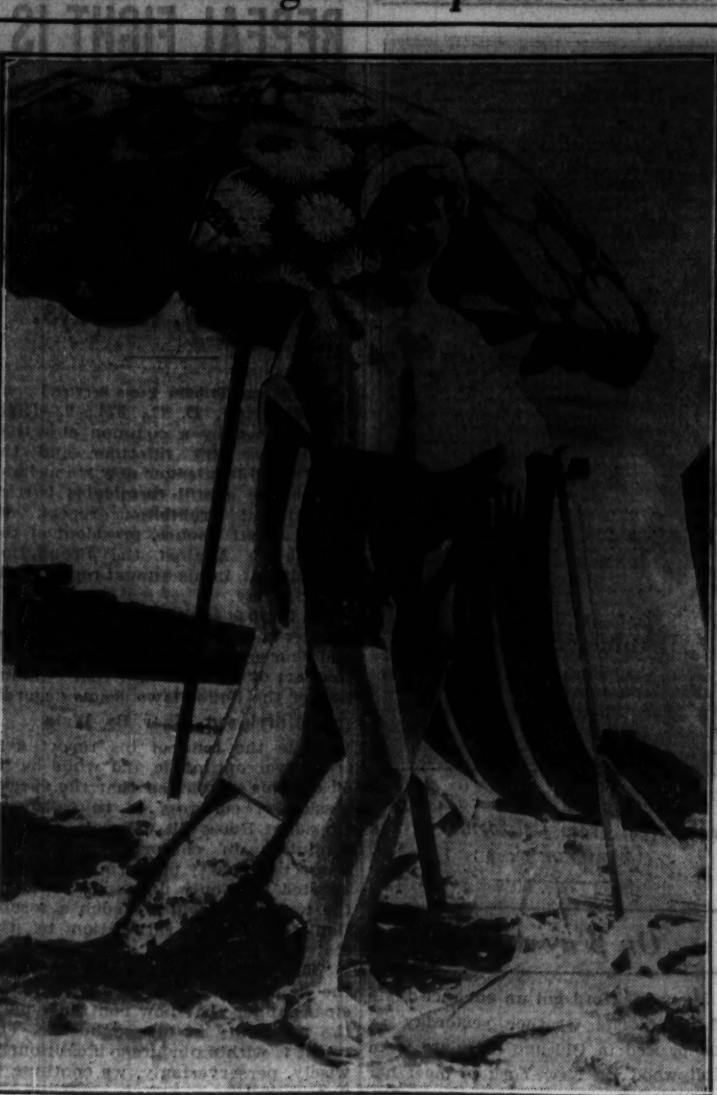

The Dubuque was recently converted at considerable expense from a coal burner to an oil burner, and Mr. Clancy declared a forced sale at this time would bring only about $5,000, or many times less than the vessel's value. For urgent economy, he suggested, the ship might be put out of use for a year.

Representative Britten intends to carry on a similar fight in behalf of the Wilmette, the training ship at Chicago.

Two Trapped by Water in Michigan Cabin Rescued

Muskegon, Mich., Feb. 9.—(Special).—Sheriff's deputies and farmers today rescued L. D. Smith, 22, and Doyle Smith, 28, brothers, who were marooned in their shack on the Muskegon river for hours when water backed up and surrounded them, putting out the fire in their stove. L. D. Smith is in a serious condition from exposure. They were removed in a boat. Farmers worked in sub-zero temperatures for hours before reaching the men.

SHOWS DEVICE THAT ANSWERS TELEPHONE AND HANGS RECEIVER

A device which automatically answers the telephone, gives and even takes and records a message and hangs up the receiver, was demonstrated in Chicago for the first time yesterday by its inventor, Maurice Keiser. The device is called the telephone.

In addition to answering the phone in the absence of the subscriber, the telephone can be used to record a complete conversation, using the ordinary machine now in general use for recording business letter dictation.

Demonstrating the device to a reporter, Mr. Keiser requested him to call his office. When he had finished talking to the city editor, Mr. Keiser put on the record of the conversation, which included the voices of the central operator, the office operator and everything said by the reporter and city editor.

The inventor pointed out that his device is not part of the regular telephone equipment and in no way interferes with or depends on the mechanism of the telephone.

JUDGE REVOKES RIGHT OF FATHER TO SEE HIS SON

Superior Judge Joseph Sabath yesterday revoked the permission which he had previously given to Frank De Lughach, formerly a wealthy real estate operator, to see his son, James, 6 years old, on three days each week. The son is with his mother, Mrs. Ruth De Lughach, 9811 South Damen avenue, who is suing for divorce.

De Lughach's permission to see his son was revoked after his wife charged that he had violated an injunction restraining him from annoying her. She charged that he called to see the boy last Thursday while she was suffering from influenza, which Mrs. De Lughach feared the child might catch; that De Lughach had called her on the telephone in an effort to effect a reconciliation out of court, and that he had given her son toys in an effort to win the affections of the boy and have him testify in his favor in the divorce hearing.

Mrs. De Lughach also asked that her husband be cited for contempt of court for violating the injunction. That hearing was continued to Feb. 23, when De Lughach must also explain why he is $875 in arrears in temporary alimony payments.

NEW ECONOMY MOVE IS CALLED BLOW TO NAVY

Adams Protests Against 5% Savings.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
[Special].—A storm of protests against congressional approval of the Bratton amendment calling for a general 5 per cent cut for all government departments has been registered with members of the senate and house by officials of the establishments hit by the proposed reductions. In most cases heads of departments have asserted approval of the amendment will force reductions in civilian personnel. The navy department has advised Chairman Samuel M. Shortridge (Rep., Cal.) of the senate naval committee that approval of the amendment, without an increase in the navy department's appropriation bill as cut by the budget will make necessary a cut in enlisted strength of about 8,000 men and a reduction of several thousand in the navy's civilian force.

Sees Blow to Navy.
Chairman Shortridge said today he had been informed that if the contemplated navy cuts are put through, the navy enlisted strength would be reduced from 78,000 to 70,000. He added that the navy would also slow down the modernization work on the battleships Mississippi, Idaho and New Mexico, and postpone the completion dates for other warships now building.

Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams has written to both Chairman Shortridge and to Senator Frederick Hale (Rep., Me.), chairman of the senate appropriations committee. To each senator the cabinet member outlined the steps which the navy planned to take in event the navy budget is reduced to below 300 millions, as now contemplated by the Bratton amendment.

One of the plans now being considered by the navy department calls for laying up one of the huge aircraft carriers, Lexington or Saratoga, during a part of 1934. Arrangements have been made to place in rotation reserve a number of battleships, cruisers, submarines, and destroyers.

Mills Also Protests.
Secretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills today sent a report to the senate stating that passage of the treasury-postoffice bill as now written would force the discharge of 1,500 men on June 30. Frank Dow, acting commissioner of customs, said the land patrol along the border would have to be reduced from 700 men to a skeleton force, "with little means of checking imports of illicit liquor."

He said it would also open the door to unlimited narcotic smuggling at ports.

GREYHOUND

AT LAST!

PILES

ACTUALLY REDUCED WITHOUT SURGERY!

Now it is possible to do more than merely soothe Piles. Now it is possible actually to reduce the swollen or enlarged blood vessels, which Piles are, without the cost of an operation. Now, for the first time, a home medicinal treatment is available which not only stops the pain and itching of Piles, but at the same time actually shrinks the enlarged veins.

Pazo Ointment is a complete and effective treatment for Piles because it does three things. It soothes the sore and inflamed parts. It heals the irritated and torn membrane and tissue. It shrinks or reduces the swollen blood vessels. Thus, it not merely relieves Piles, but actually tends to correct the condition as a whole. The relief you seek is supplied in Pazo Ointment—and the method of application. (See picture below). Thousands say that Pazo gave them the first real relief they ever had from Piles. ## When You Go to Buy Aspirin

and Want to Get Rid of Pain Quickly

IN 2 SECONDS BY STOP WATCH
A Genuine BAYER Aspirin Tablet Starts to Disintegrate and Go to Work

Drop a Bayer Aspirin Tablet into a Glass of Water.

By the time it hits the Bottom of the Glass it is Disintegrating.

What Happens in These Glasses—Happens in Your Stomach

Because of This Quick Dissolving Property, Genuine BAYER Aspirin Tablets Start "Taking Hold" of Pain a few Minutes after Taking

If you have a headache or any other common form of pain—rheumatism, neuritis, or neuralgia—you want to get rid of it as fast as possible—and in absolute safety.

Then—the first thing to know is this: Never ask for aspirin by the name "aspirin" alone. But always say "BAYER ASPIRIN."

The pictures of the two glasses above tell the story. For what happens in those glasses happens in your stomach.

Because of a unique process in manufacture, Genuine Bayer Aspirin Tablets begin to dissolve almost INSTANTLY in the stomach. They start to disintegrate within the amazing space of two seconds after touching moisture.

Hence Genuine Bayer Aspirin "takes hold" of the average pain or headache within a few minutes after taking. The fastest, safe relief, it is said, ever known for pain.

Remember, it is Genuine Bayer Aspirin which lays claim to this unique, quick-acting property. So be sure you get the Real Article—GENUINE BAYER ASPIRIN when you buy. Naturally you want the fastest, possible relief—and that's the way to get it.

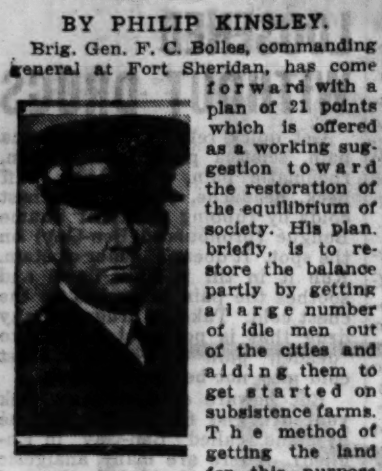

The sure, safe way is to see that the name BAYER is clearly stamped, in the form of a cross, on any tablet that you take. Keep that in mind when you buy. Carry in mind, too, that Genuine Bayer Aspirin Does Not Harm the Heart. Ask your druggist about the recent price reduction on the 100 tablet size Bayer Aspirin.

NO TABLETS ARE GENUINE BAYER ASPIRIN WITHOUT THIS CROSS

GENERAL BOLLES OFFERS PLAN FOR RETREAT TO LAND

"21 Points" Explain Idle Relief Project.

GEN. BOLLES.

By PHILIP KINSLEY.

Brig. Gen. F. C. Bolles, commanding general at Fort Sheridan, has come forward with a plan of 21 points which is offered as a working suggestion toward the restoration of the equilibrium of society. His plan, briefly, is to restore the balance partly by getting a large number of idle men out of the cities and sending them to the land. The method of getting the land for this purpose is for a tax on the land.

Based farmers to offer portions of their land in return for the remittance of taxes on their remaining land for a period of years.

Urges Retreat to Land.

This is in line with a recent statement by President-elect Roosevelt and also with an analysis made by Prof. W. E. Dodd of the University of Chicago, who advocates a joint federal-state commission to handle this problem and who points out that every previous depression in our history has been solved by the retreat of the idle to the land. The recent report on social trends by the Hoover commission found that there are millions of acres of land available.

"What is advocated," says Gen. Bolles, "is opportunity to go on the land, not forced land settlement. We propose the possibility of access to the land as an escape, a refuge, a place for a foothold. And it must be borne in mind that this is not a plan calculated to bring immediate relief to the 12 million subjects of charity, but as a means of bringing about a balance to remove the pressure where it is reaching the bursting point."

Outlines Land Proposal.

"Each state can and must handle the proposition as a state plan, according to its own particular problem, requirements, and facilities. The general plan is:

1. Rather than foreclose a farm for mortgage or taxes, accept from the farmer a portion of his land on the agreement that taxes on the remainder be remitted for a reasonable period.
2. Let each state use the land so acquired for a homesteading project for destitute families according to the following plan:

1. Homestead tracts to be 10 acres.
2. The number of homesteads to be proportioned to the state's requirements for relief of unemployed.
3. Land owners, by mutual agreement with state, to surrender title to 10 acre tracts, not to exceed two.

"4. The land owner to be paid for the 10 acre tracts surrendered by tax bills past, present, or future to the amount of the value of the land.

Provision for Supervisors.

"5. The value of this land surrendered to be determined at its present market value by a board of state officials as stated in the homestead act.

"6. Each group of 20 homesteads to be supervised by a farmer at a compensation to be determined by the homestead act.

"7. All other necessary officials to be drawn from state and county officials now employed, eliminating any additional pay rolls other than for supervisors.

"8. Each homestead to have improvements to an amount of $1,000, which would provide a house, cow, chickens and necessary tools and implements.

"9. The state to retain title to these surrendered 10 acre tracts in all cases until the terms of the homestead act have been met.

"10. The necessary period to prove up being five years.

Tax Exempt Five Years.

"11. The homesteads to be tax exempt during this proving period.

"12. The homesteads to revert to taxation status upon date of issue of final homestead papers.

"13. Any inequality in the various counties in amount of taxes lost by land withdrawn from taxation to be adjusted by the state.

"14. The loss to the state in revenue due to withdrawal of land from taxation to be covered by bonds issued annually to the amount of lost taxes. (Long term bonds with low interest rate.)

"15. The bonds to be bought by the federal government.

"16. Federal government to sell bonds upon open market at expiration of 5 years from date of issue.

"17. The homestead and all improvements thereon to become the property of the homesteader upon issue of final papers.

"18. Each homesteader to obtain first papers must have minimum family of four, including applicant.

"19. It is believed that the act can be financed by economies that should be progressively brought about in

HALED INTO COURT FOR SELLING WHISKY FOR NICKEL A DRINK

New York, Feb. 9.—[Special.]—Assistant United States Attorney David Marcus haled a prisoner before Federal Judge Alfred C. Cox for sentence today and announced:

"This man sells whisky for a nickel a drink."

There was an interested hush in the courtroom, while the audience fumbled for pencils to take down the address.

It was 12 East 1st street and the prisoner was Andrew Miller, who ran a speakeasy there until he was arrested yesterday and locked up in the federal house of detention.

"He pleads guilty," said Mr. Marcus. "One day in jail," said Judge Cox, "and I'll suspend sentence."

state government through decreased charity appropriations.

"20. Prospective homesteader must have recommendation of county board of charities or similar board.

Selection of Homesteaders.

"21. Selection of homesteaders to be left to local administration, but it is suggested: (a) Select the farmer who has already been divested of his land and whose family has been thrown on charity; (b) the family man who has been drawn into the city or large community from the farm or truck farm and who is in destitute circumstances, willing to return; (c) for the intelligent family man in the small city.

"The plan can be made self-liquidating and can always be stopped at any stage. There would be no loss of taxes. The farmers are already taking the situation in hand themselves in a desperate effort to cling to the last straw between their self-sustenance and the charity pool. Banks and insurance companies are declining to foreclose on farm lands and are granting interest cancellation and suspension.

"Whatever scheme is adopted it should be in operation before we have to face another winter."

IRISH RAIL STRIKE SPREADS; BRITISH ROAD INVOLVED

LONDON, Feb. 9.—[Special.]—Extension of the Irish railway strike into Great Britain was causing some concern today after dock workers at Stranraer, Scotland, were ordered not to handle shipments and mail from the strike area.

London headquarters ordered the action and C. T. Cramp, secretary of the National Union of Railwaymen, said other ports might be involved later.

This followed a union decision to intensify the ten day strike. It was possible that other transportation workers may be involved.

Although the Stranraer men were not instructed to strike but only to refrain from handling traffic from the Irish port of Larne, their obedience to the order will bring them in conflict with the London, Midland and Scottish Railway company, one of the biggest in Great Britain.

ADMITS MURDER OF WIFE; FACES DEATH OR PRISON

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 9.—[Special.]—Gus Cerney, 24, a mechanic who was extradited from Chicago on a charge of murdering his wife last autumn, today entered a plea of guilty before Superior Judge William Argyle.

Cerney is charged with murdering Mrs. Idama Cerney, formerly of Carbondale, Ill., in their Los Angeles cottage, depositing her nude body on a desert near Victorville, Cal. He then made an automobile dash back to Illinois, where Mrs. Cerney had inherited money. Cerney's first legal move after being extradited here, was to say he was insane. A hearing resulted in a verdict that he was sane. He was today ordered to return to court Feb. 14. Then the judge will decide whether his sentence will be life imprisonment or hanging.

KERNER IN COURT TO FIGHT LOSS TO BANK CREDITORS

Opposes Waiving Title to Site Winning Award.

Attorney General Otto Kerner appeared in court yesterday for the first time since he took office to press his campaign against excessive costs in bank receiverships and foreclosures. Before Circuit Judge Joseph Burke he vigorously opposed the petition of a bank receiver to waive title to property about to receive a $12,000 condemnation award in return for $3,500.

The attorney general charged the prayer of the petition is "audacious and ridiculous." His assistant, George S. Lavin, asked that the receiver be called into court to explain his action. The receiver in Ernest Ridgeway of the closed Sheridan Trust and Savings bank.

$12,000 Award Fixed by Court.

The property is a strip 28 feet wide and 232 deep at East and Western avenues. It was decided to the bank by Earl G. Gubbins after the bank closed to secure a portion of a total indebtedness of $50,000. After the dead was executed the city undertook the improvement of East avenue and brought condemnation proceedings against the property. An award of $12,000 was fixed by the courts.

In his petition Ridgeway stated that Gubbins came to him and told him he had no title to the property, even though he pledged it for a loan. Gubbins was said to have declared the strip belonged to the adjoining Park Castle apartments, of which he was one of the owners.

Supplies of Generosity.

Ridgeway held the offer of $2,500 to be reasonable in view of the circumstances. Attorney Harry B. Brinley of the law firm of Brinley, Landon & Holt, attorneys for the receiver, said the building had paid attorneys' fees of $2,500 in the condemnation proceedings and the owners were willing to pay taxes of $2,500 and assume judgments of $10,000 against the land.

"There is something funny here," Attorney Lavin said. "The award is of $12,000. Yet the building is willing to pay $2,500 to the bank, $2,500 to lawyers, $2,500 in taxes, and meet judgments of $10,000. No one is so generous without reason."

Allows Time for Inquiry.

"Further it is peculiar that the receiver so readily accepts Gubbins' story, when there is nothing to substantiate it other than his word. The records show the title to the property is in the hands of the bank. Why should the receiver be anxious to waive it?"

"We want to go into this and find out what, if anything, is behind it. There is a mystery here that should be brought to the attention of the court."

At the request of the attorney general, Judge Burke continued the hearing on the petition for two weeks to permit an investigation.

TEST MORTGAGE HOLDERS' RIGHT TO FORECLOSE

Suit Hinges on Failure to Pay Taxes.

A petition challenging the right of mortgage holders to bring foreclosure actions or secure judgments on their loans because they do not pay taxes on the mortgages was filed yesterday in the Circuit court. The test case, which will establish procedure in Illinois courts, will be heard tomorrow by Circuit Judge Daniel F. Trude.

The petition was filed in behalf of Samuel Donlan, president of the Columbia Ice and Ice Cream company, by Attorneys Louis L. Cohen and Ben Rosenberg. Donlan is the owner of vacant land on McCormick boulevard, on which Krenn & Dato held a mortgage of $45,000.

Reject Past Payment.

A month ago the real estate firm asked a judgment of $52,000 against Donlan for principal and interest on their notes. The petition alleges the firm refused to accept payment of any part of the mortgage, or to extend it.

Donlan states he has paid all of the taxes on the property and that the real estate firm has not paid personal property taxes on the mortgage or scheduled them for assessment. The petition holds the mortgages should be taxed.

"Because of the failure to declare the mortgage for assessment or pay personal taxes on it," the petition states, "the complainant is not entitled to protection or relief from the courts. He who saves money by evading payment of taxes does exactly the same injury to society as the man who steals from the public treasury. He is as guilty of as great immorality or dishonesty."

Cites Other States' Rulings.

The petition cites rulings of courts in Kansas, Indiana and other states in support of its contention. Attorney Cohen said he has not been able to find Illinois decisions governing the petition.

In practice, mortgages have not been assessed here on the theory real estate would be subject to double taxation. The petition contends that the real estate firm bore no share of the taxation, as all tax bills were paid by the owner.

The petition alleges that Krenn & Dato are seeking to obtain a judgment against Donlan rather than by foreclosing on the land involved, so that they can attach other property that he owns. It is held the firm should be satisfied with the property itself or grant an extension of the mortgage.

CHICAGO POLICEMAN PAYS ALIMONY WITH FARM; LEAVES JAIL

Geisinger, Ill., Feb. 9.—[Special.]—George E. Barber, Chicago policeman, who has been in jail here since September because he owed his wife $2,500 back alimony and refused to pay, was released today and their 15 year old divorce-alimony fight settled. To obtain his freedom on the contempt of court charge, Barber assigned his life interest in a farm near Geneseo to his wife. To return, he canceled the back alimony due and a stipulation was entered on the court records that she shall never make any future alimony demands on him.

When Barber was arrested in Chicago a month ago he brought only summer clothing along. His wife's attorney, Alvin S. Green, loaned him an overcoat and gaiters to wear back to Chicago in the sub-zero temperatures.

DEFENSE OPENS IN LAKE COUNTY ABORTION TRIAL

The trial of Armin L. Kreutzer, former Milwaukee veterinarian, charged with the murder by abortion of Mrs. Anna Bells, is expected to reach a jury in Circuit Judge Joseph J. Daly's court at Waukegan today.

Defense Attorney George W. Field in his opening statement yesterday declared that the evidence would show a failure on the part of the state to prove that Mrs. Bells' death was caused by an abortion. One defense witness, Dr. John E. Walter, testified yesterday that in his opinion a person could not live for more than 10 days with septic poisoning. This was to confute state testimony that Mrs. Bells was ill six weeks before her death in a Milwaukee hospital.

George Stried, chief investigator for former State's Attorney A. V. Smith, told of finding Kreutzer's "Honor View Maternity Home" at Winthrop Harbor, in Lake County on Nov. 13, and finding an operating table and surgical instruments. Judge Daly admitted as evidence parts of Mrs. Bells' destroyed decomposition. Kreutzer underwent an operation in Kreutzer's establishment, but ruled out evidence that he served 13 months in the Milwaukee house of correction upon conviction of a similar charge.

From new health studies of CANNED* PINEAPPLE

even the amount you need has been determined—

That's what makes the recently completed studies of Canned Pineapple so valuable. From observations of its effects upon the human system, even the amount needed to give the expected results has been calculated.

Now dietitians advise: "Start or end one meal a day with Canned Pineapple—two slices of it or a Pineapple Cup of crushed or tidbits." Isn't that easy advice to follow with such a delicious, inexpensive fruit?

Start now. If you miss it at home for breakfast, get it for lunch or dinner. Hotels, restaurants, dining cars are serving it.

The proper daily serving is a Pineapple Cup of crushed or tidbits—or two slices. Healthful, too, in salads or desserts.

FOLLOW THE NEWEST DIETETIC ADVICE... START OR END One Meal a Day with Canned Pineapple

2 SLICES or a PINEAPPLE CUP daily, does all these things:

- Helps You Digest Other Foods: It speeds digestion remarkably, particularly of proteins such as meats, eggs, beans.
- Helps You Resist Infections: A good source of Vitamin A which, many authorities agree, protects against throat and nose infections.
- Combats Nutritional Anemia: Valuable source of iron, copper and manganese—minerals essential for blood building.
- Helps Protect Teeth and Bones: Contains the essential factors—phosphorus, calcium, and Vitamin C.
- Stimulates Kidney Function: Actively helps the kidneys eliminate waste matter from the blood.
- Promotes Growth: A good source of Vitamin B, as well as A and C.
- Aids in Preventing Acidosis: Contributes effectively to the alkalinity of the blood.

HOST LANIGAN'S PARTY BROKEN UP ON ITS 8TH DAY

Police Find Eight Guests Still Going Strong.

New York, Feb. 9.—[Special.]—A week ago yesterday friends of James Lanigan, a butcher living at 33 West 98th street, were married and Jimmie volunteered to give them a bridal party. It was a gathering of the clan, that party of Lanigan's, and did not break up until 2 o'clock this morning. A squad of policemen led by Patrolman Timothy Hegarty, a County Down man, invaded Lanigan's flat on the ground floor and arrested the survivors, eight men, who were still full of thirst and enthusiasm.

Mrs. Mary Martin, the landlady of the house, was the spoli sport who broke up Jim Lanigan's party. She went to the West 100th street station at 1 a. m. today and said she had not slept for a week.

Dance for Solid Week.
"I'm afraid they'll be shaking the house down," she said. "They've been dancing breakdowns and reels and jigs and clogs and other Irish step dances for a solid week. They've been breaking windows and glasses and chairs and tables."

"Every once in a while somebody goes into the kitchen and throws the stove and the sink and the table into the dining room. Then somebody else throws them into the kitchen."

"After two or three or four days I thought maybe they'd get tired and go to sleep. Now they seem to be getting their second wind. The other tenants are hanging on the steam pipes and throwing water down the air shaft, and I wouldn't be surprised if there was a fight before Sunday."

Patrolman Hegarty and a patrol wagon load of other policemen rushed to the scene. At Columbus avenue and 98th street they could hear the party. They could hear it plainly as they approached the scene of merriment.

Windows Open When Closed.
It was pretty cold at 2 o'clock this morning, but the front windows of Jim Lanigan's flat were open. They would have been open even if they were closed because there wasn't a pane of glass in them.

"Steady, men," said Hegarty. "Be ready for anything."
He led the way into Lanigan's flat. There were bottles on the table, the chairs, the Victrola, and the floor. One man was playing an accordion. Another had gone to sleep clasping affectionately a set of Irish bagpipes. The surviving revelers greeted the policemen hospitably with invitations to drink. In about half an hour the eight survivors of the party were safe in the patrol wagon and bound for the station house.

There they were booked as James Lanigan from County Kilkenny; William Powers, 36, from County Tyrone; Thomas Hopkins, 54, a bricklayer from County Mayo; Thomas Manion, 43, from County Leitrim; Patrick Keating, 46, from County Cork; John Carroll, 45, from County Sligo; Michael Flory, 45, also from County Sligo; and Pat Reagan, 31, from County Limerick.

The tenants of 33 West 98th street were getting some sleep tonight.

Landlord and Tenant Fight Knife Duel Over Rent Due

A tenant and a landlord fought a knife duel last night over the nonpayment of rent and the turning off of water. Steve Seidlicki, the tenant, was too seriously injured with a punctured lung to be taken from his home at 13514 Avenue K, and Ignatz Krzykowski, the landlord, same address, is in the Bridewell hospital with knife wounds. Wives of the men, who looked on during the fight, said Krzykowski turned off Seidlicki's water because he hadn't paid his rent.

1,000 U. S. Troops Leave to 'Defend' Panama Canal

PANAMA CITY, Feb. 9.—(AP)—One thousand troops departed today from the Canal Zone to the interior of Panama to defend the canal from "theoretical attack" by a land force from the Pacific sector. Similarly, 1,000 troops from the Atlantic sector are conducting maneuvers at Porto Bello. "Here will last until Saturday. Joint maneuvers involving 2,000 men will follow, lasting from Feb. 15 until Feb. 18, 50 miles in the interior."

3 Policemen Fired by Board for Intoxication

Three policemen were ordered discharged from the police force yesterday by the civil service commission after being found guilty of intoxication. The policemen are Oscar A. Glon of the Hudson avenue district, and Charles E. Carney and Charles P. Greinke of the Chicago avenue station. The dismissals were announced by Richard J. Collins, president of the commission.

SAYS WATERWAY WILL CUT FOOD SHIPPING COSTS

The opening of the Illinois waterway will permit a saving of 30 per cent in the shipping of canned goods, coffee, and sugar, John A. Fax, field secretary of the Mississippi Valley association, told the Food Products club at a luncheon at Hotel Sherman yesterday.

He urged business men to make surveys of their industry as to the amount of water freight available so that the figures could be presented to shipping lines as an inducement to provide regular schedules.

"If the opportunities are taken advantage of, 10 million tons can be shipped through the waterway in the next ten years," he said.

LEGISLATURE MAY BAR SHOWING OF EXECUTED NEGRO

COLUMBUS, S. C., Feb. 9.—(AP)—Legislative action was threatened today to prohibit the proposed public display of the body of a young Negro murdered, planned as a grim warning against crime.

Solicitor W. Gist Finley of York announced yesterday that after Will Sanders, 16-year-old Negro, is electrocuted March 3 for the murder of Miss Zula Stephenson his body would be exhibited on the courthouse steps at York so Negroes in that community would "believe Sanders had been put to death."

'SACRIFICE' SLAYER OF AGED MOTHER FORCED TO EAT; BOUND IN CELL

INEX, Ky., Feb. 9.—(AP)—Sullen and unruly after a forced feeding John H. Mills, accused of the "sacrifice" slaying of his mother as the climax of a mountain cult ritual, was handcuffed and chained to his cell bars tonight in the Martin county jail.

A two-day "hunger strike" of the Martin county farmer, who was arrested with seven other members of the family after officers broke into their crude cabin at Tomahawk and found Mrs. Lucinda Mills, 72, choked to death, ended as Dr. W. N. Keith, county health officer, forced a quantity of milk into Mills' stomach through a tube.

The others under arrest, four men and three women, continued chanting and praying in the jail as a number of townsfolk stood curiously outside.

After a coroner's jury named "Mills and others" as the slayers of the aged woman Commonwealth Attorney Jasper Priest announced that a charge of murder will be preferred against Mills and a charge of accessory to murder against six other members of the family. The eighth under arrest, Tom Boyd, is held as a material witness.

A hearing has been set for Saturday before Judge T. J. Hardin.

GUN TOTERS SENTENCED.
Joseph Gogline, 19 years old, 815 North K-ville avenue, and Elmer Mosh, 28 years old, 1803 Hammond street, were sentenced to six months each in the county jail yesterday by Judge John G. Gurnea on charges of carrying concealed weapons.

TOUHY BROTHERS ARE HUNTED AS O'BRIEN SLAYERS

Bare Victim's Deathbed Statement.

CRIMINAL COURT.
Frank Dougherty, assault, sentenced to 1 year in the Bridewell; Fred Blasberg, robbery, under the habitual criminal act sentenced to life in the penitentiary by Judge Harry Lewis.

Roger and Marty Touhy, leaders of the northwest side liquor gang, were sought yesterday for questioning concerning the murder of William J. O'Brien, roadhouse owner, who was fatally shot Wednesday in the speakeasy of Ted (Spider) Meyers at 2042 North Clark street. Police started a search for the hoodlum brothers after questioning Meyers.

"I wasn't there when O'Brien was shot," Meyers said, "but I came in shortly after it happened and went to the Augustana hospital to see O'Brien. I kept asking him who shot him and he said he'd 'take care of it' when he got out. Before he died he did say that 'Maybe it was the west side connection of mine.' I'm pretty sure he was talking about the Touhy brothers."

6 Persons in Party.
Meyers said that O'Brien told him that there were six persons, three men and three women, in the party that shot him.

"O'Brien told me that one of the men shook hands with him and said, 'Hello,' Meyers said. "The man invited O'Brien to 'come on outside,' but O'Brien refused. Then O'Brien said that the man asked him if he wanted to 'get it in there.' O'Brien started to run toward the rear of the bar and the man fired once, O'Brien said, and then there were three more shots."

The O'Brien murder is the second in which the Touhy brothers have been sought for questioning. Police believed them responsible for the slaying last December of John Rineola in a roadhouse near Morton Grove.

Walters Are Quizzed.
Those present in the speakeasy at the time of the O'Brien shooting maintained ignorance of the affair. Theodore English, waiter, said that his back was turned when O'Brien was shot; Ralph Clausen, another waiter, said that he had never seen the men or women before; and Dolores Ryan, a checkroom attendant, said she caught only a fleeting glimpse of the killers.

The inquest into the murder was continued to Feb. 23, to allow police time to find the owner of an automobile found in front of the saloon after the shooting. The license was traced to Mrs. W. W. Smith, 6357 North Luna street. Investigators found no one there by that name.

ABOUT HALF OF HUDSON STRIKERS BACK AT WORK

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 9.—[Special.]—Approximately one-half of those who struck at the Hudson Motor Car company plants last Monday had returned to their jobs today. Production was resumed on a decreased schedule. Plant officials announced that 1,000 men were at work in the body plant and 2,000 in the main factory. The Connors avenue plant was picketed, in spite of 10 below zero weather.

Since most of the work is synchronized, many of the men who returned could not be employed when scattered about the plant. Consequently they were sent home, to return tomorrow morning. At the main plant on Jefferson avenue operations were resumed today except in those departments dependent on auto bodies. Nearly 2,000 were working today in this plant.

At the Highland Park plant of the Briggs Manufacturing company, where the strike started twenty days ago, no strikers appeared.

President Walter O. Briggs made this statement today: "The published statement of the strikers' committee fully confirms what this company has said about the strike from the outset, namely, that it was incited and led by communist agitators. We are pleased to learn that the communist leadership of this strike has been exposed and disavowed by the victims of it."

EX-WIFE OF MAN WHO NOMINATED BLAINE IS DEAD

New York, Feb. 9.—[Special.]—Mrs. Frances M. Wolcott, author of "Heritage of the Years," a highly praised book of memoirs published last April, died tonight at her residence here, at the age of 81. Mrs. Wolcott twice was married. Her first husband was Lyman K. Bass, member of the house of representatives and law partner in Buffalo of Grover Cleveland. After his death she married United States Senator Edward O. Wolcott of Colorado, nominator of James G. Blaine for the presidency at Minneapolis in 1892. They were divorced in 1899.

Two Seized Trying to Sell Jewelry Taken in Robbery

Effingham, Ill., Feb. 9.—[Special.]—Trying to sell jewelry which is believed to have been stolen in Champlain, Ill., Robert Martin, 18, Decatur, and Clayton Jacobs, 24, of Youngstown, O., were arrested here today. They had in their possession twenty-four rings and seven watches.

HUNGRY PUPILS GET $100 FROM SHOW RECEIPTS

Cash Turned Over to Fund by Mayor's Office.

A check for $100 reached the Hungry School Children's fund yesterday from the office of Mayor Cermak. This was the amount, it was explained, which was allotted to the fund from the proceeds of the Ed Wynn show here recently. The money was turned over to the mayor for distribution.

Three small girls, Edith C. Magerstadt, Annette Weiss, and Helen Elfverson, formed a partnership, decorated match boxes and sold them to their friends and neighbors. They gave the entire proceeds of $5.50 to the needy youngsters for free lunches. A children's circus given in a basement at 3116 Ingleside avenue netted $125. Those giving the benefit were Robert Northfield, 10 years old; Helen Richard, 11, and Jack Lopater, 10.

New Gifts to Fund.
Yesterday's gifts totaled $129.75, bringing the grand total to $20,716.75. Following is a list of yesterday's contributions:

$100—From proceeds of the Ed Wynn show.
$5.50—Girls' match box sale.
$5—A friend from Oak Park, Mrs. F. W. Leach, W. C. M.
$3—Lauretta Bosch.
$1.25—Proceeds from a children's circus.
$1—E. M. O. Anonymous Anonymous.
Ruth Bauh, Illinois Inspection bureau.
Total.....$129.75
Previously acknowledged.....$20,587.00

Grand total.....$20,716.75
Contributions should be sent to the cashier of THE TRIBUNE, Tribune Tower, accompanied by the adjoining coupon:

Prof. W. Z. Ripley, Expert on Railways, Will Retire

Cambridge, Mass., Feb. 9.—(AP)—The resignation of Prof. William Z. Ripley, 66, widely known expert on transportation, to become professor emeritus, was announced today by Harvard university. The resignation will be effective March 1.

He has been administrator of labor standards for the war department, chairman of the national adjustment commission of the United States shipping board, special examiner for the interstate commerce commission on consolidation of railroads, president of American Economic association. He was graduated from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in 1890, and has been on the Harvard faculty since 1901. Best known among Prof. Ripley's publications is "Main Street and Wall Street."

ILL AFTER INJURY; DIES.
Mrs. Louise Stroner, 76 years old, 2681 West 41st street, died yesterday in the County hospital of pneumonia that developed after she was injured in a fall at her home on Nov. 27.

Youth Held on Charges He Robbed Benefactor

Clifford Wilbur, 21 years old, 2113 Lincoln avenue, was held to the grand jury yesterday in bond of $10,000, by Judge Donald S. McKinlay on a charge of robbery. Albert Buker, 3476 North Clark street, testified that the defendant robbed him of $18 after he had given Wilbur food and shelter for two weeks.

PAIN DEADENED CHEST COLDS LOOSENE WITHOUT DRUGS

Get quick relief from neuralgia, pain, sciatica, pain, neuritis, pain, rheumatic pain, lame back, stiff neck, headache, strains and chest colds by rubbing plenty of Ben-Gay on the spot. It doesn't blister or stain. Rub it in till it sinks down and soothes the pain or breaks up the chest cold. Take no drugs, for any drug that is powerful enough to "dead" pain or loosen a chest cold may not be good for you.

But beware of imitations. Ask your druggist for genuine Ben-Gay by name (called "Ben-Gay" in English). There are many analgesic ointments, mostly cheap imitations of Ben-Gay made out of synthetic drugs. That is why they are ineffective. Insist on Ben-Gay and you will get real results.

Stopped His Wife's Rheumatic Attack

Pain, Agony and Swelling Gone in 48 Hours with Swift Acting Prescription

That marvelous prescription—Allerene—promises you speedy relief from pains, aches and inflammation of Rheumatism, Neuritis, Limbago or Sciatica often caused by excess uric acid.

Folks who have suffered the most piercing, wrenching agony—literally rendered helpless for weeks and unable to work have gained miraculous, joyful freedom from pain. Allerene contains no opiates—rather, it's a sugar formula especially compounded which treats your trouble scientifically—first ending pain and bringing relief—then it drives out from muscles, joints and tissues the excess uric acid, and other circulating poisons which is the cause of most rheumatic troubles—this excess uric acid starts to go within 24 hours. All leading druggists dispense Allerene—one 8 oz. bottle for 85c MUST give logical results as stated above or money returned. International Lab., Rochester, N. Y.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

THE WEATHER TAKES A LICKING.

A blizzard which buried Chicago under almost a foot of snow has been followed by the lowest temperatures experienced in a generation. Either the snow or the intense cold might have been expected to disorganize the life of the community for the better part of a week. The fact is that both together have caused a minimum of interruption to the routine. The local transportation facilities have functioned without serious delays. Elevated and surface cars, buses, and taxicabs have met all requirements placed upon them. Merchants have continued to make their deliveries. Newspapers have arrived in time for breakfast. Milk distribution has been uninterrupted, although the country roads have been almost impassable. And so on. The determination of every one to go about his business has made it possible for every one to get his business done.

The facts are worth bearing in mind the next time some croaker announces that society is crumbling. If society is crumbling it is, indeed, strange that it continues to function in all the complexity of its organization despite the enormous natural difficulties which the weather has presented in recent days. Societies crumble when individuals for one reason or another refuse any longer to play their accustomed roles. That certainly is not a description of the behavior of our people. As individuals and collectively, they have done their work this week better than it ever before has been done under similar circumstances.

THE ENGLISH BEAN BALL.

The cricket test matches between Australia and England have produced an international crisis, if it is to be assumed that the British empire has already so broken up that a dispute between the motherland and a dominion is to be regarded as international. The average American does not understand cricket any more than the Englishman understands baseball. Each agrees only that there is something mysterious in the addition of the other. Therefore the American will not be able to comprehend the full seriousness of the cricket dispute which has arisen. Heretofore Australians have been a bit too much for the home folks, but this year English cricket has developed some bowlers who were too much for the Australians. Hence the protest.

All the British pretend to be good losers. That's a handsome pretense if you can make good on it, although its moral quality could be subject to doubt. It does not seem that the Australians are particularly good at it. Americans are familiar with the habit of some baseball pitchers using the bean ball. It is intended to teach the batter some respect for the pitcher. Many batters will shrink a little from the plate after a ball has broken in towards their heads once or twice. Some pitchers have earned reputations for laying the batter out cold by socking him in the temple with a pitch he couldn't duck. It frequently makes bad feeling. Usually the injured players retaliate on their own. In one way or another with their spikes or otherwise, they can get back at the fellow who has added a touch of homicide to the national sport.

If we understand anything about the cricket dispute it is that the English bowlers have developed a delivery which endangers the life and limb of the batter, and any one who has seen a good bowler shoot the cricket ball at the wicket or the player knows that something in the way of manslaughter can be done with it. The Australians are supposed to be tough eggs, and why they let out a yell instead of doing something quietly about it is another mystery we'll not try to solve.

Of all sports cricket would have been picked as the one in which nations could compete without bringing on war. We know that soccer and hockey arouse the most savage of national instincts, and it has been said that when international soccer is played in South America the officials must be put in cages to protect them from the spectators. If basketball is ever made an international sport there's certain to be murder done. Baseball has been tried internationally, particularly with Canada and Japan, and no bad consequences have been found. American football, curiously enough, has better collegiate manners than basketball, possibly because it is played outdoors and the individual play is not an open. It is less the case now than it was even a few years ago that an outstanding football player should expect to be quietly taken to pieces in the first mass play and returned to his dear ones for reassembling, if that is possible. It is still, however, not wholly taboo to send him to the bench with a twisted ankle before he can get loose for some broken field running. The game absorbs these incidents without any particular animosity. If a player goes out with a broken collar bone or a few broken ribs, his arm out of joint, or his eyes closed, it is a fine tribute to his skill and a mark of the esteem in which the other team held him.

The bean ball, if that's the thing that has been kicking trouble in Australia, may have to be reckoned with if the commonwealth of British nations, having lost most of its wealth, is to retain anything in common.

THE EXECUTIVE AND ECONOMY.

The protest of Republican partisans in congress against the Democratic proposal to vest in the President sweeping powers of executive reorganization will not raise the temperature of the citizenry at this moment. Certainly the dealings of the legislative branch with retrenchment demonstrate the urgent need for some more masterful control of a situation steadily moving toward disaster.

The Republican organization has no worse record than the Democratic in congress up to this time. Both have refused to take advantage of their opportunity to accomplish reform. But the latter have now taken a step which promises substantial results and at least will place responsibility.

The present situation offers the only conditions under which the sweeping reductions essential in this crisis are or may be politically practicable. So long as the party which has filled the public offices and been chiefly responsible for their creation remains in power there is little likelihood of the self-sacrifice required for substantial retrenchment. It requires less self-abnegation of a new administration to perform this surgery. The Democratic party and its successful candidate for the presidency are explicitly pledged to drastic retrenchment in federal expenditure and to administrative reorganization to that end. Republican opposition will have no sympathy or support from the public. Objection to the proposal, as Vice President Elect Garner remarks, will not be to excess of authority, but to its limitations. The nation groaning under its burden of taxation will not fear this grant of powers to the President, but rather that he will not use them promptly and to the full extent of the nation's need. But this fear we trust will soon be removed. A great opportunity to bring relief to the nation is before Mr. Roosevelt, and the Republican party cannot afford to oppose or restrict it.

A DECISION APPEALED.

For his retirement from the Circuit bench Judge Thomas Taylor pleads holy writ and thus makes objection doubly hard. Nevertheless, his decision will be reversed by bench and bar and by the community he has served so well and long. Appreciation of this service must make protest ungracious, yet at seventy-two and in despite of the Psalmist, Judge Taylor has a reasonable expectancy of more years of usefulness in the administration and development of the law, and while sympathizing with his desire "to spend his remaining years in peace and rest," we hope he will postpone its satisfaction. Judges of Thomas Taylor's quality are ornaments of any judiciary, state or national. We do not want to lose him yet.

REFERRED TO THE NEXT SECRETARY OF STATE.

A psychiatrist has advised pastors to have their wives calling distance when dealing with "certain unmarried middle aged women who are prone to be somewhat hysterical." These petitioners, he says, are likely to have embarrassing delusions.

The warning deserves perhaps a wider application. There is our amiable and susceptible Uncle Sam, whose conduct seems sometimes to be influenced by ladies of this variety and their counterpart in trousers.

The Other Side

OLD MEN'S HOBBIES.
[Boston Transcript.]

That eminent horticulturist, Dr. Walter G. Kendall, may, by reason of youth—he is only seventy-seven—be adequately qualified to judge of the problems of old age, but he is at least academically right in laying down the principle that the secret of attaining a comfortable and happy old age is to have a hobby. A hobby is an animal upon which an old man, as well as a young man, may ride roughshod not only over the ordinary avocations of life but over the pains and sorrows of senility. A hobby never gets senile. By fixing the attention upon a thing always agreeable, always diverting, the thought, the consciousness, is removed from the infirmities of age. What worries and wears any one to what one thinks about. And as he approaches the fourscore mark Dr. Kendall thinks of nothing but health and strength as he dresses his prize grape vines and calls in Gallic accents to his French poodles.

Old men have been rescued from brooding over aches and pains by many sorts of beneficial hobbies. Gladstone kept himself refreshed and prolonged his capacities far into the eighties by bequilling himself with translating Plato, Horace, and Aelfric. Arthur Balfour, at eighty, wrote works of philosophy in the intervals of his transactions of the affairs of state. Gladstone also had a happy hobby in the chopping down of trees in his woods. If he had not indulged in the indiscretion of a horseback ride in a rainstorm, Washington might well have prolonged his years with his happy hobby of tree planting. Louis XVI. of France was on the way to a placid old age with his unusual hobby of being a practical locksmith when the guillotine cut him off. The historian Bancroft prolonged his comfortable eighties with his hobby of horseback riding. Out of door avocations are particularly to be recommended, with prudence and moderation, to octogenarians. We do not need to go back to past history for examples of the benefit of a hobby, for we are acquainted with old men who derive a saving interest in life from their passion for collecting things.

But perhaps the commonest saving hobby with venerable Americans is the habit of keeping at work. There is after all no hobby like making an avocation of one's vocation. To like one's work, and to keep on doing it, is the true secret of a "ripe old age." One lives on and on because one keeps cheerfully living one's chosen life. Habitual occupations, when enjoyed, are not only a panacea, but very frequently an antidote, for the pains of age. To quit one's work prematurely is an invitation to the reaper. When Mark Twain said that he was suffering from "the worst of diseases, old age," he confessed his loss of the best for work. The ripe old age is still the busy one.

HOW TIME FLIES!
"Put all thoughts of merriment out of your head, my dear. He only earns $15 a week."
"Yes, daddy, but a week goes so quickly."—Tit-Bits.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

"OF COURSE" we're pretty broad minded and all that and what other people do is their own business and really there's nothing could shock us but an earthquake, but really, we were a little surprised to see a picture of a charming lady in the newspapers and a smiling child standing beside her with the caption under the picture, "Miss Frances Perkins, probably next secretary of labor in President Roosevelt's cabinet, and her daughter." My dear! Can you imagine! Not that it isn't perfectly all right. This is a free country [except when you want a glass of beer] and people can do as they like. But it does seem a little unusual. Of course if Mr. Roosevelt approves of that sort of thing, well, that's his affair.

NOW PERSONALLY it doesn't make a bit of difference to us, not a particle, only it isn't being done, it really isn't being done. But wait! Reading down in the story we find that "Miss Perkins, while she keeps her unmarried name, Lucy Perkins, is in private life Mrs. Paul Wilson." Oh! Usually if you dig into a person's private life you turn up a scandal, but in this case it is quite different. But if Miss Perkins becomes secretary of labor in the new cabinet it is bound to make the Lucy Stone idea quite popular and many married women will blossom out with their maiden name and "Miss" in front of it.

BUT WE CAN not use to anything and after a while we can probably remain quite calm and when some one introduces us to "Miss Blondy and her cunning little daughter" we'll never blink an eyelash. They're probably accustomed to this sort of thing down in New York, where Miss Lucy Stone accustomed them to it some time ago, but out here in the hinterland it's a little new yet.

BEAUTY.

Separating beauty, we depend Upon upheaval and a rushing light To shock our sleep and resurrect our sight: Embracing pain we move and apprehend A pinnacle: our loins convulse and bend With pride and pity, ecstasy and fright Before we settle back into the night Concealing this beginning from this end.

There is no august pathway from the womb And back again that we may place a seal Upon ourselves, allowing grace or doom To seize us, and acquit, destroy, heal: The first, the ultimate, the flood, the gloom Ate lodged in us: to these we rise or kneel.

PETER PAN.

"HOUSE MOVES TO PUT U. S. OUT OF BUSINESS."

—Headline! Well, perhaps it's all for the best. They might just as well put the U. S. out of business at one fell swoop as push it nearer and nearer the brink the way they've been doing the last few years. Why prolong the agony?

AFTER USING UP A lot of paper and pencil

the U. S. agriculture bureau of entomology solemnly declares a flea can leap thirteen inches horizontally and seven and three-quarter inches vertically. At the same moment this great question was settled the commerce department's bureau of fisheries issued the appalling statement that a frog under normal conditions can leap three feet, but, when surging with deep emotion, six feet. Now we should like some government department at Washington to say how far the ordinary taxpayer can leap straight up into the air when he discovers what the government bureaus are doing with his money.

"I ADMIT I'm a Socialist," said Dr. Yard.

The Trib. Oh, we thought people had advanced to the point where they no longer admitted they were Socialists. We thought that nowadays they bragged about it.

A HITCH HIKER down near Carbondale after hitching a ride in a car took the motorist's gun away from him, held him up with it and robbed him of his loose change and watch. It would certainly seem that hitch hikers who hold up autoists could at least furnish their own guns. It is almost too much when things get to the point that hitch hikers expect car drivers to supply them with revolvers as well as free rides and their loose change. Some day these hitch hikers will go too far.

THE STYLES for the well dressed gent. of 1933 say the hips will be much smaller and higher.

This is probably because the necessity of carrying large likier flasks in the south pockets [when headed north] no longer exists. Or at least won't exist when the new administration gets busy and eradicates the 18th amendment.

"LONG LIFE Becoming a Curse, Say U. S. Doctors."—Headline. Probably because of more and more and higher and higher taxes, speeding automobiles, unlicensed drivers, the high price of hootch and people refusing to shovel snow off the walks.

PRIMEVAL.
(A study in rhythm.)

Here on the hush of the mooses
Eve walked alone in the forest.
The woman of Adam, the first of her Race, she was bare to the sun in the Forest. The first sun of man shone on Eve with her tangled hair, gilding the Down on her skin. And she smiled at her

With raspberry stains on her mouth, and her Eyes all astart for temptation.

CAMPFIRE.

CABLES FROM LONDON say that Buckingham palace will probably be turned into a hotel. It would be an added drawing card for American tourists if the king would stay on as clerk. How exciting to see his majesty ring the bell and hear him say: "Front, show this gentleman up to No. 558. And take up a quart of Scotch, six sodas, and four glasses." R. H. L.

"I'VE SEEN IT BEFORE."
CORRESPONDENT asks for the scientific name for the illusion which makes a man think he has seen something which he now sees supposedly for the first time. Search of dictionaries and some other sources of information did not disclose an accepted scientific name for the rather well known condition. In his "Psychopathology of Everyday Life" Freud discusses the subject at some length, but the name he gives it—deja vu—could scarcely be called scientific. Translated into English, these words mean "already or previously seen." Up to a certain point this name is descriptive, but it is colloquial rather than scientific. It is not fully descriptive because the illusion applies to things heard as well as things seen, and also to experiences that have nothing to do with either sight or hearing.

They are illusions rather than delusions, since the person who has the experience either does not believe in it, or, if he does, he can be persuaded out of his belief. If not, he does not let them delude him into taking any anti-social or social attitudes.

A man hears or sees something. A part of his mind tells him he has heard or seen that thing before. He credits it to his memory. Or, he has an experience of still another kind, and there goes up into his consciousness the thought that he had previously been in a like condition. The fact is that he has had the experience, that it was stored in the memory box, but the lid to this box was fastened most of the time.

This type of mental experience is not unusual either. It is one of the foundations for their belief in reincarnation. Freud, as we would expect, discusses the subject thoroughly and ties it up with dreams. The memory is of a dream in which the imaginative mind created pictures. These pictures were very similar to the present experience, back of the dream tying some repressed thinking and some wish fulfillment. The dream picture had considerable similarity to the actual one, and

YOUR DISTANCE lies in your vasomotor apparatus. Much research work is being done on this system, and out of this work something of practical importance is certain to come.

Meanwhile bear your annoyance yet a little longer. You have had an opportunity to learn patience.

SOMETHING IS POISON.
M. Z. writes: What causes very small bumps to break out close together on parts of my hands, which then break and form together? Sometimes these little itches and when scratched something like water flows from it. I have cleared this away many times by using antiseptics a few times a day, but after a time it breaks out again. It always comes only on my hands and fingers. I have never been sick.

FRIEND OF THE PEOPLE

Letters to this department must be signed with names and addresses of writers.

NOT A CITIZEN.
Aurora, Ont., Feb. 8.—[Friend of the People.]—If a person who was born in the United States in 1896 and lived there for eighteen years comes to Canada and is naturalized, is such person still considered a United States citizen? I understand a law to that effect was passed a few years ago. N. G. P.

No; the law the writer has in mind was probably one passed March 3, 1931, providing that a person who had previously established a permanent residence in a foreign country before Jan. 1, 1917, was naturalized and returned to the United States prior to March 3, 1931, such person might be naturalized within six months after making a declaration of intention (first paper) and five years' residence in the United States.

Dist. Dir. U. S. Dept. of Labor.

MORTGAGE NOTE.
Benton Harbor, Mich., Feb. 8.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A holds a note secured by mortgage (first) on a lot in 1917, for five years. B has paid the interest on this note every six months. 1. Would this mortgage have to be renewed when he pays the interest when it falls due? 2. Is it legal as it is now? D. E. M.

1. If it is not renewed then the mortgage holder would be in a position to start foreclosure proceedings at any time.
2. Yes, it is legal.

PLUMBING BILLS.

Chicago, Feb. 8.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I have done plumbing work for several people and cannot collect. I want to know what I can do to get my money. What is the minimum amount that I can obtain a judgment for? 4. Can I obtain a judgment without an attorney? 5. As I am unemployed I cannot afford to retain an attorney. F. K.

1. There is no legal minimum.
2. If you employ an attorney his fee will be the largest item. The fee of the clerk of the circuit court for filing the claim is negligible.
3. See 1.
4. We suggest that you obtain one of the printed forms for a claim for lien from a stationer and decide for yourself whether you understand it.
5. Conceivably you might employ an attorney on a contingent fee.

16 YEARS AGO TODAY
FEBRUARY 10, 1917.

BERLIN.—Passports for Ambassador Gerard and his staff were refused at the German embassy this afternoon by the foreign office. At about the same time the German government was officially informed by the Spanish ambassador that Count von Bernstorff will sail for Halifax on Feb. 13. Arrangements for this last step in the severance of diplomatic relations between America and Germany were made at a conference which Mr. Gerard held with Count Bernstorff at the German office. Count Montagu called at the embassy and had a lengthy talk with Mr. Gerard. It was then that the American was formally told that he could depart.

LONDON.—A great falling off is noticed in the rate of exchange of dollars and tonnage lost through the unrestricted operations of German submarines. The loss of life reported, however, is far greater than on any day since the blockade began. The Germans are announced to have taken directly or indirectly twenty-nine lives of seamen. The number of ships reported sunk is only six, the smallest number by far reported on any day since the blockade. Yesterday ten were sunk. Today's tonnage is less than half the loss of yesterday, only 19,424 as contrasted to yesterday's 24,072, or 13,648 tons less.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Measures for the protection of Americans in the submarine war zones and the question of determining what will be regarded as an "overt act" by Germany were the principal matters discussed by the President and his advisers at a protracted session of the cabinet. It was decided that no overt act had been committed by German submarines since the proclamation of the resumption of ruthless submarine warfare. Secretary of State Lansing reported that George Washington, the Negro fireman on the Turin, torpedoed without warning, turned out to be a Canadian, and that Mrs. O'Donnell and her child, drowned on the California, were recorded on the passenger list as British, although American was recorded. Mr. Wilson indicated that he did not regard the torpedoing of the California without warning the overt act which would cause him to take further action against Germany.

LONDON.—A British torpedo boat destroyer of an older type, the British admiralty announced tonight, struck a mine in the English channel on Feb. 8 and sank. All the officers and all of the crew, except five, were lost.

NORFOLK, Va.—The allied merchant fleet, reported to have been assembling off the Virginia capes for several days waiting for convoy, was said tonight to have been augmented during the day and to now number twenty vessels, all heavily laden with cargoes for ports in the war zone.

WAR SUMMARY.—British raiding parties destroyed many German dug-

RAILROAD WAGES AND RATES.

Cleveland, O., Feb. 8.—This is in reply to Mr. James E. Bennett's letter, published in THE TRIBUNE of Jan. 17. Mr. Bennett cited an example of savings his firm made in transporting eggs. Undoubtedly neither the producer nor consumer benefited from such "savings."

Farmers would not be so financially oppressed today if some of the millions that have been pocketed by grain exchange gamblers had gone to them.

Small savings in transportation costs do not benefit farmers or consumers. Foreign imports, middlemen and grain exchange gamblers will get their commissions. Their professed sympathy for the farmer will not deter them. Wage costs constitute less than half the total railway operating costs. A 10 per cent wage reduction would affect retail prices approximately one-half of one per cent, assuming the entire amount were passed on to consumers. No such small percentage ever would reach farmers or consumers.

Not even the railroads contend that rail wage reductions would result in reduced freight rates. Freight rates have increased since the depression began and the railroads desire to maintain these increases. It is particularly revolting and provocative when those who have made fortunes in gambling on grain and stock exchanges indulge in such false propaganda and designate as racketeers hundreds of thousands of respectable, industrious American citizens when they attempt to protect, by honest means and peaceful negotiation, the only source of living they possess.

A. F. WHITNEY,
President, Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen.

BILLIARDS.

Chicago, Feb. 4.—French Lane, your sports writer on billiards, is probably not a billiard player, and if not can be excused.

In almost every article he refers to three cushions as the most difficult and scientific game in billiards and intimates that no mere balk line champion could be expected to understand the wizardry of three cushions.

Some one should inform him that three cushions is only one department of billiards, and that the points involved in three cushions are only a fractional part of what an expert balk line player must know and master.

The point I want to make is that a professional balk line player can always be found in the billiard halls of Chicago for a bomb explosion costing ten lives during a preparatory parade July 22, 1918. Warren K. Billings, the first defendant to be tried, was convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment.

Balk line is too difficult and exacting a game to interest any great number of billiard players. J. W. HARRISON.

ENTERTAINMENT.
Chicago, Feb. 6.—What sort of a sport do the policemen call this new game they seem to take quite a fancy to? I mean the childish practice of stealthily sneaking up behind parked cars and peeping in the windows with the aid of a flashlight. In a space especially provided with facilities for parking [such as we have in the forest preserves and parks] I can see no reason for these sneaky tactics. Surely there must be some more important work they could busy themselves at!

Cheap entertainment I call it!
KENNETH CAMP.

SOMETHING OUGHT TO BE DONE ABOUT THIS

BRITISH PROPOSE TO WIDEN SCOPE OF DEBT TALK

Seeks to Cover Monetary and Political Problems.

BY JOHN STEELE.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

LONDON, Feb. 9.—The British government is modifying its original attitude regarding the scope of the conference on war debts at Washington, D. C., it was learned today. A new trend of thought and policy is gradually taking shape as a result of the nature of the information, Sir Ronald Lindsay, ambassador to the United States, has imparted to the cabinet committee of five, which is now considering the problem.

A broader basis for the March discussions is being suggested. The feeling in London is that an agreement should be reached with the United States in order to widen the scope of the Anglo-American negotiations.

World Include Other Problems. In some quarters, for instance, it is felt it might prove impracticable, if not inexpedient, to treat the war debt problem as entirely distinct from other problems such as monetary, economic, and even political. Currency and kindred questions, international trade and disarmament are being mentioned for inclusion in the conference agenda.

British advocates of this policy, it is understood, stress that such a survey should be conducted not in a haphazard spirit, but rather in a wholehearted spirit of collaboration in pursuit of a twofold and broad objective equally beneficial to both countries and the world generally—political appeasement and a return of economic prosperity constituting the objective.

British statesmen favoring this broader line of negotiation believe that by this means the technical difficulties which might beset and impede any immediate settlement of the debts would be satisfactorily ironed out.

Cabinet Has Last Word. It is understood that these views and the modification of the ministerial outlook have yet to be considered by financial and economic experts. When the cabinet debt committee reaches definite conclusions they will be submitted to the full cabinet for a final decision.

Sir Ronald met with the "big five" again today. Further meetings were fixed for tomorrow and Monday.

Meanwhile, the British government, which served on the world by Prime Minister MacDonald that Britain has no immediate intention of returning to the gold standard. The notice took the form of an answer in the house of commons to a question, and while it apparently referred to a statement made some time ago at Geneva by Sir Frederick Leith-Ross, British member of the preparatory commission for the world economic conference, it was really directed at the United States.

Asks Statement Clarified. The question was put by a Liberal member of parliament, who said he wanted to know whether Leith-Ross had been instructed to outline at Geneva the terms under which Britain would return to the gold standard.

"I would like to make it clear that these statements do not indicate that Great Britain is prepared to return to the gold standard under the present circumstances," MacDonald replied. "On the contrary, they make it plain that there are a number of economic as well as financial conditions which must be fulfilled before restoration of the international gold standard can be a practical possibility."

MRS. A. L. S. STERN ASKS 4 MILLIONS FOR ALIENATION

New York, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Suits aggregating $4,000,000, one alleging alienation of affections of her husband, Allison L. Stern, member of the New York Stock exchange, and another charging "criminal conversation," have been filed by Mrs. Allison L. Stern against Mrs. Ruth Erlanger Nathan, former wife of Alfred Nathan Jr.

The suits were revealed when Mrs. Nathan filed a motion asking that her husband be taken from Oliver Rice of St. Louis, Mo., described as a friend of Mrs. Stern.

In her answer Mrs. Nathan denied all charges made by Mrs. Stern, which, among others, alleged that Mrs. Nathan accompanied Stern to a dance at an inn in Monmouth county, N. J., in 1926 and, after inducing him to drink heavily, caused him publicly to conduct himself indecently.

U. S. Tells of Refund for Estates of 2 Chicagoans

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9.—(AP)—The bureau of internal revenue today announced a $244,482 abatement because of overassessment of the estate of Robert M. Fein, and a $28,851 abatement because of over assessment of estate of Ernest Stein, both of Chicago.

CARDINAL IS DEAD

ANDREW FRUH WIRTH

ROME, Feb. 9.—(AP)—The Austrian cardinal of the Curia, Andrew Fruhwirth, chancellor of the Roman Catholic church, died today at the age of 87. He was a Dominican and had been a cardinal seventeen years. The number of cardinals is now 52 of a possible 70.

The chancellor was the protector of a number of American religious bodies, among them the Tertiary Dominicans, Springfield, Ill.; Sisters of St. Agnes, Fond du Lac, Wis.; Dominican Sisters, Most Holy Rosary, of California, and the Gray Sisters of the Cross, Ottawa.

Andrew Fruhwirth entered the Dominican order in 1868 and was appointed a priest in 1868. He was appointed Papal Nuncio in Munich in 1907. He was created a cardinal Dec. 6, 1915, and on July 25, 1927, was appointed chancellor of the Holy Roman church, a position which held archdiocese is one of the highest of the Holy See and ranks above that of secretary of state.

GERMAN CABINET OFFICER REBUKES SWEDISH PAPER

Minister Is Angered by Attacks on Hitler.

(Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.) BERLIN, Feb. 9.—Capt. Hermann Wilhelm Goering, National Socialist minister without portfolio, has administered an official rebuke by telegram to the leading newspaper of Goteborg, Sweden, because of its attacks on Chancellor Adolf Hitler.

Supporting Goering's move, it was announced today, Dr. Frederic Hans von Rosenberg, the German minister at Stockholm, has lodged a protest with the Swedish foreign ministry.

Seeks to End Hostility.

While Dr. von Rosenberg proceeded on his own initiative, his action was undertaken with the knowledge of the German foreign office and was intended to impress the Swedish government with the desirability of having an end put to the editorial hostility exhibited by a section of the Swedish press toward Hitler in the interest of German-Swedish relations. The minister's request, it was stated, was received with sympathetic consideration.

The incident has provoked sharp attacks on Goering in the Social and Catholic Central press, which charges him with assuming the functions of the foreign minister in dispatching an official telegram to a foreign newspaper. In a statement to a Swedish correspondent, Goering said that his telegram was wholly inspired by a personal desire to deal with the situation through his private intervention and that of his friends in Sweden.

Telegram Creates Furore.

(Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.) COPENHAGEN, Feb. 9.—The telegram sent by Hermann Goering to the editor of the Goteborg Handels- och Sjöfartstidning, one of the most influential dailies in northern Europe, protesting against references to Chancellor Hitler, has caused a furore throughout Scandinavia. Goering protested against an article in which it was stated:

"It is incomprehensible that the statesmen and press of the world should be compelled to occupy themselves with this figure. Hitler is an insult."

Goering's telegram read: "As a true friend of the Swedish people, I see in such dirty expressions a serious danger to the friendly relations between the two peoples. Before further steps are taken I should like to be advised as to whether you intend to prevent such statements in the future."

Protest Draws Retort. The protest, which is regarded here as showing "more of an ardent temperament than diplomatic training," drew the following retort from the editor:

"It almost seems as if Goering means that Sweden is a sort of annex of the Reich. The tone in which his remarks are couched is undoubtedly only a natural one to him, it is the one employed by a sergeant in military barracks. Civilized people do not talk in such a fashion. It is sufficient to point to the fact that the German minister issues threats as if it were his duty to sit in judgment on the Swedish press."

2 REINSURANCE PLANS FAVORED FOR ILLINOIS LIFE

Receiver's Proposals Are Given to Judge.

A recommendation that the 76,000 policy holders of the Illinois Life Insurance company be reinsured under the plan of either the Lincoln National Life Insurance company of Fort Wayne, Ind., or of James S. Kemper & Co., insurance engineers, of Chicago, was submitted to Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson yesterday.

The Illinois Life company was controlled, until its failure, by James W. Ernest J., and Raymond W. Stevens, who are under indictment on charges of conspiracy to defraud the company.

Gen. Abel Davis, receiver of Illinois Life, made the recommendation, based on a report on thirteen proposals for reinsurance, as analyzed by Edward B. Fackler, New York reinsurance actuary, whom Gen. Davis retained as an expert adviser.

Report Given by Expert.

"It is the actuary's opinion that the best offer from an established company is the proposal of the Lincoln National Life Insurance company," Mr. Fackler reported. "The proposal is that of a well established company, with $225,000,000 of insurance in force at the end of 1932, this business having decreased from $240,000,000 a year earlier. Acquisition of the Illinois Life business by Lincoln National would serve to bring up the total volume of business to somewhat more than it was at the close of 1931.

"Capital stock of the Lincoln National is $2,500,000 and surplus is $2,500,000. There is also a contingency reserve of $1,001,000. This is approximately equivalent to the difference between the total value of bonds and stocks owned by the company, as claimed in its annual statement, and the market values of Dec. 31, 1932. The company therefore has a 'book' margin for the protection of policyholders of $7,000,000 if the contingency reserve be included and of $6,000,000 if not included.

"The ratio of capital and surplus (including the contingency reserve) to the total insurance in force Dec. 31, 1932, was $7.27 per $1,000 of insurance. If approximately 125 million dollars additional insurance were to be included by taking over the Illinois Life the ratio would be $6.32 per $1,000.

Restrictions of Indiana Law.

"The Indiana statutes include restrictions as regards the making of investments, such as to prevent the company from having too much money invested in any one security or from having too large an interest in the affairs of any one company or organization. The company owns its home office and includes it on the annual statement at a value not disproportionate to the volume of business transacted.

"The company experienced a heavy drain on its cash resources to make cash policy loans and pay cash surrenders during 1932. However, the company's cash on hand increased from $1,178,000 at the close of 1931 to $1,795,000 at the close of 1932, demonstrating that it was more than able to meet all cash demands during 1932 from income and maturing investments."

Describes Kemper Plan.

Concerning the Kemper reorganization plan, Mr. Fackler first pointed out that the proposal gives the defunct company the advantage of $1,250,000 new cash paid in. This arrangement, he said, would give the reinsured policyholders a ratio of $10 of capital and surplus for every $1,000 of insurance.

"This ratio is to be regarded as an important element in the proposal," he stated. "It appears proper to require that the addition of new blocks of business by merger or additional reinsurance should not decrease the ratio to lower than approximately $7 per $1,000 of insurance at any time during the first fifteen years of business."

"The fact that the Kemper company is proposed to be domiciled in the state of Illinois carries with it a prospective relief from taxes on premiums variously estimated at $30,000 to $40,000. However, the state of Illinois may at any time impose such a premium tax, and this would cancel the advantage on this account."

Mr. Fackler spent most of the day on the witness stand, being questioned by attorneys for lenders of unaccepted bids. Attorney D. D. Stansbury, who claims to represent holders of $150,000 in policies, monopolized most of the time, sharply questioning the witness until Judge Wilkerson halted the examination by instructing Stansbury to submit a proposal in writing if he had one.

Arrest Man and Woman as Dry Law Violators

Mrs. Helen Short was arrested by prohibition agents late yesterday at her home at 5475 Lake Park avenue, where agents found a quantity of assorted liquors. John Fields was arrested at his saloon at 9118 South Austin avenue. Both will be arraigned before United States Commissioner Walker today.

One Sure Way to End Coughs and Colds

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains in addition to creosote other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble, and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, are not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.

Alliance Has 3d Causerie; Aids Red Cross

'Conference Informale' Is

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

"I brought my little French maid with me this afternoon to prepare the tea, but I told her on the way down we'd probably need only two cups." Mrs. George A. Cragg explained yesterday afternoon as she sewed a flannel baby dress in the Alliance-Hugo lined library of the Alliance Française on the second floor of the Pine Arts building.

It was the third "causerie" of the alliance and to Mrs. Cragg's surprise twenty-two members came, in spite of a sliding mercury, to chat in French, to sew for the Red Cross, and to hear Mrs. Rachel Desobry read the first act of Richepin's "Le Chemineau." All of them declared they wouldn't have missed it for anything.

A "causerie" is the new "pronounced" dictionary of the French and English languages, defines as "chatting, gossiping," while one of the attaches in the French consular office says with a ready clipped accent that it is a "conference informale" quite different from the 17th century salons. Choose the definition you will, the Thursday afternoon "at homes" of the alliance live up to both.

No one claims credit for the idea. Every one seems to know about it. At one, Mrs. Ralph T. Winston explained yesterday, and these last three weeks it's grown in favor—just like Topsy.

"This is the program," she went on to tell. "Arrive at 2. Sew for an hour. Then an hour of entertainment, a reading or something similar. Tea from 4 to 5, and then 'au revoir'."

A definite schedule, but a visitor would never guess it to drop in and see small groups spread about the large library needleworking and chatting, some of the members with polished accents and some with accents not so polished.

The tea hour is always fun since the hostesses of the afternoon are responsible for preparing it. A week ago Mrs. Charles S. Dewey, the able president of the alliance, hurried around with a teakettle. Yesterday Mrs. William Nelson Pelous and Mrs. Arlene Peck Warwick, who were hostesses with Mrs. Cragg, arrived with boxes of cakes tucked under their fur coats. The assistance of Mrs. Cragg's maid was an exception to the general rule.

All of the sewing at the "causerie" goes to the French table at the Red Cross workroom. Thirty-six finished garments is the total to date. Last week several provisional members of the Junior League came to help sew and work off some of their "hours."

Leon Vallas, the general lecturer for the federation of the Alliance, dropped in at the clubrooms yesterday afternoon to make inquiry about the lecture he is to give at 5 o'clock today. Mr. Vallas is to speak on the intriguing topic "Louis Listens to a Bit of Music."

Mrs. Allen C. Howes was present yesterday talking about plans for the French skit she intends to give the Thursday she is hostess. Others who were sewing and chatting in French about everything from subzero weather to "Tosca" were Mrs. Edmond Meyer, wife of one of the French vice consuls in Chicago; Mrs. Jefferson Jackson, Mrs. Frederic D'Aix, Mrs. Josephine M. Robey, and Mrs. William Kleinh.

Bishop Welcomes Art Student at Hoosier Salon

Bishop Ernest Lynn Waldorf, head of the Methodist Episcopal church in the Chicago area, and Dr. W. W. Sweet head of the department of church history at the University of Chicago, assumed the roles of art students yesterday at the Hoosier Art salon in the Marshall Field & Co. store. They were given a lesson in painting by Clay Kelly, Chicago artist.

Both Bishop Waldorf and Dr. Sweet will be speakers Saturday at a luncheon and tour of the Hoosier salon given by the Chicago De Pauw Alumni association, composed of graduates and former faculty members of De Pauw university, Greencastle, Ind. Bishop Waldorf will speak on "Painting Life's Pictures."

More than 200 graduates of De Pauw are expected to attend the luncheon.

Louise Taylor Engaged to Son of Rev. J. H. Holmes

Mr. and Mrs. William Annan Taylor, 9516 South Winchester avenue, yesterday announced the engagement of their daughter, Louise, to Roger Wellington Holmes of Cambridge, Mass., son of the Rev. and Mrs. John Haynes Holmes of New York. Mr. Holmes was graduated from Harvard in the class of '26, M. A. Harvard '28. Miss Taylor attended the University of Chicago and was graduated from the Art Institute in 1927.

History of Art.

A free series of illustrated lectures under the auspices of the Abraham Lincoln center, by its art director, Morris Topf, will give the history and development of art, will begin next Thursday evening and continue every other week at the same hour and day.

A Job a Day

There is no denying that an old staircase can give a house an antiquated look as fast as any other "outgrown feature." Since the modern tendency is towards simpler things, graceful but comparatively plain new stairways give new life to the old staircase. It is a matter very often of simply buying ready cut and fitted stair parts and having a good carpenter effect the change for you. Since the hall is an all important spot in the house and the stairway very often leads to the second floor directly from this same hall, the importance of its appearance is not over emphasized.

Flattering Frock Will Lend Height to Mature Figure

WOMAN'S DRESS.

This smart dress has slenderizing points that are becoming to the mature figure. The neckline forms a scarf, and the modified puffed sleeves are good looking. Bias lines mark the hip line, forming a pointed outline at the center front, which lends height to the figure.

The pattern, No. 3338, comes in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, and 48 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 3 1/2 yards of 39 inch material, with 1/2 yard of 39 inch contrasting.

Private Collectors Loan Lincoln Objects to Display

An exhibit of Lincoln objects from private collections opened yesterday at the Pearson hotel and will be on view over Lincoln's birthday. Mrs. Eleanor Gridley, 5544 Harper avenue, who witnessed the founding of the Republican party at Jackson, Mich., on July 6, 1854, will lecture during the exhibit. Among the treasures is an ax owned by Mrs. Gridley which was made and used by Lincoln in his cabin in Coles county, Illinois. This cabin has recently been donated to the state by Mrs. Gridley. Joseph Wallace has loaned his Lincoln photographs, medals, and books, said to be one of the most complete collections of his kind. Two of the rare photographs are "Lincoln and Drummer Boy," and "Lincoln Crossing Richmond," both published in 1863.

Women Elect Officials at Episcopal Convention

Election of officers of the Women's auxiliary closed the ninety-sixth annual convention of the Chicago Episcopal diocese at St. Luke's Pro-Cathedral, Evanston, yesterday. Those elected were: President, Mrs. Charles Spencer Williamson, 1917 Dearborn parkway; first vice president, Mrs. Albert Cotworth, Oak Park; treasurer, Mrs. Alexander Dallach, La Grange, and secretaries, Mrs. J. S. Condee and Mrs. John R. Hollister, both of Chicago.

Heart Program.

Ways and means of combatting heart disease will be discussed at a luncheon meeting this noon at the Chicago Woman's club. Dr. Harold A. Bachmann will discuss "Those Hearts of Yours" and Mrs. Gertrude Howe Britton, executive director of the Chicago Heart association, will tell about "What Chicago Is Doing."

Revive Jersey, Get Sleekness All Girls Seek

New Material Will Prove Pleasant Surprise.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

That certain sleekness that every girl works hard to achieve is best contrasted by new jersey dresses. And if you have not heard about the fashion revival of wool jersey, you will be greatly and gleefully surprised at the new creations. For this revived jersey is a smooth, sophisticated young deb compared to the plucky looking old fashioned numbers.

Clever designers have worked wonders with this new stuff. They have cut and sewed and fitted, duffed and tucked as well as used bias seams, and the good looking results are knockouts. Another old friend that will contrast and trim these 1933 jerseys is white pique. You'll find that tailored bows, perfectly gathered bows, bandings, cuffs, and collars of this clever material on practically every dress they show you. And how they do tuck some of these bows in unusual places. For instance, one beige and brown costume with a long line tailored jacket, buttons precisely down the front and way below the top button of the jacket you will see a casual flat bow of white. Quite the flat place you would ever expect to find such a feminine decoration.

Swanky tailored jersey suits in all colors, the sort of suits you have been searching for, the slim slender things in dust blues, light greys, light beiges, and comparatively light shades of green as well as quantities of dark grey, navy, and black are now on display. You can wear them immediately under winter coats with lots of appreciative pleasure in your shopping foresight. They are perfect for late spring days, and some of the coats can be worn with vari-colored separate skirts and dresses all summer long.

Gorgeous new dinner dresses, the kind that can do double duty for a dinner and dance, are fashioned of colored "sheers." They are delightful and modestly priced dresses that ought to satisfy the most careful budget watcher. These sheers are fashioned of all the trick new patterned weaves, rough pebbly stuff, crumpled diagonals, blurred squared effects, and a fancy blistered surface. Intricate details, unusual flares in unusual places, slim hiplines, puffed and unpuffed sleeves, and some new touches of taffeta plaid silk make them outstanding buys.

Black and navy, a good spicy brown, and some poppy red make them festively colorful for any dress parade occasion. Pastel tones and light colors can be found, and used now and later. You can buy these sheers with and without the white accents, but the huge white flowers that contrast the necklines and waistlines are more effective when they are fashioned of stiffened organza or chiffon.

Satin shine and glimmer for evening. Long simple clinging models with or without short puffed sleeves fit snugly over the figure and usually swirl around the ankles. These midseason successes are most attractive with a large cabage rose of stiffened mousseline de sole in chamois white. Deep necklines are contrasted with wreaths of these white flowers. Very flat semi-tailored belts of stitched satin fasten with a trio of metal snap buttons around the waistline, keeping the silhouette as slender as a black shadow.

Chanukah Principals Will Entertain All Performers

Quilt Rambles on Way Under Diverse Names

Drunkard's Trail.

BY NANCY CABOT.

Though the pattern started out happily from Philadelphia, its home, under the title the "Friendship Trail," and traveled through Boston, changing its name as it went along to "Boston Trail," suggested "probably by the winding streets of Boston—it finally has reached the present generation staggering under the name of "Drunkard's Trail." With the dark patches set in a rambling fashion, it does suggest the rather unsteady steps of one who has lambed too freely.

By a simple rearrangement of the blocks—the saw fashion—other authentic quilt patterns—such as "Solomon's Puzzle," "Indian Pumpkin Vine," "King Tut's Crown," "Cleopatra's Puzzle," "Old Maid's Puzzle," etc.—can be made.

For a pattern of the "Drunkard's Trail" design, send 5 cents in stamps or coin to Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, printing your name and address clearly. Or call at the Tribune Public Service Office, 1 South Dearborn street.

Blame Movie Importations as Studio Closes

Shutdown at Universal Lot Brings Groan.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 9.—There's been a resounding groan here since Universal has decided to shut down on Saturday, throwing several hundred out of work, for an announced six to eight weeks. The theme of the groan is the charge that Universal's shutdown is the direct result of stepping into the foreign market and buying two British-made pictures, "Rome in Exile" with Esther Ralston, and "Be Mine Tonight."

The kick voiced around Hollywood is that, regardless of whether a foreign picture can be acquired at a monetary bargain at this time, due to depreciated sterling exchange, an important and dependent portion of the American film industry is caused to suffer.

The United Artists studio is almost completely shut down at this time, and the closing of one or two more film plants would be a major blow to the movie rank and file.

Conrad Nagel, president of Motion Picture Relief fund, had sounded an emergency call for contributions, saying relief has had to be curtailed in 300 cases, and that only 50 per cent of the film industry is supporting the fund.

Nagel says if every one in the film business earning more than $50 a week did as expected, and paid one-half of one per cent of one week's salary into the fund, they would have $250,000 and could care for all distressed cases easily. He said the fund had a $25,000 deficit after its 1932 operations, which had to be met by borrowing money.

Danny Ahearn, New York writer and character about town, is to become a Hollywood writer, having been signed to First National's typewriter corps. That studio has just bought his story "Wild Boys of the Road." Ahearn said this studio its recent Cagney yarn, "Picture Snatcher."

Warner First National has renewed first option on 12 beatifics of its stock girl group, hoping to develop new Blondels and Loretta Youngs. Eight who got their first option contract renewal are Maxine Cantway and Renee Whitney of Chicago; Anne Hovey, Mount Vernon, Ind.; Loretta Andrews, St. Louis; Lynn Brownings, Kansas City; Jayne Shaddock, Portland, Ore.; Barbara Rogers, Waycross, Ga.; and Margaret La Marr, Redondo Beach, Cal.

Radio Pictures has bought "The Silver Cord," Sidney Howard play, for Irene Dunne.

Frances Rich, Irene's daughter, gets her most important role to date in Fox's "Purgatorio."

In testing precocious youngsters for "Decease" at radio, Director Edward Giffith found 12 beatifics of its stock girl group, hoping to develop new Blondels and Loretta Youngs. Eight who got their first option contract renewal are Maxine Cantway and Renee Whitney of Chicago; Anne Hovey, Mount Vernon, Ind.; Loretta Andrews, St. Louis; Lynn Brownings, Kansas City; Jayne Shaddock, Portland, Ore.; Barbara Rogers, Waycross, Ga.; and Margaret La Marr, Redondo Beach, Cal.

Paramount is making what may be its first official move to utilize George Raft's facial likeness to the late Rudolph Valentino, by casting George as the Latin lover in "The Trumpet Blows," in which he will enact a Rudy-like part, that of a romantic Spanish soldier. Miriam Hopkins and Wynne Gibson are the feminine principals. Raft must finish "Pick Up" with Sylvia Sydney and then make "The Story of Temple Drake" before "The Trumpet Blows."

MINUTE MYSTERY CAN YOU SOLVE IT?

BY H. A. RIPLEY

(Copyright 1933: By The Chicago Tribune.)

Dr. Fordney is professor of criminology at a famous university. His advice is often sought by the police of many cities when confronted with particularly baffling cases. This problem has been taken from his casebook covering hundreds of criminal investigations.

Try your wits on it! It takes but ONE MINUTE to read! Every fact and every clue necessary to its solution are in the story itself—and there is only one answer. How good a detective are you?

THE PERPLEXING CORPSE.

While studying criminology in Vienna as a young man, Prof. Fordney was asked to accompany the investigating officer detailed to report on a tragedy in the suburbs.

Arriving at the home of a retired manufacturer, they found him hanging from the bracket of a chandelier in the middle of his study. The investigating officer seemed little interested in the man's feet dangling eighteen inches from the floor, but Fordney, in the first eager flush of contact with violent death, studied them carefully. One bedroom slipper lay on the floor beneath them, the other hung from his toes. What could be their significance?

The room, he noted, was rather simply furnished for one of the reputed wealth of Herr Schweinitz. In one corner was an office chair at a desk, beside which stood a straight chair covered with books and papers. To the side of the door opening onto the hall, near a smoking table, was an old sofa and below a high window in the opposite wall stood its duplicate. This, apparently, however, was quite new. A waste basket beneath the desk, in which Fordney found scraps of a memorandum detailing a financial agreement, completed the furnishings.

The footman and cook, who cared for the old man, appeared visibly nervous and agitated. Evidently the investigating officer was satisfied, for he reported it suicide.

"I'm sure you're wrong," Fordney said to the astonished officer. "It may not be suicide, murder, or accident."

HOW DID FORDNEY KNOW AT THE TIME SCHWEINITZ HADN'T KILLED HIMSELF?

[See solution on page 27.]

The temperature outdoors apparently did not deter any one who had planned to be there from attending the lecture Miss Lucy Martin gave yesterday afternoon at the Casino for the benefit of the Harris schools' charity fund, but the temperature inside the club did make every one in the audience keep on her fur coat to listen to the interesting lecture and to

Many Lovers of Winter Sports Welcome Cold Weather Parties

One Group Will Go to Lake Geneva for Ice Boating and Skating; Others Travel to Wayne.

BY JUDITH CASS.

SOME are "cussing" the snow and cold weather, but those who like winter sports are doing quite the contrary, and one group of young people who have been waiting for weeks, in fact for most of the winter, to go to Lake Geneva for some ice boating and skating are "ticked pink" that the proper kind of weather is here, and so they are planning to motor up there this week-end.

They will stay in a little old house that has been made over into a hotel and they'll have just the right kind of an informal, gay, we're-off-for-good-time party with lots of skating and ice boating to work up good appetites.

Those who are going are the Misses Margot and Adelaide Atkin, the latter known to her intimates as "A"; Miss Margaret Sinclair and her brother, Willis Sinclair; Miss Louise, known informally as "Luki" Neff; Miss Dorothy [Dodie] Dewes, Miss Margaret [Marry] Hamill, Miss Evelyn [Evie] Bouscaren and her athletic brother, "Pete" Bouscaren; Phillip Moore, Gilbert Osgood, Stanton Fletcher, and Barrett Richards.

Another group of sturdy young people are planning to go to Wayne to spend tomorrow and Sunday at the Dunham Woods Riding club, which is filled with house parties every week-end, whatever the weather.

Among those who are planning to go out there tomorrow are the Bush sisters, Carol and Emeline, Miss Martha Fitts, Miss Jessica Hamblen, William Goltz, Talbot Wegg, Ed Wilson, Earle Kribben, and the young John F. P. Farrars.

Last week the "Al" Shaws, the Ralph Valls, the Rawleigh Warners, and John L. Dole were among those who had a taste of country club in the old clubhouse over which Mr. Dole's wife's aunt, Mrs. Charles West [Bernice Dunham], presides as hostess with such a charming and hospitable manner.

Mr. Dole is in Evanston this winter, but when Mrs. Dole and young Johnny and Peter return from Warm Springs, Ga., in the early summer they again will be with Mrs. Dole's mother and sister, Mrs. Wirth S. Dunham, and Miss Jane Dunham, in the old castle-like house which stands just cataract near from the clubhouse.

Every one had a good time, however hearing about "The New Hot Spots of Europe," and the cold made them enjoy the cups of tea or coffee they received from the pourers, Mrs. Robert J. Dunham and Mrs. William Henegane more than if it had been warmer.

In the audience were dozens of boys and girls from the schools, thrilled at the success of their entertainment Miss Lillian Harris, the head mistress of the school; Mrs. Wallace F. Kirke who entertained at luncheon at the

WOMEN BRAVE STORM TO LEARN ABOUT MEAT CUTS

Expert Explains How It Should Be Done.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

Members of the Woman's City club, desirous of improving their housewifery, are making a serious study of meat cuts. A small group of them defied the snow Wednesday and attended a lecture and demonstration in the club headquarters, 6 North Michigan avenue, by Max Cullen, head of the merchandising department, National Live Stock and Meat board.

Mr. Cullen, wearing a double-breasted blue suit instead of the traditional butcher's apron, cut up a carcass of lamb for the benefit of the assembled housewives, pointing out that many cuts now difficult to serve may be made fit for even the most bungling carver by the process of boning in a butcher's shop. He also demonstrated boning pork cuts.

Sirloin Pork Roast.

"Persuade your butcher not to cut the carcass in two, but to use the whole," he said. "If you want a sirloin pork roast which carves like a charm, ask the butcher to take the end cuts of two pork loins and bone them, putting them together then."

He showed them how a crown roast of veal may be made with a water-tight pocket to be filled with dressing, pointing out that the latest way of cooking one is upside down, so the juice keeps the ribs moist.

The whole neck of the veal is used in making neck pieces, boned and compact. Mr. Cullen cut the meat from underneath the shoulder of the veal and boned and rolled it, making Saratoga chops. From the top shoulder section he made a mock duck for roasting. It resembled a duck in shape, the shank acting as the head of the duck. The remainder of the piece was boned and folded into shape. The flavor is even better than in the leg of lamb, he said.

English Lamb Chops.

"A crown roast, with a white frill on each rib, cannot be improved upon," said Mr. Cullen. "It is the most expensive cut in lamb, but I do not blame the housewife for liking it."

"If you want to please your husband, however, try English lamb chops. They are made like this, two inches thick. They should be broiled 25 or 30 minutes, while a half kidney is broiled separately, then placed on the chop."

The leg of lamb has presented a problem to butchers in recent years, with the shrinkage in the size of families and the housewife's reluctance to buy a roast weighing five or six pounds, Mr. Cullen said. His solution as outlined was to make the roast from the loin end of the leg, providing a roast of from 2½ to 3 pounds. This cannot be done if the carcass is split by the butcher, however.

Always Avoid This.
"Never let your husband carve with the grain of the meat, said Mr. Cullen in exhibiting a French leg of lamb, which has a "handle" of bone. "The roast should be carved across the grain."

The American leg of lamb Mr. Cullen made by removing the bone "handle" and by making a pocket in the side of the roast in which the shank meat was tucked down, fastened with two wooden skewers, making a compact, symmetrical roast.

"Here are end cuts of pork loin," he continued. "You have the tenderloin here, and the fine flavor desired. But the funny bones in the piece have made it all but impossible to carve. I'm passing on this idea to retail butchers now in order to make a perfect sirloin roast. These bones should be removed and a choice section is the result."

"Butterfly" pork and lamb chops also were demonstrated.

POTATO ACREAGE IN 1933 WILL BE REDUCED 3 PCT.

Surveys of the potato producing areas in the United States indicate that there will be a reduction of about 3 per cent in the 1933 commercial acreage if present planting intentions are followed. In Wisconsin the crop reporting service finds that a four per cent reduction in acreage is expected. For three successive years the Wisconsin growers have had comparatively poor growing seasons, including drought periods and freezing during harvesting. The 1932 acreage in the state was 260,000, which produced 22,620,000 bushels of potatoes.

For the United States the 1932 potato crop required more than three and one-third million acres. For 1933 the intended plantings are for 2,568,000 acres, three per cent less than in 1932.

AT LAST IT IS EASY TO PREPARE CHOP SUEY AT HOME

Local Grocers Offer All Chinese Chop Suey Vegetables in One Tin

The news is spreading. Women are telling women about La Choy Chop Suey—made more delicious at home. Men are talking about the new splendid dinner—chop suey.

It is so easy. Any good grocer has La Choy Chinese Vegetables and Chinese Sauces. The simple recipe is on the label of the can. Just add celery, onion and a bit of leftover or uncooked meat. You can do it in ten minutes. And La Choy Chop Suey is a complete meal with rice or potatoes.

Try this new menu variety in your family. Keep La Choy Chinese Sauces on hand to flavor soups, stews and gravies. Write for free recipe booklet, La Choy Food Products, Inc., Detroit, Mich.

BE SURE TO GET VITAMIN A IN FOOD, WARNING

At this time of year especially, make sure of your vitamin supply, is the warning of nutrition specialists of Purdue university. This is especially important, they say, in selecting food on a limited budget where less variety is possible because of the cost. This, too, is the season when fewest green vegetables and fresh fruits are available. It is also the season when there is least sunlight and the violet rays of the sun (the rays that make one of the vitamins) are weakest. Sunlight and green foods are important sources of certain vitamins, and all vitamins are essential to health.

Still Somewhat Mysterious.
"Until a comparatively few years ago vitamins were unknown," the Purdue staff explains. "Then it was demonstrated that natural foods—that is, unmanufactured foods—contain certain substances hitherto unrecognized but without which animals and human beings fall ill in various ways. Just exactly what these substances are, nobody knows—any more than we know just what electricity is. Several vitamins have been identified, but it is probably because they are still somewhat mysterious that they are called by letters of the alphabet—A, B, C, D, E, and G."

"What is known about vitamins, as about electricity, is what they do. Experiments have shown that without vitamin A in the diet human beings are particularly susceptible to bacterial infection of various sorts. Without vitamin D, children have rickets. Without vitamins B, C, E, and G, respectively, other troubles come."

Liver Richest Source.
"Among the common foods the richest source of vitamin A is liver, containing twice as much as the next richest sources which are spinach (raw and canned), cream cheese and butter. Vitamin A is also found next in value in whole milk, carrots, eggs, prunes, peas, tomatoes, string beans, and bananas."

RECIPES.
Scalloped Liver and Potatoes.
1 lb. liver, sliced thin
Salt and pepper
Flour
2 tablespoons bacon fat
1 quart thinly sliced potatoes
2 small onions, minced
1½ cups milk

Salt and flour the liver and brown lightly in the bacon fat. Place a layer of raw potatoes in a greased baking dish, sprinkle with salt and pepper, add some of the liver and onion, and continue until all are used. The top layer should be of potatoes. Pour on the milk, cover, and bake for 1 hour in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.), or until the potatoes are tender. At the last re-

NEGLECT OF COMMON CONSTIPATION IS A SERIOUS MATTER

Prevent This Condition with Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

The first question your doctor asks is whether you are constipated or not. He knows that this condition may cause headaches, loss of appetite and energy, sleeplessness. It is often the starting point of serious disease.

You can prevent and relieve common constipation so easily. Just eat a delicious cereal once a day. Laboratory tests show that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to further aid regular habits. ALL-BRAN is also a rich source of blood-building iron.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that found in leafy vegetables. Within the body, it forms a soft mass. Gently, it clears out the intestinal wastes.

Isn't this "cereal way" safer and far more pleasant than taking patent medicines—so often harmful? Two tablespoonsful of ALL-BRAN daily are usually sufficient. With each meal, in serious cases, if not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Enjoy ALL-BRAN as a cereal, or use in cooking. Get the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg, in Battle Creek.

SPICES A LUXURY OF THE ROYALTY IN OLDEN TIMES

Many Ships Sent Forth to Carry On Quest.

When the knights of old and their ladies gathered about the banquet board their fare was largely meats, gravies, and pastries, all heavily spiced. Spices were commonly used to disguise the flavor of foods which, because of the lack of proper refrigeration, had become slightly off in taste.

Spices were the luxury of kings and the quest of them sent armies marching, started the malleets clattering in a thousand shipyards, and raised the black flag to the top of the tall masts of innumerable pirate vessels.

A few grains of spice go a long way in the average modern kitchen, but commerce in this valuable palate-pleaser has shown no signs of slackening. Spices have become a necessity.

Inspected by Government.
In common with other imported foods, all spices shipped into the United States must be submitted to the skillful analytical method of government food officials, who examine these products to make sure that they meet the specifications for purity and honesty of labeling required by the Federal food and drugs act.

The housewife who goes to the store for spices should consult her grocer as to the nature and cost of different grades and varieties. Few buyers know very much about spices—where they come from and what they are.

Dried Fruit of Pimento.
Some people still believe that all spice is so named because it contains

BOY STAR CANNER OF FOUR-H CLUBS IN THE BAY STATE

Amherst, Mass., Feb. 9.—[Special.]—The canning champion among 4-H club members in Massachusetts is a boy! Kenneth Benson of Winchester, the only boy entered in the 1932 state canning contest, defeated 38 feminine rivals for first honors, winning a $50 scholarship in any college of his choice. Kenneth, who is 17, is the first boy ever to win the canning championship of the Massachusetts 4-H clubs.

Each contestant was required to enter two jars of canned vegetables, three jars of canned fruit, one jar of canned greens, one jar of canned soup, two glasses of jelly, and a jar of jam. In addition the contestants judged canned vegetables, fruit, and jelly and took an oral examination on canning methods.

Young Benson scored 895 out of a possible 1,000 points in winning. He was closely contested by two girls, Harlene Knowlton of Westford and Angela Fillos of Agawam, who tied for second place with 883 points each.

All the spices in a mixture. Allspice really is the dried unripe fruit of the pimento tree. Allspice gets its name because it has been said to have the odor of all the spices. Similar popular misconceptions are common with regard to other spices.

Examinations of imported spice tend to prohibit the sale in the United States of impure or adulterated goods or of those which are misbranded under the food and drugs act. The housewife should remember also, when making her purchase, to note carefully the words on the label which tell how much spice the can or box contains.

Some spice packages are deceptive and, since spices sell at a relatively high price, it will pay the buyer to read the label carefully.

LOG CABIN ROLL IS APPROPRIATE AT LINCOLN MEAL

It's a Dessert of Fluffy
Icing, Chocolate Cake.

Economical tips for week-end food shoppers—a Saturday morning radio feature—will be presented by Mary Meade over station WGN tomorrow morning. Tune in at 9:45 for Miss Meade's market chat.

BY MARY MEADE.
If you are planning a Lincoln meal for next Sunday you are doubtless already deep in schemes for an interesting menu.

But just on the chance that you are still sparring about for a really appropriate Abraham Lincoln dessert for a party or for simply a family affair, may I offer a suggestion? It is fluffy, a bit of imagination and is called "Log Cabin Roll," with a trace more accent on the roll than on the log cabin. Anyway, you'll have to admit that chocolate cake spiraled about with alternate layers of fluffy marshmallow icing would doubtless be an artist's conception of a log cabin. And here is the way we do it:

LINCOLN'S LOG CABIN ROLL.
4 tablespoons cocoa.
1 cup flour.
1/2 teaspoon soda.
1/2 teaspoon salt.
4 eggs, separated.
4 tablespoons cold water.
1/2 teaspoon vanilla.
1/2 cup sugar.

Sift together the flour, cocoa, salt and soda. Beat the egg whites until stiff, adding the sugar gradually with continuous beating. Beat the egg yolks until light, adding the water gradually. Add the vanilla and fold the yolks into the egg white mixture. Fold in the dry ingredients carefully and turn the batter into a long, shallow pan lined with greased paper. Bake in a moderately hot oven (375 degrees F.) for 25 minutes. Turn out on a damp cloth and cool slightly. Spread generously with marshmallow icing, roll jelly roll fashion and slice. Serve with sweetened whipped cream. Our next recipe had little to do with the Lincoln tradition, but food-wise folk have discovered that about about 11 o'clock at night, on regular as well as special days, people have a way of arriving home from work or school simply famished! We've done the spaghetti stunt and we've had gallons of rarebit and oceans of chicken à la king well within the memory of all of our guests. But something we haven't indulged in as often is a really simple, yet haven't learned the trick—a real Italian ravioli. And that's my second suggestion this morning.

RAVIOLI.
1 quart flour.
3 eggs, beaten until lemon colored.
1/2 cup water.
1/2 teaspoon salt.
Sift the flour into a large bowl. Form a hole in the center and pour in the other ingredients which have been mixed together. Carefully blend the flour with the liquids until all has been incorporated. Work until the lumps are removed, and then use in the following way:
1/2 cup minced cooked beef.
1/2 cup sliced cooked spinach.
1/2 clove garlic, chopped.
2 shallots, chopped.
2 teaspoons olive oil.
1 calf brain, cooked and minced.
1/2 teaspoon nutmeg.
1/2 teaspoon salt.
Dash of pepper.
1 egg, beaten.

Stir the garlic and shallots with the olive oil until slightly browned. Add the remaining ingredients and mix well. Spread out thin and let the mixture stand for half an hour to cool. Meanwhile divide the ravioli paste and roll out quite thin on a floured board, making two sheets of it. On one, place the meat mixture in balls the size of a small walnut, arranging the balls about 1 1/2 inches apart. Now beat an egg and brush it quickly over the paste around and between the meat balls. Place the second paste layer over this and cut out each mound with a round or rectangular cutter about two inches across. Press down the edges of each and drop the ravioli into boiling salted water. Boil slowly for five minutes, then drain. These may now be served hot with a rich tomato sauce and sprinkled with grated Parmesan cheese, or they may be used in a casserole dish. This is especially desirable for a Sunday night supper treat. Place the ravioli in a greased casserole, add 1/2 cup chopped mushrooms, 1 tablespoon melted butter, and 2 1/2 cups highly seasoned tomato sauce. Sprinkle with 1/4 cup of Parmesan cheese and bake in a hot oven (400 degrees F.) for 15 minutes. (Copyright, 1935, By The Chicago Tribune.)

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.
Stuff wet shoes firmly with crumpled papers. It keeps them in better shape than shoe trees, which may be so stiff that they stretch the pliable damp leather.

Dried peas and beans may occasionally take the place of meat in the day's meals.

Cod-liver oil stains may be removed when fresh by soaking the material in carbon tetrachloride or some other grease solvent. If the stain has been set and turned brown by laundering it may be necessary to use a bleach such as Javelle.

Louisiana Adds to English Recipes for Serving Rice

BY BETTY BROWNING.

After one-third of the world's population has been eating rice and growing it in the same old way for more centuries than history records, along came the English and invented rice pudding. And along came the Americans and made rice one of their multi-million dollar industries.

Wherefore, there are at least two reasons why Americans should eat more rice. But there are reasons even more important than a delicious dish and a growing southern industry to persuade us.

Rice is nutritious, so much so that it can sustain life with the addition of only a little protein—eggs, fish, meat, or milk. Because of the minute size of its starch grains and the delicacy of its cell walls it is one of the most easily digested of foods.

Fine Basis for Meat Cakes.
Furthermore it is economical. It not only makes an excellent substitute for potatoes on the menu, but is unrivaled as a basis for hash or meat cakes made of leftovers.

Louisiana cooks long have cooperated with Louisiana rice growers in producing exquisite rice dishes, using rice particularly as an accompaniment to fish. That, incidentally, is also an old Chinese custom. Try serving boiled, buttered rice or fried rice cakes the next time you plan a fish dinner.

To return to rice pudding, best of rice dishes, some one has said "As English as rice pudding," and the phrase rings true. Somehow the very sight of a bowl of rice pudding invokes memories of nursery days when Mother Goose characters were the most vivid in one's acquaintance.

It's the Stick of Cinnamon.
English rice pudding is not quite like our American variety, though. There is the matter of a stick of cinnamon. Our cooks occasionally sprinkle cinnamon on top, but an English cook puts a stick in the center and allows the flavor delicately to permeate her concoction.

Raisins, too, are generally frowned upon by orthodox Britishers. For persons with a sweet tooth a bit of raspberry or strawberry jam sometimes is provided. Without raising the delicate custard flavor is more noticeable and the cinnamon stick lends piquancy.

dium red salmon. The flakes are large and quite firm. The food value is nearly as high as red salmon. Because of its lighter color it sells for less and is, therefore, a good buy. It is a good fish for salads and for cooked dishes.

"Pink salmon comes from the smaller of all salmon. Its flesh is a light pink or brownish color, but its food value is high. The flavor of this salmon appeals to some more than the expensive red salmon."

"Chum or King salmon is the cheapest canned salmon, partly due to its yellowish colored flesh. This salmon has a very high protein content, equal to that of red salmon, which makes it wholesome as well as economical. It is excellent for creamed or scalloped dishes."

Descriptions of the King, Red, Coho, Pink and Chum grades, as compiled by Ruth Dawson, foods specialist at Fargo, N. D., are as follows:

"King or Chinook salmon is the largest of all salmon canned. It is considered the finest grade and brings a fancy price. It contains more fat, more meat and less skin than other canned salmon. The flesh has large flakes and the color varies from red to pink. King salmon contains both vitamin A and D, as well as iodine. It is excellent served as steak salmon directly from the can or in salads. The kind of salmon will be stated on the can and, if this grade is wanted, look for King or Chinook."

"Red, Blueback, or Sockeye is the second variety and is the most popular canned salmon. It has a very red, firm flesh, the flakes of which are smaller and contain less fat than King salmon. This salmon is also best when served from the can or in salads."

SCHOOL LUNCH LOOMS LARGE IN LIFE OF CHILDREN

Filling Box with Variety Is Big Problem.

BY PHYLLIS HAMMOND.
Readin', writin' and 'rithmetics for six hours a day and long trudge for little feet to and from the school house in snowy, cold, rainy, and sultry weather combine to make the noon day meal a looked forward to event in the daily lives of our boys and girls.

If your child carries his lunch to school as is often the case when the distance between classroom and home is not easily bridged during the noon hour or if mother works, it is important that this meal contain food of nutritive value and offer variety from day to day.

Perhaps the most trying problem of the lunch box is the provision of a beverage. Milk is often sold at the school but it is not a small thermos bottle enables the owner to carry milk, cocoa, or fruit juices. When water alone must satisfy the youngster's thirst, be careful to include an individual drinking cup or a supply of paper cups.

Vary the Sandwiches.
Sandwiches, the staple article for the school lunch box, should vary from day to day and should often be of at least two kinds. Cheeses, egg, salads, jelly, lettuce, salmon, tuna fish, sardines, and cold meats such as lamb, bacon, tongue, meat loaf, ham, or roast beef make good fillings.

Coupled with a meat sandwich, a few pickle nut sandwiches add a light and dainty touch. Blend chopped sweet pickles with peanut butter and spread between soda crackers. The use and abuse of the colostrum indifference should be varied often and the child should be taught to like different kinds of bread, white, brown, whole wheat, and rye. Sandwich bread may be at least a day old and such may be purchased at some bakeries for half price.

All sorts of fruit including cooked fruits, which may be carried in a covered jelly glass or a small jar banishes monotony somewhat. An occasional tomato should replace the apple, orange, or banana. Celery, a raw carrot, olives, dates, or figs may be tucked away as surprises.

Secret Apples a Delicacy.
Secret apples are qualified to serve as both fruit and sweet. This Tennessee recipe is given below:

SECRET APPLES.
6 large apples 1/2 cup brown sugar
12 dates 1/2 cup milk
Fill centers of the apples (previous to coring) with soft dates. Slice the skin of the apples to prevent them from bursting in the oven. Place in a baking dish and surround with a sirup made by dissolving the sugar in the heated water. Bake in a fairly hot oven (400 degrees F.) until tender, basting occasionally.

The apples may be carried in a large covered custard cup or glass jar with a screw top.

Cookies Are Popular.
Of all lunch box desserts, cookies are perhaps the most popular, for they may be baked in quantity and kept for several days. Suggested kinds of cookies are buttercotch, oatmeal, brownies, chocolate, ginger snaps, and peanut cookies. Cake, gingerbread, and custards may also be packed with some degree of safety.

Each food should be wrapped separately in wax paper or contained in paraffin cups, cartons, glass jars, or glasses with closely fitting lids. Two paper napkins, paper cups, and any utensils that might be needed such as a knife or spoon should be included. The heaviest articles and those less easily mashed should be placed at the bottom of the box.

Mary Meade's menu for Saturday and Sunday, prepared to enable you to take advantage of week-end food bargains and to plan attractive meals more economically, will appear in tomorrow morning's Tribune.

GROCERY TRADE RADIOS WORLD FROM BANQUET

Radiograms were exchanged with Shanghai and a steamer in mid-Atlantic from a sending station in the grand ballroom of the Palmer house last night at the annual dinner given by the Chicago Association of Manufacturers, representatives for 500 grocery buyers in the Chicago area.

The transmission supervised by Gates Ferguson of the Postal Telegraph company, included the dispatching of communications to captains of the steamers Exeter, in mid-Atlantic, and President Harrison, in mid-Pacific. Theodore Roosevelt, governor-general of the Philippines, and the consuls in Buenos Aires and Shanghai. In most cases answers were received within 30 minutes.

Robert Miller, executive vice president of the Associated Grocery Manufacturers of America, was the speaker at the dinner. L. R. Maxwell, president of the association, was toastmaster.

Gone Forever Is That Personal Element Once Seen on Farms

BY WILLIAM IRVIN.

Whatever plans the next administration may have for relieving the farmer, it can't go very far wrong in trying to put the personal element back into farming. The farmer of the progressive type today who goes in for new fangled devices designed to lessen the drudgery of farm life has lost touch with about everything but the mortgage.

His grandfather, for instance, was on speaking terms with everything on the premises through daily first hand contact and counted that day a total loss when he didn't go around among his stock bestowing a slap on various parts of the anatomy in a way that the recipient knew the slap was meant for it alone and for no other creature on the place.

A Slap and a Kick.
Furthermore, he was sparing enough with them [the slaps] that each and every animal receiving the accolade and a kind word such as "Good girl, bossy," or "Good old Jeremiah," was in a fair way to start growling at the farmer's feet out of sheer gratitude for such attention. Once in a while, of course, there was a mean critter who waited for its slap so it could tell just where to aim the kick it had been saying up for a week, but in the main they were an appreciative bunch to whom this camaraderie meant everything.

Such comradeship, however, is missing to a large degree today with what with the reduction in the state of mechanical efficiency. The milking is done by electricity, and the tractor has replaced the horse, which means that the element of personal contact that often resulted in lifelong friendships between the farmer and his stock has virtually been eliminated.

Slapping Hogs Still Done.
Perhaps the only thing that has escaped is the process known as slapping the hogs which never involved any preliminary preliminary slapping. It was because of the hog's thick skin and studied unconcern for everything but itself. Putting a hog on the back and shouting "Good old Chester" or "Good old Sam" was a thing that rewarded the kindness, be like caressing Al Smith's tower in New York and murmuring "Good old Empire State building."

"But what," you inquire, "has all this got to do with the price of butter?" I'm coming to that. The same mania for efficiency that has robbed farm life of much of this beautiful spirit of comradeship between man and beast has also taken the human element out of butter-making and

OHIO UNIVERSITY SUGGESTS MENUS FOR BREAKFASTS

Breakfasts that will send husbands away happy and the children to school with a song in their hearts are not difficult to prepare, according to nutrition specialists for the agricultural extension service at the Ohio state university.

Among the breakfast menus they suggest are three more or less popular and appetizing ones. One breakfast consists of baked or raw apple, rolled oats, bacon or ham and eggs, bread and butter, beverage. For children omit the ham and serve milk as the beverage.

Another good breakfast might consist of prunes, cornmeal mush, poached egg on toast, bread and butter, coffee or milk. Still another breakfast suggested by the specialists is tomato juice, cooked whole wheat, buckwheat cakes and syrup, coffee. It is best to omit the buckwheat cakes for children and to serve milk as a drink.

Beef Pot Roast, Smoked Meats at Lower Prices
In its regular weekly report issued for the guidance of consumers, the committee on marketing information of the Meat Council of Chicago states: "Pot roast of beef is recommended to the housewives of Chicago as the most economical meat buy over the coming week-end. Smoked meats, especially smoked ham, are also available at the present time at attractive prices."

WASHINGTON PIE IS APPROPRIATE FOR THIS MONTH

It's Really a Cake, but What's in a Name?

BY MABEL BRYANT.

When the calendar swings around to February, one's thoughts usually turn toward cherry trees, miniature hatchets, "Father, I cannot tell a lie," etc., which all means we are nearing Feb. 22, the date of George Washington's birth. And the many parties and luncheons that are given on that date would really not be quite complete without the famous Washington cream pie, which we have often read was a favorite dessert with the father of our country and a dish which Martha excelled in making for her illustrious husband.

Boston also lays claim to this very delicious cake, which assumes to be called pie simply because of its round shape, we suppose. But whether it was first made in Boston, Mass., or in Virginia, we do know that properly made it is most delicious and a fitting place of resistance with which to finish your meal when you celebrate Feb. 22.

An Old Family Recipe.

The following recipe for Washington cream pie has been in our family for many years. It has always been a special favorite with the men, and as they are most all children just grown up, that means the little tykes will also clean their plates in true kid fashion when served with a slice.

While it doesn't seem very large, the measurements in this recipe will serve eight very generously. The method is—two eggs, four tablespoons of cold water, one-half cup sugar, three-fourths cup of flour, one scant teaspoonful of baking powder and a pinch of salt. Separate eggs and beat whites until dry, then beat half of sugar into them. Beat the yolks with the water until stiff and bulky, then add rest of sugar and egg whites. Fold in flour which has been well sifted with baking powder and salt and lastly add half teaspoonful of vanilla.

Bake Half an Hour.

Bake in average size layer cake pan for half an hour in moderate oven. When removed, from oven split the cake like for shortcake while warm with a hot knife and pour the following filling between:

One cup top milk, two level table-spoons of corn starch, one-half cup sugar, scant half cup butter, one egg, pinch of salt and one teaspoon vanilla. Blend the sugar, butter and cornstarch—add the milk and cook in double boiler until very thick. Remove from fire and while boiling hot add well beaten egg and vanilla. While still hot pour between split cake and let it stand for at least five hours before serving so cake may take on flavor of the filling. Before serving, top with whipped cream and sprinkle slightly with nutmeg.

If one has a good sponge cake recipe that "never fails" it may be used with the cream filling with practically the same successful results.

FLORIDA GRAPEFRUIT

Nature's safeguard

AN ALKALINE reaction in your system will help keep flu away—and Florida grapefruit (Nature's biggest package of Vitamin C) creates this highly desired condition in these dangerous days when flu is stalking through the land. Eat the fruit, drink the juice in abundance and with delight—it's such a happy way of helping keep away the dreaded enemy flu. Florida oranges are equally effective—mix Florida orange and grapefruit juice, the combination will delight you—the flavor is better than either (if possible), a perfect blend of goodness! In these unsettled winter days, Florida citrus juice is a sunshine cocktail supreme. Florida grapefruit are bulging with goodness—cannonballs of citrus delight—and Florida oranges, regardless of size, are bargains in extra juice. The small ones are extraordinary values if juice is what you want. Three times a day or more—salute your taste and safeguard your health!

TANGERINES WILL TANTALIZE YOUR TASTE

Florida tangerines are the third member of Florida's famous citrus fruits—but so different. The peel comes off with one twist of the thumb. The segments come apart like the petals of a rose. Each is a delicious, healthful mouthful. Nothing can equal them in salads. Buy a dozen today.

Adolescence Presents Many Little Puzzles

Children of Same Age Are Worlds Apart.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

A mother of seven children writes me this: "Mothers of boys just entering their teens have some interesting and perhaps difficult experiences ahead of them. One acquaintance of mine was telling me this the other day:

"My boy of 15, a tall, good looking fellow, stands well in his class at school, but doesn't make many friends and has no interest in girls apparently. I am afraid he is in danger of being 'tied to my apron strings,' and I don't know how to avoid it. He has always been affectionate, but lately he seems too demonstrative, a bit soft. What ought I to do?"

"A second friend asked my advice: 'What can I do to regain the affection of my 13 year old son? He and I have always been such chums, the dearest friends and comrades. Lately he has become almost rude to me, can't stand to have me pet him or make a fuss over him, as he calls it. He doesn't want me to ask him where he is going, or give him any directions or advice.'

This second mother has the easier task of the two. More boys are like this one than like the first boy. He is only trying, unconsciously of course, to establish himself as an individual, soon to be a man. His mother should respect his desire to be treated more or less formally. She should avoid nothing his rudeness and untidiness, and should be very polite and impersonal to him. He only wants to be allowed to grow up and will appreciate his mother all the more after a while if she leaves hands off.

The over-protective boy is finding

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9.—(Special.)—President and Mrs. Hoover slipped away from the White House quietly last night to the home of Associate Justice and Mrs. Harlan Fiske Stone, and were entertained at a farewell dinner by the members of the President's "medicine ball cabinet," and their wives. Among the guests were secretary of war and Mrs. Hurley, the attorney general and Mrs. Mitchell, the secretary of the interior and Mrs. Wilbur, the secretary of agriculture and Mrs. Hyde, the secretary of commerce and Mrs. Thacher, the undersecretary of the treasury and Mrs. Ballantine, the assistant secretary of the treasury, Ferry K. Heath, the assistant secretary of the navy and Mrs. Jahncke, and Rear Admiral Joel T. Boone, physician to the President.

The members of the medicine ball cabinet presented to the President as a souvenir, a medicine ball with the signatures of all the members, and their wives presented to Mrs. Hoover a long string of ivory beads.

It is harder to transfer his interests and affections from home and mother. His mother must continue to be affectionate with him, but must do all in her power to encourage social contacts and pleasurable activities among those of his own age.

An excellent way to start is to invite the boys he knows best to dinner often, especially Friday and Saturday nights, when they have more leisure than during the school week. Sometimes she might ask the friends' mothers to go with them and the boys to a movie or a basketball game or some school dance just to watch.

She should be on the alert for any interest in the boy which can be diverted into social channels. If he doesn't like to act, he may like to be properly man for a play. If he doesn't like to play basketball he might be a scorekeeper.

Once she begins to see what is needed she will find opportunity to help her boy.

Wedding Plans of Miss Hasler.

Miss Eleanor Connelley will come from Great Barrington, Mass., to be her cousin's only attendant when Miss Constance Hasler is married to John McLaren Simpson on Saturday, March 18. The wedding is to take place in the small chapel of the Church of the Holy Spirit in Lake Forest at 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon with the Rev. Dr. Herbert Phinney officiating.

Only relatives and a few intimate friends will be invited to the wedding and the reception that will follow at the residence of the bride's mother, Mrs. Edward Lionel Hasler, on Vine avenue.

Wyndham Hasler will give his sister in marriage and Mr. Simpson's elder brother, James Simpson Jr., will be the best man.

Usher will be Samuel H. Woicott Jr. of Boston, A. Watson Armour III, and the bridegroom's younger brother, William Simpson. Miss Connelley and Miss Hasler made a joint debut at a garden party at the Hasler residence in Lake Forest in September, 1930.

Miss Connelley is a daughter of the "Centiles Connelley, who formerly lived in Lake Forest.

With the ground covered with snow and our ears and noses almost frozen every time we step out of our warm houses—haven't we much to be thankful for, though, that they are warm?

Mrs. Minotto Hurt in Crash.

From Phoenix we hear that Mrs. James Minotto was injured last Sunday night in an automobile accident which occurred on the highway near Hot Springs Junction and that she escaped serious bodily injury, but is suffering greatly from the shock.

The accident occurred when Mrs. Minotto's car, driven by herself, and another car, driven by a man whose name was not obtained, collided. The driver of the other car was questioned at the sheriff's office, but he was released without any charge having been filed against him.

Also from Phoenix we have word of the recent rodeo at Wickenburg, which is within motor driving distance of Castle Hot Springs and where the old days of '49 when shooting was a pastime were reenacted. To the many Chicagoans who were there "Jimmy" Minotto, known formerly in Arizona as State Senator Minotto—years ago he was Count Minotto, but he dropped that title in favor of plain mister some time ago—was the highlight of the occasion. He tries everything: sometimes he gets away with it, more often he doesn't (our correspondent's opinion), but the spectators always give him a grand cheer, and in the team roping contest at the Wickenburg rodeo he surprised every one, including himself, probably by roping his steers in 20 seconds flat. Among those whose names are known in Chicago who saw him perform this feat were Mrs. Minotto, Mrs. and Mrs. Farley Hopkins, Mrs. Minotto Healy, Mrs. James R. Offield, Miss Clara Lake, Dr. and Mrs. Mark Trude, Mr. and Mrs. George Gillespie, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph T. Bowen Jr., the Mark Healy, Mrs. Seymour Wheeler, and the Misses Christabel and Eleanor Wheeler.

Lighthouse Aids Tell Party Plans.

Two of the Lighthouse Aids braved the cold yesterday to tell you through the society columns about the grand idea they have for their annual party this spring for the benefit of the Chicago Lighthouse for the Blind. Instead of a supper dance they are going to have a dinner and it is to be in the Old Heidelberg Inn which is in the process of construction at A Century of Progress.

May 13 is the date they have chosen and by that time the inn will be completed and in running order even to the German barmen, who will serve the food and draw the beer. The girls said there would be a moon that night which would be ideal for those who want to take advantage of the boats that will be anchored at the pier just outside the porch of the inn, but we find upon investigation that the moon will be full on May 9, so by the 13th it will be on the wane and late in rising. Some may go boat riding, however, in the moonlight!

Mrs. R. Hampton Ripley is general chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements and among those assisting her are Mrs. John J. Jennings, president of the Aids, and Mrs. W. Calhoun Smith, who were the two who gave us the information about the party yesterday. Mrs. Franklin G. Clement, Mrs. Edward A. All of the 100 guests who accepted invitations to the "depression" dinner party Mr. and Mrs. Edwin W. Simms gave last night didn't know when they arrived that congratulations were in order. It was just thirty-five years before that Charlotte Smith had exchanged wedding vows with Mr. Simms after cocktails at the Simms' residence at 112 Bellevue place, the party of about 100 moved over to the Drake

A Few Things Discussed at P. E. N. Dinner

Critic Has Some Literary Chatter Today.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

At the P. E. N. dinner in honor of V. Sackville-West and Harold Nicolson, Graham Aldis, the husband of Dorothy Aldis, greeted another husband of a literary luminary with "We're just a couple of pen-poked husbands."

Mr. Nicolson was guarded against any such contingency by wielding his own pen in his own inimitable fashion. He was telling me about the extravagantly alluring aristocratic Russian woman who came to see him in the political change of heart—so that he could remain in Moscow with her, as related in "Secret Agent." The author sent her the miss. of "Secret Agent" [written some ten years after the events it recorded] so that he had said nothing in it that she preferred that he keep silent about he could change it. He hurled the copy back at him with an "Now I know that you have never loved me."

He pointed out to her that he could scarcely have proved his love more conclusively than he did by sacrificing his whole political career for her. But she was adamant in her belief that he had never really loved her. He finally succeeded in dragging out of her the reason. It was that he had described her, however lyrically, at their first meeting as a lovely lady with soft, alluringly curly hair. "I never had curly hair in all my life," she said. "You never loved me, or you would know that I have always had straight hair."

She certainly did have straight hair then, but his memory of their first meeting was so deeply etched on his mind that he was sure he could not have been mistaken.

He finally found a photograph of her which she had sent him the day after their first meeting and in it he unphantly found that her hair was definitely curly. When she said it did have a permanent wave, but it was so unphantly that I never had another, and she forgave him.

In the meantime, Mr. Nicolson said, the fair Moura is said to have succumbed to the blandishments of one of the best known of the English novelists, having supplanted another Russian woman to whom—as a sort of farewell gift—the author recently dedicated his latest novel with the most extravagant blessings.

Miss V. Sackville-West said that since her father's death she has not had the heart to visit Knole, the ancestral seat of the Sackvilles about which she has written so delightfully in "The Edwardians," in which she used the castle as its mise en scene.

It is not, of course, because of any feud with my uncle who now lives there, but because I love it deeply and I adored my father as he did. I cannot bear to see it without his presence.

She and Mr. Nicolson live about thirty miles away in what she says is a "extreme discomfort."

John Masfield gave a subtle definition of the poet the other night at his lecture when he said that the poet was blessed with the gift of the muses who know all things while others know only rumor. And, in his own way, he made his listeners actually believe that, as he said, "This world is but a shadow of a real world of beauty."

Outside a tempest was raging. Those

Paquin's Suit of Red Cloque Jersey with Fur Tunic Is Paris Sensation

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—The first spring suits are coming out along the boulevards of Paris long before these early crocuses or violets to announce the spring season. The most fashion able women here have ordered Paquin's stunning suit that has a very long jacket ending about at the knees and that sports a tunic of broadtail which makes it possible to wear in February brands of weather. The suit with its fur tunic is a permit to be chic and sensible in spring clothes so early and the Parisiennes lap it up.

Any girl who has an old fat fur coat already in its dotage can make her spring suit warm enough to wear instantly by transforming this coat into this kind of tunic. It is illustrated herewith.

The suit itself is made of a cloque jersey in Bordeaux red, with a surface in high relief and consists of the ultra smart straight jacket which is knee length, with a straight wrap around skirt crossed in front and open at the left side.

The fur tunic is made of gray broad tail and is almost as long as the jacket. It has no sleeves. It has a tailored skirt collar and revers of the fur and is closed down the left side on two buttons. There is a narrow leather belt around the waist and a perfectly huge patch pocket on the left hip. The combination of gray will red in this ensemble is specially smart.

A silk blouse is worn under the fur tunic, which may be omitted when the weather gets warm enough.

who had braved gales and subzero loiness to hear him were, under the lashings of the weather, surprisingly mild, although in number sadly few. But there were many remarkable weather beaten faces in the audience, not the result of an hour's battling a Chicago blizzard but obviously of years battling sea gales. There were more men than I would have believed possible in an audience at a poetry recital. They must have been lured there by Masfield's laurelship of the sea.

In a new brief life of Mark Twain by Stephen Leacock, which is one humorist giving another his due, there is the story of the famous dinner given to Gen. Grant by the Army of the Tennessee in Chicago, Nov. 15, 1867, at which Mark Twain made what Mr. Leacock calls his greatest after dinner success.

John W. Hiltman, president of one of the oldest publishing houses in America, Dr. Appleton & Co., used to live in Chicago and I have been trying for years to persuade him to write his memoirs.

On Wednesday I had a letter from him with a copy of "Mark Twain," which said: "You asked some time ago for Chicago reminiscences. When the dinner referred to [on page 83] was given... I was detailed as orderly to Gen. Grant and stood behind his chair throughout the entire dinner. The 'usual tiresome speaker' [which Stephen Leacock refers to but doesn't name] was Senator Vilas of Wisconsin, afterwards postmaster general in the Cleveland cabinet. I think that you might be interested in this little Chicagoana."

What I'd be more interested in would be a whole volume of the rich Chicagoana which I knew could come from Mr. Hiltman's pen if he'd only take it in hand.

Eugenie Leontovich Tells the Secret of Her Expressive Hands

An illustrated booklet of Miss Donnelly's stretching exercises may be obtained by sending a stamped, self addressed envelope. Address: Antoinette Donnelly, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Hands are fascinating things in action—when they are lovely. And we do see many lovely hands these days. But the most fascinating pair, to my mind, are to be seen playing in a current Broadway hit. I say "playing," advisedly, for these hands talk, they laugh, they give vent to as many expressions as any well trained voice could. In structure they are lovely, too. These hands belong to Eugenie Leontovich, leading lady in the stage adaptation of "Grand Hotel," and now feminine lead in "Twentieth Century."

It is not by accident, either, that Miss Leontovich's hands are the lovely, flexible, cleverly expressive things they are. Miss Leontovich has achieved her supreme hand beauty by concentrated effort and untiring perseverance. When a young girl entering the Imperial theater at Moscow among the first seasons she learned was the importance of a flexible, supple body. Not of a supple body only, but supple and grace and expression of every part of the body.

Regular daily exercises were taught Miss Leontovich and to this day she goes through her daily regime religiously. Her hands and fingers come in for their share of daily treatment. One of the exercises she does is to hold the hand gently away from her and allow it to relax completely till it is as limp as a rag. Then, gently at first but with increasing energy, she shakes her hand in a straight up and down motion, gradually working into a rotary motion. She does this with each hand for not less than three minutes. And it is both a morning and evening performance for her lovely, lovely hands.

No matter how tired or late she arrives home Miss Leontovich never fails

Chap Secretive About His Job Is Dangerous

BY DORIS BLAKE.

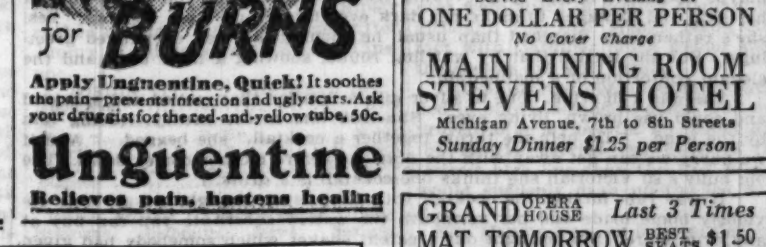

"He is a fellow who never works and, though his people are poor, always seems to have a lot of money to spend."

The girl, "Laurene," has sense enough to realize there's something wrong in the boy's character, but not sense enough to keep away from him. He has been forbidden her home by her father, so "Laurene" meets him on the sly. Her father idolizes her, gives her money for clothes so that she is better dressed than most girls her age, and this feature the boy appreciates, since he tells her he likes to be seen out with her. She has so much snapp and go.

And here you have the making of one of those dramas common to police annals. The girl meets a worthless boy on the street corner, a boy who has his pocket full of money and no visible means of support—a boy whose appreciation of a girl is for the dress she wears.

Too bad that blind youth is persuaded into alliances of this sort. Youth is not so blind as to go unscathed when it realizes that money to be spent must be earned and that legitimate toil merits no secrecy.

A girl should be fully aware of the source of income of the young man she is seen about with. If she has no other means of knowing, she should ask directly.

A World's Record

MORE than three thousand births without a single loss of either mother or child! That is the official Platt County record of Dr. W. B. Caldwell, in fifty years' family practice in Illinois.

No wonder mothers have such entire confidence in giving little ones Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin! If you have a baby, you have constant need of this wonderful preparation of pure pepsin, active senna, and fresh herbs. A child who gets this gentle stimulant for the stomach, liver and bowels is always healthful. It keeps children's delicate systems from clogging. It will overcome the most stubborn condition of constipation. It builds them up, and is nothing like the strong cathartics that sap their strength and energy.

A coated tongue or bad breath is the signal for a spoonful of Syrup Pepsin. Children take it readily, for it is really delicious in flavor. Taste it! Take Syrup Pepsin yourself, when sluggish or bilious, or you are troubled with sick headaches and no appetite. Take some for several days when run-down, and see how it picks you up.

It is a prescription preparation which every drug store has ready in big bottles, just ask anywhere for Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

Bright Sayings of the Children

Four year old Cynthia had learned "Row, row, row your boat," and was singing it one day, seemingly unable to stop. Over and over she repeated it until, with a big sigh, she said: "Well, I'm so tired rowing that old boat I could die." L. H.

which Respighi has treated with respect, developing them as orchestral numbers with care not to distort them as melodies. Then comes Georges Enesco's First Symphony, revived after a silence of several years, a well-written work that can be admired without danger of raising the blood pressure. At the end comes Sir Ed-

The second is that he once drew the largest sum of money into the Auditorium ever paid for a single appearance. It was shortly after the war, and he appeared there for the benefit of relief in Ireland. D. F. Kelly was the chairman of the committee and the late Mrs. E. I. Cudahy the chairman of the women's committee. There were stirring scenes before the concert went on. Boxes were auctioned and turned back to be auctioned again; $60 per box was the highest bid. The receipts showed an intake of no less than $76,000. Edwin Schneider was at the piano, as he will be Sunday. And the general character of the program was much as it will be Sunday.

New York, Feb. 9.—[Special].—The "Old Guard," which has built its social season around the Metropolitan opera for half a century, announced tonight that it was looking to the public, which hitherto has had no voice in its management, to help New York's greatest musical institution weather the depression.

A committee representing the box-holders who own the historic old opera house, the company which operates it and those whose voices help the Metropolitan maintain its traditional excellence has been formed to make a pub-lie appeal for contributions to the $300,000 guaranty fund which it is said is needed to enable the company to continue another year.

The outstanding lawyers and business men who compose the committee for saving Metropolitan opera have chosen Lucrezia Bori, the soprano, as their chairman, and it was said that she would announce the plan of campaign within a few days.

Regardless of the outcome of the public campaign, it was believed that a short season of perhaps twelve weeks was assured for next season. This belief was heightened not only by the fact that plans for next season are being made already but also because a dark Metropolitan Opera house would cost the boxholders almost as much in taxes and maintenance as their share toward keeping the opera alive. The taxes alone on the fifty year old structure at Broadway and 40th street amount to about $150,000 annually.

The proposal to put the opera on a national basis by dividing its season and its cost among San Francisco, Chicago, and New York was abandoned. It was understood, because of lack of sufficient financial response from those cities. It was believed that opera could be produced more economically, if not more profitably, in New York with short tours to neighboring eastern cities.

PARKER BATTLES O'SHEA TONIGHT ON FRONTON CARD

in Five Rounds.

Jackie Parker and Mickey O'Shea will meet in a five round bout at the Rainbow Fronton, Clark street and Lawrence avenue, tonight. O'Shea, former Central A. A. U. middleweight champion, will face Bobby Vernon in another five rounder. Other matches are: Jerry Kuerst vs. George Shroder, Johnny Fitzpatrick vs. Jim Richards, Art Mitchell vs. Buddy Kernes. Two wrestling matches will complete the program.

The show slated at the Loop Boxing club, 118 Madison street, tonight, has been postponed until Tuesday due to the sub-zero weather. Jack Moran and Freddy Langford, Chicago middleweights, will meet in the six round main event.

Jackie Sharkey, chief stock in trade for his 10 round bout with Johnny Pena at the Washington Boulevard arena Monday, Feb. 13, Monday night. Fighting is nothing more than deception. It is bluffing. Sharkey is conceded to be one of the best of the current boxers. He feints his opponents into knots and then works his havoc.

An interclub amateur boxing show will be presented at the 34th Ward club, 2342 Roosevelt road, tonight. Dick Sisk must meet Gus De Salvo, Milwaukee welterweight, in a six round contest on the Frankie O'Brien-Osk Till card at White City next Thursday. O'Brien froze his left ear yesterday while doing road work. Bob Grochok, scheduled to return from Minneapolis tomorrow for his match with Bill Baker at the Cicero stadium next Friday, has been matched to box Jackie Purvis at Indianapolis, Ind., Tuesday.

Tony Shea, west side bantamweight, faces Mushy Green in a six round contest on the Eddie Sheen-Snooks Campbell bill at Miami, Fla., Monday. Gary Leach, Gary, Ind., 160 pounder, has returned from California after a stay of three months there.

Condition of Jim Corbett Is Unchanged

New York, Feb. 9.—(Special.)—Jim Corbett, seriously ill with heart disease, was still fighting bravely today. His physician reported no change in his condition.

Despite the pain of a falling heart, the former heavyweight champion is the same cheerful gentleman Jim that made him so popular in his ring heyday, according to reports from the sick room at his home.

Corbett is being aided in what his doctor has called a hopeless struggle against death by the daily visits of old friends with a cheering word and talk of old times. Solacious messages by the bundle are arriving at the Corbett home. Jim reads as many as his strength will permit and Mrs. Corbett reads the others to him.

Mrs. Corbett is constantly at her husband's bedside, for Corbett, unwilling to concede that he is gravely ill, has refused to have a trained nurse. Corbett's meals are unusual for a patient in his condition. He has a daily bowl of soup, and lamb chops, his favorite dish, are a regular item in his diet.

One cheering message was from Frank Grumit, Shepherd of the Lambs club, of which Corbett is a member. William Muldoon, himself too ill to make a personal visit, sent his respects through Gen. Phelan of the New York state athletic commission. Corbett insisted on carefully wording a reply to Muldoon.

PURDUE MEETS NOTRE DAME IN TRACK TONIGHT

Lafayette, Ind., Feb. 9.—(Special.)—Members of Purdue's track squad will leave here tomorrow noon for South Bend where the Boilermakers will make their second start of the season tomorrow night against Notre Dame.

Although defeated by Chicago in the season's opener, Purdue hopes to make a better showing against Notre Dame. Purdue's hopes are built around Poppy in the mile and two mile. Sandbach in the quarter mile, and Crossman in the half mile.

N. U. Frosh to Meet Alumni Five Tonight

Former Northwestern basketball stars will come out of retirement at Patten gymnasium tonight to meet the freshmen in a revival of the annual alumni-freshman game for the 'Tin Pail' championship of the university. The game is sponsored by the Northwestern foundation, which will turn the proceeds over to the student loan fund and other university projects.

A ping-pong exhibition by a number of Chicago stars will be included in the evening's program. Among the players will be Max Rushakoff, Chicago district champion; Frank Work, former Illinois champion, and Paul Pearson and Tiny Lewis, state doubles champions.

Enlist Way Back Whenners. Waldo Fisher, captain and coach of the alumni team, has received recruits from as far back as the class of 1908. Among these old timers are Al Weinberger and Lue Merrill, '06; Larry Barker, '07; Harry Wells and Gene Plack, '15; and Marsh Underhill, '17.

The brunt of the alumni cause will be carried by Waldo Fisher, captain of the '27 team; Luke Johnson, star guard on the '28 team; Rut Walter, '29; Frank Marshall, '31; and Bob E. Carney, '32; Harold Schultz, '29; Bus Smith, '32; Bob Lockhart, '32; and Saul Farber, '32.

CHICAGOANS ON FROSH TEAM. The freshmen captain is Earl Keth, former Calumet center. Other starters are Irving Kopecky, Morton High school; Hugh Cunningham, De La Salle High; Paul Jones, New Trier; and Del Pendergraft, Cicero Park, Ill. Among the other freshmen players who will see action are Art Foster, St. Philip's High; Stan Everhart, Evanston; Vic Stock, Wheaton; Bill Beger, Ernest Pleschner, and Leon Fuller.

Two boys' teams from Winnetka and Kenilworth will play a curtain raiser to the main event.

FROSHMEN: Kopecky, Kurnham, Cunningham, Jones, Pendergraft, Foster, Everhart, Stock, Beger, Pleschner, Fuller.
ALUMNI: Fisher, Johnson, Walter, Marshall, Carney, Schultz, Smith, Lockhart, Farber.

Second Half Rally Wins for Loyola, 30-28

Davenport, Ia., Feb. 9.—(Special.)—Loyola university of Chicago staged a second half rally to defeat St. Ambrose college tonight, 30 to 28. The score at the half was 13 to 11 against the Chicago team.

St. Ambrose took an early 4 to 3 lead, but Chicago and Motz evened the score and Capt. Cavanaugh put Loyola in the lead, 6 to 4. At this time only five shots were taken and all were good. The Saints tied the score at 8 and later at 11 and went ahead, 13 to 11, on Urie's basket at the half ended.

St. Ambrose gained a 15 to 11 advantage at the start of the second half, but Hogan and Olenroth cut it to 17 to 16. Later the score was tied at 19 and again at 21, but the Saints then went ahead on a basket.

Motz and Hogan sank baskets to give Loyola the lead for the first time in the second half. Connelly made it 27 to 23 and threw a layup. Hogan and Hogan made it 28 to 24. Minetti scored for St. Ambrose, but Hogan's basket, his eleventh point of the last half, again gave Loyola a four point lead. Capt. Vukelich's long basket ended the scoring and left the Saints two points behind.

JUDGE DUNNE JOINS QUINTET OF OLD TIMERS

Judge Jerome (Duke) Dunne, who for many years played with Columbus in the north division, will be in the lineup of the North Side Old Timers quintet tonight when they meet the South Division Old Timers in one of the four games on the benefit program of the Knights of Columbus Basketball league at White City. St. Cyr vs. Englewood, Damen vs. Quigley, and Chicago vs. the other games will be played. In addition to Judge Dunne, the North Side Old Timers will include Al Krause, Ed Fallon, Buff Flannery, Wilfrid Smith, Elmer Hooker, Jack Tierney, Lou Mehalke, Dick Kraft, Len Sachs, Dave Walsh, and Steve Seplak.

Al Brown Outpoints Poutrain in 10 Rounds

PARIS, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Al Brown of Panama, defeated Poutrain, world's bantamweight champion, outpointed the French champion, Henri Poutrain, in 10 rounds tonight.

Royal National Bowlers Open Tourney Tomorrow

The Royal National Bowling association will hold its annual doubles tournament tomorrow and Sunday at the Legion alleys, 76th street and Cottage Grove avenue.

U. of C. Track Team Meets North Central

University of Chicago track men, who defeated Loyola Wednesday night, will meet the North Central team in the Maroon fieldhouse tonight. North Central has a clear record in indoor meets during the last two seasons, but the Chicago squad, which handed Purdue a decisive defeat last Saturday, has a comfortable margin over the Naperville college.

Two more Chicago teams, the swimmers and wrestlers, will be in action tomorrow night in Bartlett gymnasium. The swimmers engage Northwestern in an official meet, the two teams have met twice in practice contests with a program of relay events, which Northwestern has won. The Maroon water polo team, which has disrupted the conference championship with Northwestern most of the last two years, has one victory and a tie over the Purple to its credit in the two practice games.

The Maroon basketball team will be at Milwaukee to play the annual game with Marquette tomorrow night.

AL GREENE WINS NATIONAL A. A. U. DIVING CROWN

Al Greene won the National A. A. U. junior high board diving championship at the Lake Shore Athletic club last night, scoring 138 points to 125 for Ken Willard of Northwestern, who took second. Greene, competing for the Lake Shore Athletic club, won the Central A. A. U. championship on Wednesday night.

Phil Hogan, also of the Lake Shore A. C., who competed for Yale last year, captured the Central A. A. U. 500 yard free style championship, defeating a teammate, Cy Nelson, by inches in 6:56.8. Summaries:

JUNIOR MEN'S HIGH BOARD DIVING (N. A. A. U. championship)—Won by Greene, Lake Shore A. C.; Willard, Northwestern, second; Willard, Northwestern, third; Willard, Northwestern, fourth; Willard, Northwestern, fifth; Willard, Northwestern, sixth; Willard, Northwestern, seventh; Willard, Northwestern, eighth; Willard, Northwestern, ninth; Willard, Northwestern, tenth.

500 YARD FREE STYLE (Central A. A. U. championship)—Won by Hogan, Lake Shore A. C.; Nelson, Lake Shore A. ## VIRGINIA VAN WIE AND MRS. CHENEY IN COAST FINALS

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 9.—(AP)—Miss Virginia Van Wie, the nation's woman golf champion, coasted into the finals of the annual midwinter Southern California tournament today in the defense of one of her crowns. The Chicago woman, who won the local championship with ease last year, defeated Mrs. Roy Green of Culver City, Cal., 7 and 6, while Mrs. L. D. Cheney of San Gabriel, Cal., advanced to the finals by winning over Mrs. J. C. Wittig of Los Angeles by the same score.

They meet tomorrow over the 36 hole route in the finals just as they did last year, but the defending champion isn't expected to have things so easy. Last year she beat Mrs. Cheney, the former Mrs. Leona Pressler, by a almost absurd score, catching the Southern Californian far off her game.

AUSTRALIA GETS 36 RUNS WITHOUT LOSS OF WICKET

BRISBANE, Australia, Feb. 10.—(Friday.)—(AP)—Australia got off to a good start in the fourth cricket test match with England today, scoring 36 runs without loss of a wicket up to the lunch interval.

England won two of the first three matches and needs only one more victory to clinch the "ashes," emblematic of world cricket supremacy. Five test matches in all will be played.

HOUSE WINS HOST OF FRIENDS IN CHICAGO

Friendly Winter Resident Dines at Window Box.

BY BOB BECKER.
Chicago bird fans are eating a lot of "popcorn" for the time, a good looking winter resident with a crest and a cheery whistle. In fact, the timoness, a southern species which is found throughout Illinois, is giving thousands of bird students in Chicago a good end of entertainment. Letters from Glen Ellyn, Ill., and many other towns tell us about the timoness and his habits during the winter months.

Some weeks ago this department suggested that bird fans might look up the timoness and bring him around the feeding stations. This suggestion apparently was quite unnecessary. For example, we have a Glen Ellyn report on the bird, written by Mrs. H. C. Wandas, a resident.

They Dine at Window Box. "Your article recently about the timoness in Chicago was interesting to me because this is the first year that we have had them come to our window box to dine. As you wrote, they are attractive birds and have a pleasant, friendly manner. In fact, I am just as excited about these little crested friends as I am about cardinals, which are plentiful in this neighborhood during winter months. I don't believe the timoness is a winter bird as a rule. We also have timoness, nuthatches, chickadees, cardinals, bluejays, downy and hairy woodpeckers, and, of course, common sparrows."

From Leland, Ill. (southwest of Aurora), comes this report on "Tommy" timoness, a male bird named after the species. Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Watts write as follows:

"We have been watching a tufted timoness this winter around our place. The bird comes to an old apple tree for suet. He has a cheerful bird and has a loud, gay whistle."

Around Udon, just across the Illinois river valley from Starved Rock, it is only natural to see more timoness than we have anywhere north in Illinois. Miss Edith Frontice of Udon writes that there are quite a number of these birds in that locality. She adds some suggestions about the foods which the timoness likes. From her experience in feeding them, she says that timoness seeds are their favorite. They also like pumpkin seeds, nuts, suet, cheese, and bread crumbs."

Fourth Round to Cut Bowling Field to Sixteen

Fourth round competition in the Greater Chicago Bowling Alley association match championships to determine the winner of the matches conducted in New York for the match championship of the United States will resume activities at the Cheltenham alleys, 7447 Escanaba avenue, tomorrow evening.

From the original field of 168 bowlers the matches have narrowed down to 24. The sixteen high scorers tomorrow will qualify for the Feb. 18 round at the Cheltenham alleys, 7555 Cottage Grove avenue.

Mike Reith and E. Eberts were in the third round matches and will bowl games early tomorrow evening on the Cheltenham alleys for the right to qualify for the fourth round.

The following are the fourth qualifiers:

LAURITIS, SHAY LOST AS DE PAUL MEETS GRINNELL

De Paul university's basketball team will meet Grinnell tonight at the De Paul gymnasium without two of its outstanding players.

Capt. Tony Lauritis, guard and sensation shot for the last three seasons, and Bill Shay, a forward, were declared ineligible yesterday following failures in semester examinations. They will be lost for the remainder of the season.

A. T. & T. REPORT RELATES GAINS DESPITE SLUMP

Report by Gifford Cites Strength.

BY HOWARD WOOD.

How America's biggest corporation, the five billion dollar American Telephone and Telegraph company, reported its earnings for the year ended December 31, 1932, was a story of gains despite a slump.

BIG TELEPHONE REPORTS NET OF $7.82 PER SHARE

American Telephone and Telegraph company's net income in 1932 was $145,907,000, according to the annual report issued last night. This was equal to $7.82 per share earned on 18,661,833 shares, the average number outstanding during the year.

Net income was $22,045,000 short of the $167,952,000 paid out in dividends during the year, and therefore, surplus was tapped to that extent.

Dividends have been at the rate of $9 per share for more than ten years. Directors met next Wednesday to decide whether the $2.25 quarterly rate shall be maintained with the next payment on April 15. Prior to last year the company's dividends have always been covered by its earnings.

Last year's net income of $145,907,000 compares with $167,952,000 in 1931, $165,545,000 in 1930, $166,180,000 in 1929, and $143,170,000 in 1928.

Total revenues of A. T. & T. for 1932 were $232,497,000, of which $137,350,000 represented dividends received from subsidiaries. The subsidiaries in question, however, failed to earn these dividends by the end of the year.

Revenues from operation of long distance lines and payments from associated companies for services furnished under the license contracts made up another $59,270,000 of gross earnings. Most of the rest was accounted for by interest received, which totaled $24,970,000.

Expenses incurred in conducting the business, including taxes and depreciation, consumed $81,493,000. Interest on bonds, debentures, and other indebtedness took another $25,087,000.

Current assets of A. T. & T. at the close of the year totaled $187,543,000, of which $140,143,000 was represented by bonds temporarily invested in municipal, state, and United States government obligations and special bank deposits in anticipation of financial requirements. Another $30,481,000 of these current assets was in cash.

Current liabilities amounted to $69,123,000, of which $1,990,000 was the amount set aside for the January dividend payment.

Summarizing the operating results of all companies in the Bell system the report shows that total operating revenues for 1932 were $256,355,000, and the system's consolidated net income was $139,326,000. Dividends of companies in the system totaled $188,932,000.

As Western Electric company, which is not included in the above figures, operated at a net loss of about $12,000,000, the net income of the system, including Western Electric, was $53,300,000 less than dividends paid.

STOCKS PUSHED UP DESPITE HARD SLEDDING

Part of Early Gains Held at Close.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 9.—Doings on the New York Stock exchange assumed an air of no little importance for the space of about two hours today. Pools with special pets to nourish not conspicuously on the buying side, brokers came forward with reports of an encouraging increase in outside orders and everybody seemed out to put his improvement on the day to a concerted effort to get that much talked of spring rise in motion on traditional February schedule.

Around noon prices were bubbling from 1 to 3 points above their previous closing levels, with the turnover for the short end of the session topping 600,000 shares, which would pass for a good average full day's volume gauged by the standard of the last six months.

Turning into the afternoon, however, traders fearful of overdoing a good thing began to take their profits and presently the whole list was again in retreat, with selling orders outnumbering those to buy in every direction. Few of the outstanding performers of the early dealings were able to hold the line and most of the pivots had to give up from a third to a half of their early gains. The net improvement on the day was written down to a fraction to around two points.

Virtually the whole list shared in the appreciation, however, even the tobacco forgetting the cigar price war rumors for a while to join in the procession. Liggett and Myers and American Tobacco B each moved ahead a point or more and fractional gains were made by issues of the group.

A late reaction in wheat probably had something to do with the market's turn about. Observers also reported evidence of considerable short selling by holder operators of the bear persuasion in the final hour.

Railroad shares made about the best showing of any "group." Declaration of the regular Union Pacific dividend earlier in the day proved the signal for a sudden display of revived confidence in the carrier shares and prices of Union Pacific, Atchafalaya, New York Central, Chesapeake and Ohio, Pennsylvania, and other favorites of the division were bid up in lively fashion.

Optimistic reports regarding the earnings of American Telephone helped the utilities and expectations of a comparatively good unfilled tonnage report brought short covering into both issues of the United States Steel corporation, which rose about a point.

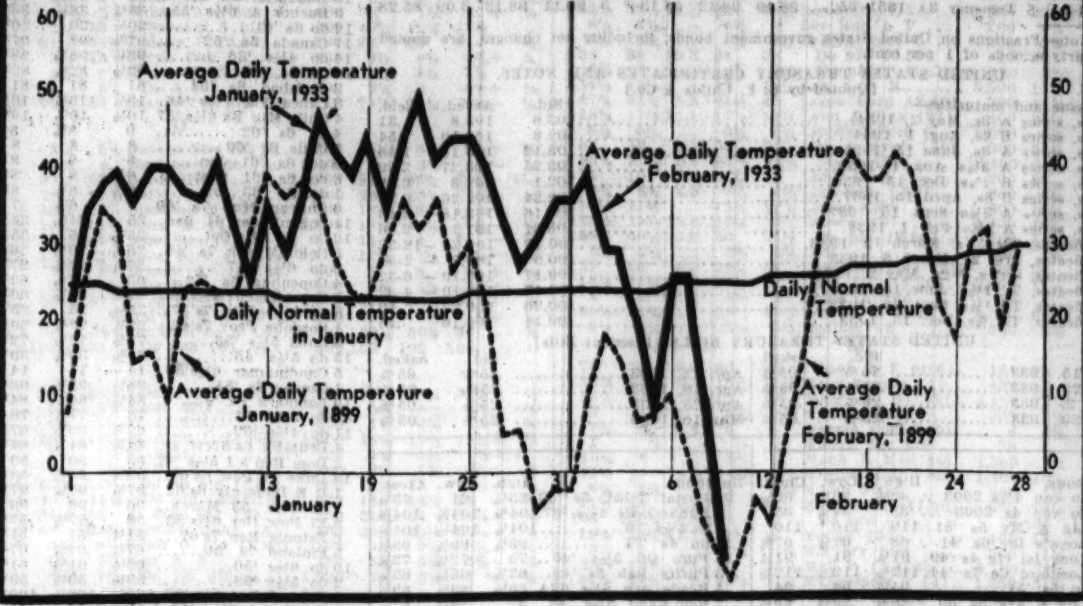

ASSD. TEL. UTIL. HEAD DECRIES RECEIVER SUIT

William J. Wardell, president of the Associated Telephone Utilities company, said yesterday that he is confident the receivership suit filed Wednesday against the company will be dismissed upon presentation of evidence.

The company is entirely solvent and officials feel that the bill will be dismissed forthwith when an answer is filed, he declared.

Last week the company requested holders of the note issue, which matures April 1, to agree to a two year extension.

How Cold Is It—How Cold Should It Be and, How Cold Was It in 1899?

Reserve Banks Resume Buying Federal Notes

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9.—Federal reserve banks resumed their open market operations last week for the second time in a month and added $20,000,000 worth of government securities to their portfolio.

Forced into this action by shipments of gold abroad and by new demands for money in circulation, the reserve banks appear to be again on the verge of a battle with deflation similar to that they waged last year. Committed to a policy of maintaining the high level of member bank excess reserves, the reserve system is having to fight off gold withdrawals and money demands both of which tend to drain away the reserves.

Return to Buying.

Gold and money movements week before last had forced the reserve banks to stop the selling of government securities which they inched on Jan. 4, but last week the banks took positive action and began buying government securities. Their purchases last week were the first they have made since their heavy open market operations ceased last August.

The net increase of $20,000,000 in the banks' portfolio of government securities resulted from the purchase of $65,000,000 worth of treasury notes and the sale of $45,000,000 worth of treasury certificates, the federal reserve board announced today.

Gold Shipped Away.

The increase brought the system's total holdings of government issues up to $1,784,000,000.

The system is endeavoring to support the excess reserves of member banks because they represent the idle funds brought short covering into the market. The banks' purchases of government securities in the open market force the reserve banks endeavor to force back into the idle reserves funds which the member banks would otherwise tie up in government loans.

MEMBER RESERVES SAG

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 9.—In spite of the action of the federal reserve banking system in increasing its holdings of government securities, member bank reserves showed a net decline of $19,000,000 in the week covered by today's report. The net decline was a discrepancy of an estimated volume of about $475,000,000, or over $100,000,000 below the level of a month ago.

The rise of $53,000,000 in money in circulation contrasted with the normal movement at this time, which is a very slight advance. It was the fourth successive weekly advance and carried the total to $5,705,000,000, or within $25,000,000 of the volume reported on Dec. 22 last.

A decline of $13,000,000 in monetary gold stocks reflected the losses resulting from recent earmarkings of gold here for foreign account.

Reserve Ratio Drops.

Gold holdings of the reserve system were down $5,050,000 in the week, while reserve note circulation increased $34,221,000 and deposits of the system dropped $40,000,000. The ratio of reserve to deposit and note liabilities combined fell to 65.3 per cent against 65.6 per cent last week.

The open market purchases of government securities by the system enabled member banks to pay off $116,050,000 of their borrowings from the reserve banks.

Brokers' loans, as reported by the banks, fell $23,000,000, reflecting the "washing out" of part of last week's $76,000,000 increase when it was connected with the Feb. 1 treasury financing.

Gold declines of the reserve system were down $5,050,000 in the week, while reserve note circulation increased $34,221,000 and deposits of the system dropped $40,000,000. The ratio of reserve to deposit and note liabilities combined fell to 65.3 per cent against 65.6 per cent last week.

HERE'S A BOOST FOR THE COLD—IT HELPS BUSINESS

Warm Weather Found in Bad Years.

Weather makes the financial and business page today. The chart showing the present temperatures and the normal is placed in these columns for the reason that freakish weather is an important business factor.

Severely cold weather like that of the present wave stimulates some lines, sharply restricts others. Few shops while the frigidities continue, but many are reminded of winter supplies, clothing, and equipment which they neglected to buy when the weather was moderate.

When it warms up a bit, these reminders may bring shoppers to the stores. Coal output, traffic, and sales are boosted by cold weather. And, likewise, the demand for heating goods like meat, rises as the temperature goes down.

Cold as Business Aid.

Some more far-reaching effects of cold weather. The February number of the magazine Fortune tells of a finding that business as a rule in the United States has been good in years when temperatures were below normal and has been bad as a rule when temperatures were higher than normal.

Thus 1921 was a year of poor business and high temperatures. The February number of the magazine Fortune tells of a finding that business as a rule in the United States has been good in years when temperatures were below normal and has been bad as a rule when temperatures were higher than normal.

Fortune presents a graph which indicates this weather and business connection over the last quarter of a century, with only a discrepancy of two.

The connection, says Fortune, "warm weather makes people feel less like producing or buying; cold weather stimulates people and production and buying."

Markets Perk Up.

The annual connection is not overwhelmingly convincing to be sure. But it is of interest to note that during the present cold wave, the security market and some of the commodity markets have displayed very pronounced strength.

The last time that the weather was colder than yesterday was on the same day 24 years ago. On Feb. 9, 1899, the maximum temperature was 8 below, the minimum 21 below, and the mean 14 below. Here is what the national bureau of economic research says about the business conditions which prevailed that year:

"Prosperity. Activity and expansion; extensive promotion and flotation of new securities; wages rose; rapid increase of commodity prices; larger foreign trade, especially imports. Easy money tightens, summer; wild speculation on stock exchanges sends stock prices to peak. June. Large crops and good prices."

Well, here's hoping!

Rise in Income Tax Rates Will Jolt Citizen

The ordinary citizen has not yet been jarred into consciousness of the staggering increase in the income tax which he is called upon to bear this year. With the dead line for filing only 33 days off, scarcely any returns have been made at the offices of the internal revenue collector in Chicago.

The delay in the filing of returns is partly due to official red tape. As yet the treasury department has not issued its set of regulations incorporating the changes in the law which were enacted in the revenue act of 1932 passed by the last congress.

Taxpayers in Ignorance.

That the significance of those changes has not been impressed on the public mind is vouched for by lawyers and tax advisors who assist taxpayers in preparing and filing returns.

The taxpayer will grow more articulate in his objections when he actually prepares his return and comes face to face with the necessity of paying up. Like the bill of the dentist and the doctor, the tax bill is forgotten until the time to pay. When it can no longer be put off the payer begins to howl.

That the hitherto docile taxpayer will discard his meekness when called upon to pay swollen tax on a shrunken income is the hope of the tax reform advocates. It is more than a hope. The belief is widespread that the real turning point in the fight to reduce public expenditures will come in the first fifteen days of March.

Examples of Taxes.

A few examples will suffice to show what the taxpayer faces.

A married man with one child and $5,000 income is obliged to pay $4 this year against $12.38 last year, barring extraordinary deductions and exemptions. On a $10,000 income he is required to pay $448 against $225 last year.

A single man with $4,000 income this year will pay $120 against $28.75 last year. A married man with no children and a $4,000 income is taxed $60 under the 1932 revenue act as compared with $7.50 under the 1928 act, which was in force last year.

A married man with two children will be required to pay $108 on a $5,000 income as compared with $10.12 last year.

Exemptions and Rates.

The personal exemption for married men is now $2,500 against $1,500 formerly. A single man $1,000 against $500. Exemption for each child is $400. The tax rate is now 4 per cent on the first $4,000 of income against 1.5 per cent last year. Over $4,000 the rate jumps to 8 per cent. In addition, on income over $5,000 the government assesses a surtax. The former 25 per cent credit on earned income has been entirely eliminated.

Security losses cannot be deducted unless the tax payer has held the securities for more than two years or has gains offsetting the depreciation.

Big Shrinkage in Assets of Insult Firm

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9.—[Special.]—The realizable assets of the bankrupt Mississippi Valley Utilities Investment company, an Insult company, did not comprise more than 10 to 12 per cent of the obligations of the company when it went into receivership in April, 1932, the federal trade commission was told today by J. W. Adams, an examiner.

The examiner testified that at the time the company went into receivership it owned a total of $43,838,338 book value of unlisted securities or securities not quoted. In addition, it owned $5,058,627 book value of listed securities which had a market value, as shown by auditor, for the receivers, of $584,087, or 11.5 per cent of their book value.

Estimates Drop in Assets.

"This showing," the examiner asserted, "gives some indication of the extent to which the company's assets had shrunk up to April 15, 1932. Assuming that this percentage ratio would be applicable to the company's total investment, it would indicate a possible value (probably higher than the realizable value) of $5,648,000 for the $48,896,863 total book value of investments, against which the company had outstanding $43,838,338 in preferred and common stocks to the total book value of $28,918,757 and notes payable to the amount of $19,896,861, or a total of $48,815,618.

"In other words, the ratio of realizable value to book value of assets which investments probably did not exceed 10 to 12 per cent and may have been much less than that at the time the company went into receivership."

Syndicate Deals Traced.

The examiner testified that the company's equities in stock syndicates in which investments totaled $400,649 are "practically worthless" at the present time. These syndicates, he explained, were formed to deal in the securities of Insult companies and involved three syndicates organized in 1927, 1930, and 1931.

He said that stock dividends to the amount of $4,492,709, as reported by Arthur Anderson & Co., auditors for the receivers, include both stock dividends in the proper sense and also stock splits as well, this being taken into the income account of the company at the market value on the day they were received.

The examiner testified that the total net income, or profit, after payment of operating expenses and interest, available for dividends for the period from March 26, 1926, to April 15, 1932, amounted to $9,081,457, out of which were paid cash dividends amounting to $5,951,625.

Criticizes Dividend Payments.

"Even during the period from Jan. 1 to April 15, 1932," the examiner said, "when it must have been evident to the management that the company was in grave financial condition, the board continued to declare dividends. The board's action in this respect was paid both on preferred and common stocks at practically the full quarterly rates."

He testified further that the bulk of the dividends on common stocks went to Middle West Utilities company, which owned 97 per cent of the common stock and managed the Mississippi company and was itself in financial straits.

"Further, it is to be noted that of the total of $9,081,457 of net income available for dividends, $4,492,709, or 49.4 per cent, consisted of stock splits and dividends declared in stocks and credited to income account at market value on the dates received. . . . and in addition $2,142,091, or 23.6 per cent of the total, was profits on sales of securities largely derived from the sale of securities of the Middle West Utilities company. This 73 per cent of the company's total income available for dividends was derived from these two sources."

Donations to surplus by Middle West to the amount of $3,858,538 were shown in the auditor's report. The examiner said, as "surplus adjustments." Had it not been for this donation, he said, the company's deficit as of April 15, 1932, would have been increased from $526,083 to $4,384,630.

CHARGES OUT OF SUBSIDIARY BY MIDDLE WEST

Receiver Thayer Reports to Court.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The treasury of the Mississippi Valley Utilities Investment company was looted and its preferred stock holders and creditors illegally defrauded by its parent company, the Middle West Utilities company, Eugene V. R. Thayer, receiver, charged in a report filed yesterday in the federal bankruptcy court.

The investment funds of the company, raised by the sale of securities to the public, were no longer in the hands of the company, Thayer charged, as to benefit the parent company at the expense of the subsidiary.

Mr. Thayer's charges were contained in a report recommending that a claim of $21,442,000 filed against Mississippi Valley by Middle West be denied. The amount represents a loan made by Middle West to its subsidiary and accrued interest thereon.

Funds Go Back and Forth.

It had been disclosed previously that the advance was merely a bookkeeping transaction. The amount received by Mississippi Valley represented the amount it had paid to Middle West in the form of dividends on its common stock. Mississippi Valley got a money bank in the form of a loan and Middle West was able to show the amount as income.

In describing the relationship between the parent and subsidiary companies, Mr. Thayer said:

"The records of Mississippi Valley Utilities Investment company disclose that the company was organized by Middle West Utilities company and that since its organization it and its affairs have been in all respects completely controlled and dominated by Middle West Utilities. It has never acted independently as a corporate entity, but has always been the dummy and creature of Middle West Utilities."

Charges Middle West Domination.

"Its affairs have been managed, dominated, and directed by Middle West for the sole interest of the Middle West company, which owns substantially all the common stock, and not for the benefit of Mississippi Valley Utilities Investment company or the benefit of the holders of its preferred and preferred stock."

The report goes on to say that Mississippi Valley entered into a contract with Middle West whereby the latter was to keep its books and manage its affairs.

"Under the cover of this contract," the Thayer report adds, "instead of keeping its books and managing its affairs for the best interests of the corporation, it so manipulated the business as to loot the treasury of its assets, illegally burden it with fraudulent claims, and thereby defraud its preferred stockholders and other creditors."

Says Middle West Controlled Funds.

"The books of the company were at all times in the custody of Middle West Utilities company. Its investment funds were derived almost wholly through the sale to the public of the prior preferred and preferred stock, were at all times in the complete charge of Middle West Utilities. Middle West Utilities caused the funds of the company to be depleted and dissipated, largely through the so-called sale by Middle West of securities owned by it to the Mississippi Valley company, and through causing such funds to be otherwise improperly and improvidently invested for the purpose of benefiting Middle West Utilities at the expense and to the detriment of Mississippi Valley."

"The affairs of the company were so improperly and improvidently managed and manipulated by Middle West Utilities that the assertion of a claim of any kind or character by Middle West is a fraud upon the other creditors and upon the holders of its prior preferred and preferred stock."

Brands Claims Fraudulent.

Mr. Thayer asserted that the improper management and manipulation is largely, if not altogether, responsible for the present financial difficulties of the company. The claim, he declared, is "fraudulent, inequitable, illegal, and void."

The receiver also recommended to the court that several other claims be denied.

POLAND, BACK ON GOLD STANDARD, GETS U. S. METAL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 9.—The Federal Reserve bank of New York today reported a loss of $15,999,000 in gold through earmarking of that amount for foreign account. Short covering into the bank was the largest of its kind since last spring, was connected by the financial community with the return of Poland to the full gold standard, and announced in Europe as effective on Wednesday.

It was thought likely that by way of strengthening its position at the time of this important step, the bank of Poland had converted into gold the foreign exchange reserves which it held. The amount earmarked appeared, however, a little large for Polish bank of issue and it was considered likely that it included some earmarking for the account of the operating banks.

The bank of Poland last year acquired a large amount of dollars at a discount at a time when alarmist reports from Paris about the imminent fall of the dollar to the gold standard caused a panic for a few days among Polish citizens who owned dollars.

ASSD. TEL. UTIL. HEAD DECRIES RECEIVER SUIT

William J. Wardell, president of the Associated Telephone Utilities company, said yesterday that he is confident the receivership suit filed Wednesday against the company will be dismissed upon presentation of evidence.

The company is entirely solvent and officials feel that the bill will be dismissed forthwith when an answer is filed, he declared.

Last week the company requested holders of the note issue, which matures April 1, to agree to a two year extension.

New York, Feb. 9.—With market sentiment making an apparent about-face, bond prices advanced over a wide front today.

Railroad issues were clearly the market leaders, reflecting an avid demand among dealers and investors alike with a spurt of from one to three points. The rally, however, was well distributed over the list.

Speculative carrier issues, including all issues of the Missouri Pacific, were actively sought for speculative account on reports that the reorganization plan for the road is being brought into shape.

All rail bonds were revived by the most insistent demand which has appeared in some weeks. Speculative issues were sought for trading accounts and investment grades continued to move out of the street.

The better feeling carried over to other sections of the market, notably United States securities and foreign.

MARKET SUMMARY

NEW YORK STOCKS—Strong. Shorts cover as rails rally.

CHICAGO STOCKS—Steady. Commonwealth Edison up 1 point.

NEW YORK BONDS—Higher. Rails lead rise.

MEANS DISASTER, SAYS BALLANTINE

"Must Preserve Roads to Help Recovery."

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9.—(AP)—Arthur A. Ballantine, undersecretary of the treasury, told a senate committee today it would be a tragic mistake to withdraw federal aid now from the railroads, "a key structure in the nation's financial system."

Similar evidence was presented by Alfred P. Thoms, general counsel of the Association of Railway Executives, in opposition to the plan of Senator Couzens (Rep., Mich.) to suspend Reconstruction corporation loans to carriers. Thoms said the government should liberate its loans to the roads instead of stopping them.

Widepread receiverships for the railroads would mean "wreck and ruin" for the country's financial structure, Thoms said, and further government loans should be given to carry them until reorganization could be effected.

Must Preserve Railroads. Ballantine said "preservation of the railroads and upholding them is an indispensable part of any program for recovery."

Couzens, author of the resolution and chairman of the banking subcommittee taking the testimony, said he had come to the conclusion the government should "get back of all the debt structure" or else stop trying to uphold part of it.

"I want your opinion as to whether we should discontinue support of any debts or get back of all of them," Couzens told Ballantine.

It would be a tragic mistake to discontinue support of these debts, particularly to the railroads," Ballantine replied. "The bad effect of withdrawing support would be felt by everyone."

As to how we should extend it I can't give you an answer. It involves what our resources are."

Present Crisis Like War.

"How much further can we go in borrowing?" Couzens asked.

"I don't know," Ballantine replied. "I think we should go ahead. This is like a war. We don't know whether we can lick the enemy or not but we must expend our last resource."

Couzens expressed sorrow at Ballantine's lack of confidence and the witness amended his statement to say he was "confident" the battle could be won.

Award Chicago Company $373,000 Job in Michigan

The Construction Materials company of Chicago was awarded a $373,000 contract for dredging at Monroe Harbor, Mich., by the United States war department, it was announced in Washington yesterday.

Montana Power.

Will you kindly give me what information you can on Montana Power 5s, due 1943? I contemplate purchasing some, but I do not want to assume any risk, W. L.

Montana Power company is controlled by American Power and Light company. It furnishes electricity to Butte, Great Falls, Billings, and 111 other Montana communities. Important sources of revenue are from sale of electricity to coal and copper mining interests in the state. The company has a contract to furnish power for the electrified division—40 miles—of Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific Railroad company.

Operating revenues for the twelve months to Aug. 31, 1932, were $7,754,000 and fixed charges were earned 18 times. For the preceding twelve months operating revenues were $9,028,000 and fixed charges were earned 1.22 times.

Operating revenues for 1931 were $7,738,000, against $10,147,000 for 1930 and $11,144,000 for 1929. Fixed charges were earned 1.95 times in 1931, 2.26 times in 1930, 2.88 times in 1929 and 2.74 times in 1928.

On Dec. 31, 1931, current assets were $7,085,000 and current liabilities were $4,235,000. Cash was $1,042,000 and loans and notes payable were $387,000. Funded debt was $43,627,000.

The $5,287,000 first and refunding 5s, due 1943, are secured by a first mortgage on all properties of the company. They are a business man's investment.

An Insurance Company.

I am considering purchasing an annuity contract from an insurance company. I prefer the provisions of their contract to those offered by other large insurance companies. While talking recently with the representative of a large eastern company I was told, "But they do not operate in New York state," as though to infer that some deficiency must thereby exist. Will you please explain the significance of this remark? P. V. H.

The mere fact that a company does not operate in the state of New York does not imply that it is not sound. There are many companies with excellent reputations that have not, for some reason or other, sought to be licensed to do business in that state. Our suggestion is to write to George S. Van Schaek, superintendent of insurance of New York at Albany, to find out whether the company ever was refused permission to do business in the state.

Tax on Dividends.

In income tax on Commonwealth Edison dividends paid at source, or do I have to pay the tax on them?—R. W. R.

You will have to pay the tax on the dividends if your income is subject to income tax.

WHEAT PRICES IN GOLD

Wheat prices in world's markets, reduced to United States funds at rates of exchange when they closed:

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Continued unfavorable weather and crop reports from the winter wheat belt led to sufficient buying of futures early yesterday to advance prices around 1/4 cent from the previous day's finish to 49 1/2 cents for May, the highest at which delivery has been since Jan. 15.

Failure of outside buying to follow the advance, combined with selling against offers and also hedging against further amounts of cash wheat turned over to mills by the Red Cross, reacted from the best figures, with the close unchanged to 1/4 cent lower. May was 47 1/2 cents; July, 48 1/2 cents; and September, 49 1/2 cents.

At the top price yesterday May wheat was 1/4 cent above the low of last week, which induced some profit taking, and the relative easiness in Winnipeg was also a factor. The Canadian market finished 1/4 cent lower, with export demand only 1/4 cent. Buenos Aires was 1/4 cent lower and Liverpool, 1/4 cent higher. May, in the latter market, was quoted at 48 1/2 cents at the time it closed, or the same price that prevailed for that future in the Chicago market.

Explains Red Cross Sales.

Hedging sales against cash wheat turned over to mills by the Red Cross in payment of processing, freight, distribution, and other charges have been fairly heavy in the aggregate, but the selling is now regarded as nearing an end.

Congress a number of months ago donated $5,000,000 of farm board wheat to the Red Cross for relief purposes, but without furnishing any funds to convert the grain into flour or to pay the freight on the latter. According to local Red Cross officials it costs them approximately 1.5 bushels of wheat to cover milling and other costs for each bushel of flour produced, while 4 1/2 bushels of wheat are required for a barrel of flour.

It is estimated that around 30,000,000 bushels of the government donation will be required to pay for the processing of the grain. Late last week the Red Cross announced it had 20,000,000 bushels of wheat still on hand. On the basis of one-third of the total grain being required for milling, freight, and other charges, this would leave 13,333,333 bushels of wheat to be given to mills before the total donation would be exhausted.

Corn Reacts After Advance.

Corn was firmer early with wheat and on commission house buying. May advanced 1/4 cent to 26 1/2 cents, the highest at which it has sold since Jan. 28, but it was back to 26 cents at the close, and within a few minutes of the latter part of the session. Net losses for the day were 1/4 cent, with July 27 1/2 cents and September 28 1/2 cents. Country offerings were somewhat larger, with local handlers buying 12,000 bushels. Trade in oats and rye was not large, with oats finishing unchanged to 1/4 cent lower, May being 17 1/2 cents and July 17 1/2 cents, while rye was off 1/4 cent. There were no trades in May wheat, but a nominal close at 27 1/2 cents, or 1/4 cent higher than on Wednesday.

Lower Income of Farmers

Hurt Sales of Deere & Co.

Moline, Ill., Feb. 9.—(AP)—The annual report issued today by Deere & Co. for the fiscal year ending Oct. 31, 1932, said that a decrease of 67 per cent in sales as compared with the preceding fiscal year was due to abnormal low prices of farm products with a consequent curtailment of the ability of farmers to purchase implements and also a tendency on the part of dealers to reduce inventories.

COTTON ADVANCES, REACTS, BUT HOLDS SOME OF GAINS

Good buying of cotton early advanced prices around 10 points, commission houses and the trade taking the offerings and the market appeared to have a good tone. Reports from textile trade was more favorable, the mills absorbing a greater supply of cotton.

The close was at net gains on Chicago futures at 2 1/2 points. Other market was up 3 to 7 points, with New Orleans leading. Spots in the latter market were up 5 points to 6.10; Galveston at 6.05; also Houston, 6.05; Liverpool closed at 6.05, 4 points net higher. Prices follow:

Grain Elevator on Goose Island Destroyed by $1,000,000 Fire—Chicago Has Its Coldest Day in 34 Years

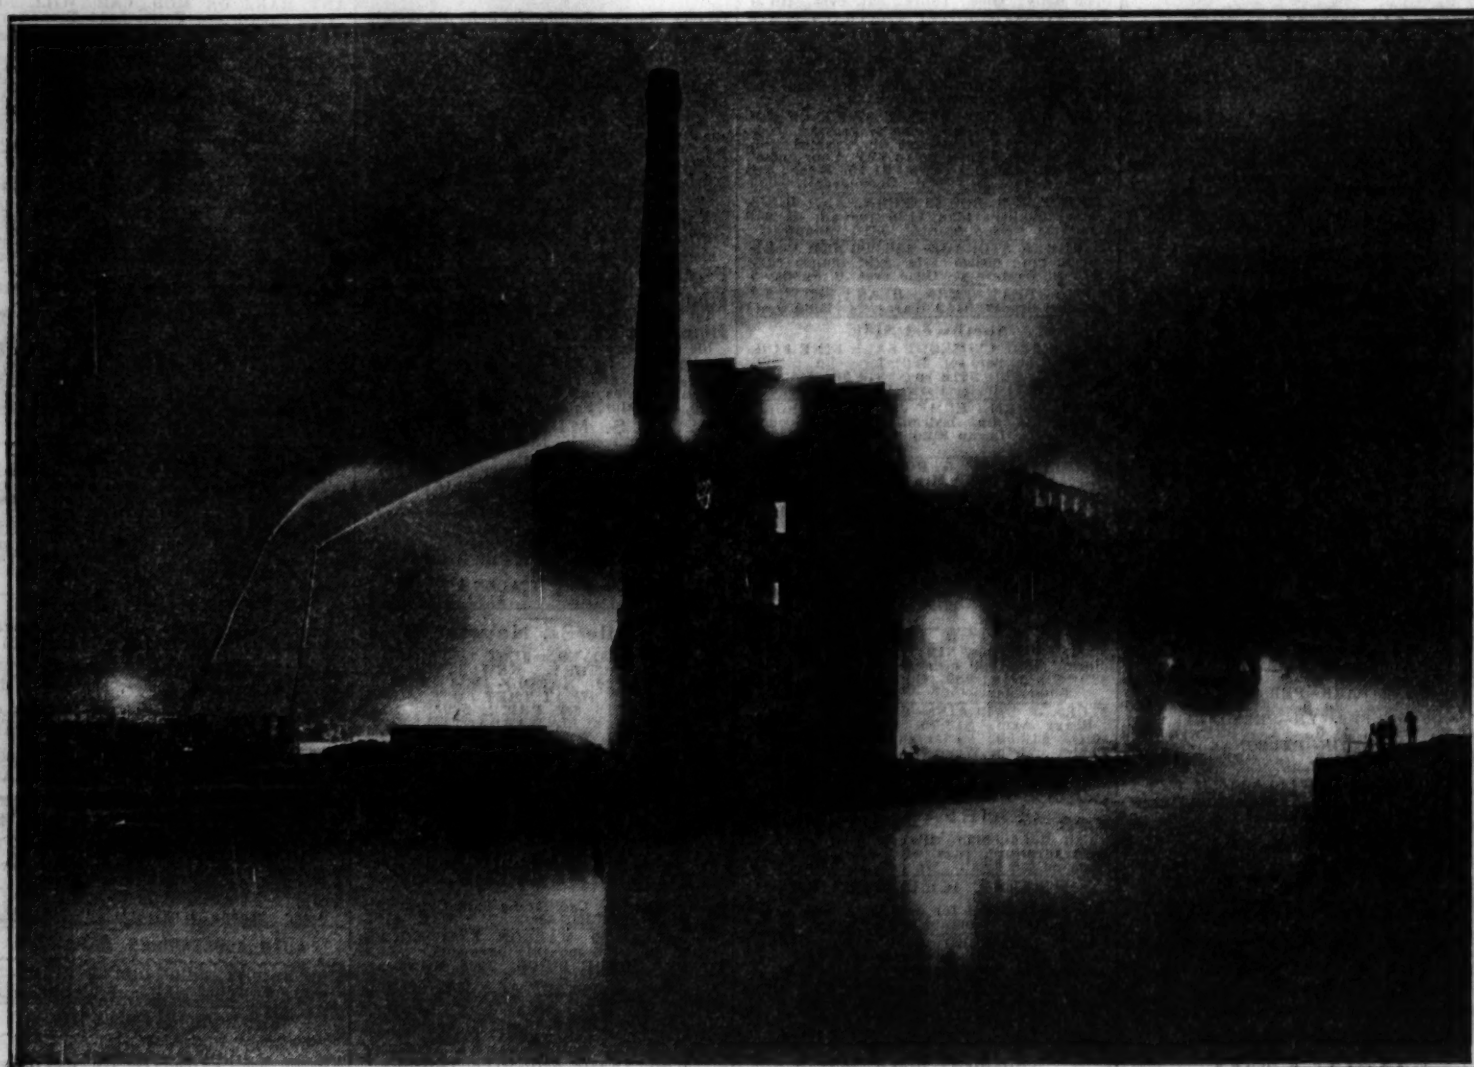

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

THREE HUNDRED FIREMEN BATTLE TO PREVENT SPREAD OF ELEVATOR FIRE TO OTHER BUILDINGS. A view of the Rosenbaum grain elevator fire last night which shows how fiercely the flames raged through the 1,700,000 bushels of grain. Spectators across the river from the fire were kept warm by its heat. The blaze started with a terrific explosion and gained headway rapidly.

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

THOUSANDS WATCH BATTLE AGAINST FIRE IN GRAIN ELEVATOR; SIGHT IS A SPECTACULAR ONE. The blazing Rosenbaum grain elevator as it appeared from a short distance away, with the north branch of the Chicago river in the foreground. Fireboats seeking to reach the scene were delayed at bridges. Burning embers from the fire were blown through the air for blocks and menaced other structures.

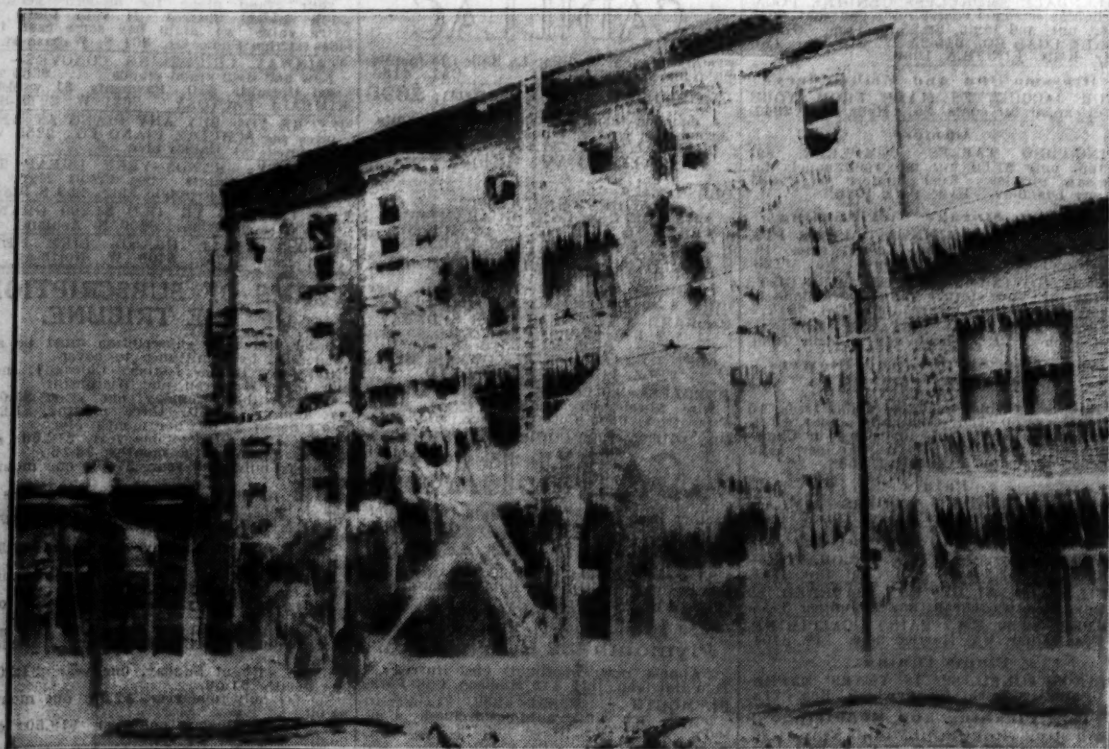

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

OVERFLOWING TANK MAKES SCENE OF BEAUTY. The water tank at the Oak Hill cemetery, 119th street and Kedzie avenue, after it had overflowed in zero weather and formed mass of ice. Ice was the order of the day yesterday—at fires, in the streets, and in many other places.

ICE FORMS RAPIDLY ON FIRE ENGINES. Members of squad No. 10 as they helped fight Rosenbaum grain elevator fire in sub-zero temperatures. Ice formed quickly on both men and equipment.

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

APARTMENT BUILDING IS MASS OF ICE AFTER BLAZE ROUTS FAMILIES. Structure at 1403-1409 East 47th street, at corner of Lake Park avenue, after firemen had battled blaze for hours in sub-zero weather. The water froze almost as soon as it struck the building.

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

WEATHER BET LOSER GOES FOR A STROLL. Charles Riddle, who wagered with a fellow employe that mercury would not go below ten, walking on Michigan avenue wearing straw hat and minus overcoat.
